Swan Meadow School Receives National Grant

A team of educators from Swan Meadow School, Oakland, has been selected to receive a $5,000 Student Achievement Grant from The NEA Foundation for the Improvement of Education.

Classroom teachers Elizabeth Rees-Gilbert and Robert Whetzel, along with Frostburg State University lecturer Kara Rogers Thomas, will utilize the grant to increase students' appreciation for regional history and culture.

Students will conduct interviews with members of the local Amish and Mennonite communities. They will collect stories, recipes, music, poetry, quilting techniques, farming practices and Pennsylvania Dutch vocabulary. Using these interviews, the students will create a nonfiction reference book with hands-on activities for the local schools and libraries to teach Garrett County and Maryland histories.

The $5,000 NEA Foundation Student Achievement Grants are given to school staff to develop unique projects designed to foster high student achievement by implementation of creative, project-based learning. These break-the-mold ideas focus on closing the gaps in achievement that exist among various subgroups of public school students.

These grants are part of the NEA Foundation's Small Grants Program and are intended to reach directly into the classroom to improve teaching and learning. The NEA Foundation has presented 85 Small Grants totaling over $400,000 during the current school year.

"The innovation and creativity public school employees can bring to their students with just a little extra support is absolutely amazing," says NEA President Reg Weaver. "These may not be the largest grants available to public school employees, but they're oftentimes the little extra that makes the difference between success and failure for innovation in the classroom. It's also important to remember that these grants fund ideas created by BLOOMING DANDELIONS are as common as rain in Garrett County during late spring, but they are exceedingly rare on December 30. Nonetheless, Mariel Schenk and her daughter spotted these two Saturday while taking a walk on their property, Western Trails along Mayhew Inn Road. Mariel's husband Gene, who took the photo, said he has lived here on the Mountaintop all his life and has never before seen such a thing this time of year. Weather prognosticators indicate that the unusually warm daytime temperatures are to continue at least through the weekend, much to the dismay of skiers and other winter sports enthusiasts.

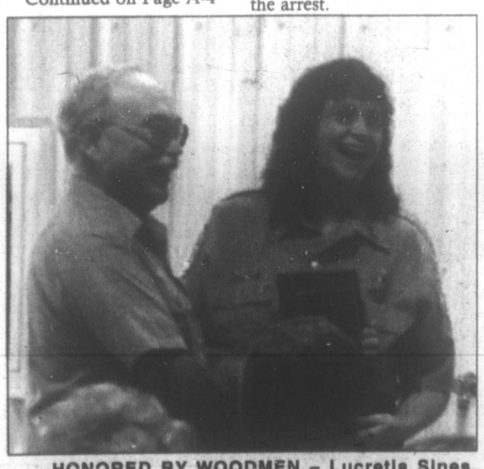
Three Men Arrested On Drug Charges After Traffic Stop

A 2007 Chevrolet Impala was stopped for speeding on I-68 and three Florida men were subsequently arrested for possession of marijuana and paraphernalia Saturday at approximately 5:55 p.m., according to the Maryland State Police.

Eric Hernandez, 23, Miami, the driver was pulled over by Tfc S. LeMay of the MSP east of Chestnut Ridge for allegedly traveling at 84 miles per hour in a 65 mile per hour zone.

Hernandez was initially placed under arrest for violating a rental agreement, but the aforementioned possession charges were filed after the police searched the vehicle and seized a glass pipe containing burnt marijuana and two packages of marijuana.

The two passengers, Colin Matthew, 21, and Ryan David Haft, 21, of Miami, were also charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. Deputy A. Wilson of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted in the arrest.



HONORED BY WOODMEN – Lucretia Sines, Friendsville, was recently presented the Outstanding Citizen Honor Plaque for recognition of service and noteworthy achievement in the community. The award is given out annually by Lodge 45 of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society to an individual who has shown commendable service to the community. Sines has been a member of the Friendsville Days Planning Committee over the last few years and was instrumental in providing a display of military memorabilia at last year's Friendsville Days. She is a member of the Friendsville Zoning Appeals Board, is an emergency medical technician for Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and writes the Friendsville column for The Republican. She is pictured with Burton Lytle of Lodge 45, who made the presentation at the December open house of NGCRS Station 3.

Local Mother And Daughter Killed In Car Crash; Driver Allegedly Intoxicated

A Garrett County mother and daughter were killed in a single-vehicle crash on New Year's Day on Dry Run Road off state Route 495 north of Swanton at approximately 1:22 a.m., according to the Maryland State Police.

The police said that John Dale Carden, 41, Swanton, was allegedly drunk when he drove his 2003 Toyota truck off the right side of the roadway, causing the passenger side of the vehicle to collide with a tree. Carden's wife, Georgina Marie Alton, 45, and her 11-year-old daughter, Precious, were fatally injured by the impact.

The police charged Carden with two counts of homicide by a motor vehicle while intoxicated, two counts of homicide by a motor vehicle while impaired, driving while impaired by alcohol, reckless driving, negligent driving, and failure to drive right of center.

Carden suffered minor injuries and was transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where the charges were filed. Carden was released by the District Court commissioner after he posted a $50,000 unsecured bond.

The police said that their investigation is continuing with the assistance of the Maryland State Police Crash Team, which specializes in reconstructing vehicle accidents. The MSP were assisted by the Bittinger Fire Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's

Traffic Stop In Oakland Leads To Drug Arrest

When a 1998 Ford was stopped for a traffic violation on 11th Street in Oakland, two West Virginia women were arrested for alcohol and drug violations Monday at 2:20 a.m., according to the Oakland Police.

The driver, Mckella Dawn Duckworth, 20, Terra Alta, was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol after she failed a field sobriety test. In searching the vehicle, the police found and seized what appeared to be a controlled dangerous substance (CDS).

Reportedly, Duckworth's passenger, Jessica Lynn Gaither, 24, Bayard, attempted to throw away a smoking pipe and suspected CDS. The women were transported to the Garrett County Detention Center for a bond hearing.

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted the Oakland Police.

Negligent Driving Leads To Arrest

A passenger vehicle operated by Friendsville resident Marvin Junior Silbaugh, 23, was stopped Saturday on Maple Street, Friendsville, for negligent driving.

A Garrett County sheriff's deputy detected the odor of alcohol when contact was made with the driver. After Silbaugh failed to perform field sobriety tests, an arrest was made for driving under the influence.

Upon search of his person, the deputy located a switchblade and drug paraphernalia in his pants pocket. Silbaugh was arrested and charged with negligent driving, driving under the influence, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of marijuana.

The door of the second home on Blooming Rose Road was unlocked. A paintball gun and a CD were reported missing.

Additional burglaries in the Friendsville and Accident areas have been reported over the last several months. The police are asking the residents in these areas to be vigilant about reporting suspicious activities.

Several Arrests Made Over New Year's Weekend

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made numerous traffic stops this past weekend, with a few resulting in arrests.

Early Saturday morning, a traffic stop was made on Garrett Highway, near Glendale Road. Rodney Duff Spatafore, 45, of Put-In-Bay, Ohio, failed to perform sobriety tests to the deputy's satisfaction and was placed under arrest. He was charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired, failure to drive right of center, and driving on a suspended out-of-state license. He was later released.

In a separate incident that morning, Jeffrey Ray Henderson, 29, of Oakland

Beitzel, Edwards Review Garrett County's Legislative "Wish List"

The Garrett County commissioners and other local officials presented their 2007 legislative "wish list" to Senator-elect George Edwards and Delegate-elect Wendell Beitzel last Thursday. The local lawmakers will draft several pieces of legislation and introduce them in the next Maryland General Assembly session, which gets under way Wednesday, Jan. 10.

Two of the proposed bills will address possible ways to increase dedicated funding for local volunteer fire and rescue units. One bill would allow the commissioners to increase the fire tax levy up to $.04 per $100 of assessed value of real property. Currently, the tax is $.02.

The bill would also increase a public utility company's personal and operating real property tax up to $.10 per $100 of assessed value.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg said the legislation did not mean the commissioners would specifically increase the tax, but it would give them the "latitude" they needed to increase funding for emergency services.

The commissioners also requested a bill that would give them the authority to implement an impact fee or excise tax on new construction. The fee/tax would be based on square footage for building permits, with revenue earmarked for fire and rescue units.

"This is another consideration we're looking at to provide funding for emergency services," Gregg said. "This is not a done deal. But we're asking for the ability to have that consideration."

Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, said an excise tax would give the county more "flexibility" in allocating the revenue than would impact fees.

Legislation could be drafted, he said, that would add Garrett County to the list of counties that already have the ability to impose excise taxes on new construction. Dorchester Coun-ty, specifically, allocates the tax to emergency services, Nelson noted.

The Garrett County Department of Economic Development also requested a bill that would discontinue current state requirements and the associated cost for filing business personal property tax. Though this tax has been eliminated in Garrett County, local businesses are still required to pay the state $300 and notify it that no tax is due.

Two Donations Help Improve Local Library

The Ruth Enlow Library in 2006 received two sums of money that are being used for improvements to the meeting room at the Oakland branch.

Garrett County commissioner Denny Glotfelty donated the remaining money in his campaign fund, which totaled $1,075. Rob Michael managed the fund.

Another $8,000 was donated by the Daniel E. Offutt Trust in Weston, Conn.

"The library is much appreciative of these donations, as they make possible improvements that benefit patrons and the community," said a Ruth Enlow spokesperson.

A "FEW" YEARS AGO, this Deep Creek Lake area resident posed for the cover of a 1930 Saturday Evening Post. At age 8, wearing a Phillip Morris bellboy uniform, Jan Janssen modeled in 1928 for friend of his father and commercial artist J. Jackson at his home on Long Island, N.Y. The magazine bearing his likeness was published in '30. The painting is now located at Jan's home in Garrett County. A visiting friend, Dan Davis of Chicago, was interested in the work and resolved to find the publication date, which he discovered was March 20, 1930, and then went on to find possibly the only remaining copy of that issue at an archives store in Texas. Inside the magazine are telling signs of those times. The magazine itself cost just 5 cents. Inside are advertisements for Campbell's soup at 11 cents per can, a pair of genuine calf-skin leather shoes for $5, and a new 1930 Pontiac priced at $750. The 8-year-old on the cover went on to serve the United States Air Force as a pilot in World War II, an ROTC commander at West Virginia University, and became one of the founding deans of Garrett College.

The series will prepare participants for the medical coding national certification exam and an entry-level position as a medical coding specialist, according to a college spokesperson.

People who are new to the field or are re-entering are advised to first take Medical Terminology. This course includes an analysis of medical terminology designed to give a clear understanding of medical terms on the basis of roots, prefixes, suffixes, and derivatives.

The class will be held Jan. 29 to Feb. 21, Mondays, Wednesdays, and two Saturdays, from 6 to 9:15 p.m., except Feb. 3 and 17, when the course time will be 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A BALANCING ACT!

"Buyer's market." "Seller's market." What does it all mean when you find yourself ready to buy or sell a home?

The basic concept behind a "buyer's market" is that there are more houses or residential properties for sale in your community than there are buyers qualified to make a purchase. This creates increased competition among the sellers for those fewer buyers, and can put the buyers in the "driver's seat" when it comes to negotiation.

It logically follows that a "seller's market" happens when there are more prospective buyers than there are homes for sale. Now it is the buyers who must compete against each other for available properties, often to the benefit of those who are selling.

Many markets across the country have enjoyed a seller's market for the last few years. This is largely due to the fact that interest rates have been so low that many more buyers applied, and qualified for, financing than in previous years. Now interest rates are slowly creeping up, resulting in most markets balancing out toward the middle ground.

Regardless of market conditions, many people don't have much choice when it comes to when they want or need to buy or sell a home. Life dictates these decisions for us. Either way, consult a professional real estate agent for advice in order to get the most benefit from your real estate experience.

JANUARY 2007
FILMED BY THE PROFESSIONALS AT HERITAGE MICROFILM, INC.

We Have the Technology...

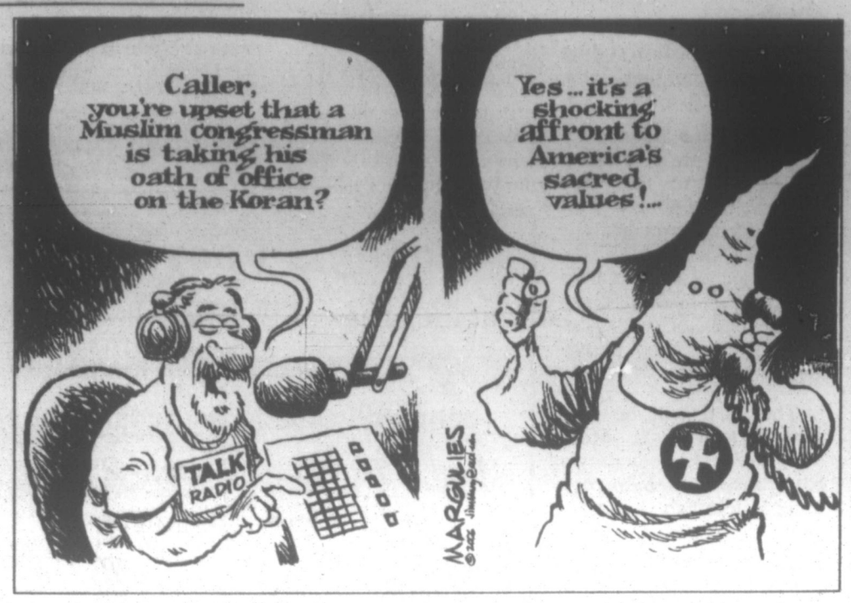
Garrett County's new year was ushered in by tragedy, as a local mother and daughter were killed in an automobile crash. The driver of the vehicle was allegedly drunk.

Thus it is great news that Toyota Motor Corporation announced yesterday it is working to develop a fail-safe system for cars that detects drunken drivers and automatically shuts the vehicle down if sensors pick up signs of excessive alcohol consumption. The cars will not start if sweat sensors in the steering wheel detect high levels of alcohol in the driver's bloodstream. There will also be sensors that will detect abnormal steering, and a special camera that will show that the driver's pupils are not in focus, in which case the car's engine would simply shut off. The company hopes to make it standard equipment by the end of 2009.

Nissan Motor Company, another Japanese manufacturer, is also experimenting with breathalyzer devices that detect if a driver is drunk. There are already some of these in use in the United States.

It seems that concern about alcohol-related accidents in Japan has surged following a series of accidents last year, one in which a drunk driver collided with another vehicle carrying a family of five, which plunged off a bridge and resulted in the death of three children.

It is way past time for each and every new vehicle in the United States to be so equipped, and it is obviously crucial that the detection systems can in no way be disabled by the owner. With still so many innocent people continuing to die needlessly on our roadways because of drunk drivers it is clear that sobriety checkpoints, extra police patrols, encouraging the selection of a designated driver, more education about the effects of excessive alcohol, suspension of licenses, and increased penalties for DWI by our judges are simply not enough. We have the technology. Let's use it. .



The BookWorm

by Terri Schlichenmeyer

BEST OF 2006

Okay. So you got a pile of book store gift certificates for the holidays this year and they're burning a hole in your pocket. I can identify with that.

But you don't want to waste those precious EGCs on just any old book, do you? No, you don't, because you never know what you might get.

That's okay. I did all the dirty work for you. I slogged through just over 200 books this year, and while I read some not-so-stellar books, I also read some that I raved about for months. Here, in no certain order, are those can't-miss titles of 2006

Top Five Fiction

Chasing the Wolf by Nathan Singer – This quick-to-read novel is fast and furious, involving racism, time travel, and a bunch of quirky twists. You can read this book in less than three hours, but why would you? It's meant to savor.

Water for Elephants by Sara Gruen – Part love story, part circus history, this novel is the story of a former elephant worker who revisits his memories in the twilight of his life. Beautiful, wonderfully written, this story will yank you in on page 1.

Rusty Nail by J.A. Konrath – Jack is back in this third Jack Daniels novel. A killer is on the loose and Jacklyn is on the trail. That's the good news. The bad news is, the killer knows where Jack lives. If you love a mystery that turns you upside down so many times you get whiplash, this one is it. I think this one is Konrath's best work so far.

Smonk by Tom Franklin – A dark and nasty western with a syphilitic alcoholic one-eyed hero and a 15-year-old prostitute at its heart. Not a book for Grandpa, but very, very enjoyable if you're tired of the same old shoot-'em-up.

She Ain't the One by Carl Weber and Mary B. Morrison's Fatal Attraction, urban-style, this is the story of a man who falls in love with the wrong woman and pays for it. Written alternately by the authors, this book showcases the talents of both.

Top Five Non-Fiction

Answering 911 by Caroline Burau – Burau, a veteran of a Minnesota 911 call center, writes about her experiences working in the hot seat... the calls she'd just as soon forget and the ones she'll always remember. This is another of those books you really don't want to end.

Final Exits by Michael Largo – A quirky, fun (but never morbid) look at the ways we die. This book is a trivia buff's paradise and something you can buy for the person who claims he "never reads," because he'll read this.

High School Confidential by Jeremy Iversen – Iversen went undercover at a high school, masquerading as a teenager even though he was an adult and a college graduate. Appalling and uplifting, this book will make you look at teenagers in a whole new light.

Kicked, Bitten & Scratched by Amy Sutherland – In this book, Sutherland follows students through two years at a premier California zookeeper's school. Not just another "animal" book, this will appeal to every pet lover and zoo-goer.

Every Contact Leaves a Trace by Connie Fletcher – True crime, oral-history style. Fletcher interviewed dozens of forensic scientists about their favorite cases, the unsolved mysteries and the strange things that happened on the way to the morgue. This book is not for the faint-of-heart, but it's un-put-down-able if you're a true crime fan.

Truck: A Love Story by Michael Perry – Yes, I can count. I know this makes six books on my Best of Five, but I couldn't resist adding this book to my list. It's a sweet, introspective book about a man, a woman, and a truck. And it's a must-read.

Three Kids' Books

The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane by Kate DiCamillo – A sweet, Velveteen Rabbit kind of story with a heartwarming twist. I loved this book because it made me nostalgic in the way that well-loved teddy bears and stuffed kitties do. A perfect book for 8-12-year-old girls or little kids who need a read-aloud story at bedtime.

Escape from the Carnivale by Dave Barry and Ridley Pearson, performed by Jim Dale – Peter Pan's friends are in trouble. One of them has been captured by bumbling pirates and she needs the Lost Boys' help. I listened to this book in audio form and found myself sitting in my car while the track ran out. Exciting adventure for 6-to-10-year-olds, but a great listen for parents, too.

Here, There Be Dragons by James A. Owen – Another exciting adventure that mixes literature, history, mythology, and fantasy into a story that I couldn't put down. Meant for those 12 and up, this one will appeal to grown-ups who love Sherlock Holmes, Harry Potter, Zeus, and Tolkien.

So there you are. A pile of the Best of 2006, perfect for reading in the waning days of winter, tucking in your suitcase for vacation, or enjoying – just because. Now, if you still have gift certificate money left, ask your local bookseller for his or her suggestions and you'll be directed to some great new books, too.

Happy New (Reading) Year!

Review List

"This not just for corporations," said Commissioner Fred Holliday. All business owners are required to pay the fee, even those with single home offices.

"The likelihood of something like this passing are slim to none," said Edwards about the request to eliminate the fee. "You've got people down there (in Annapolis) who want to tax everything that moves or doesn't move."

He said the most likely response from lawmakers about the fee will be "This is kind of a license to do business."

The commissioners and Department of Economic Development also asked for legislation that would give the county authority to provide an abatement of real property tax for the Adventure Sports Center International for all prior and future real estate taxes.

"This is just a house keeping measure," Gregg said.

The legislation passed last year, but the date was entered incorrectly in the General Assembly, Gregg noted. The correct effective date for the tax abatement should be June 30, 2004, not 2006.

The commissioners also asked for legislation that would allow them to establish a 2 percent local preference for Garrett County businesses bidding on county projects. Currently, a local preference is only allowed if the out-of-county bidders' home jurisdictions also have local preferences.

Additionally, the commissioners would like enabling legislation to allow them to dispose of surplus supplies, equipment, or other personal property belonging to the county.

Purchasing agent Brian Bowers, Garrett County Department of Purchasing, said the bill would allow the county to recycle or dispose of its surplus equipment, supplies, and damaged items more easily.

"Right now the majority of our surplus equipment goes through the county auction, but we've found computers, for instance, are something that are not economically feasible for us to put through the auction process," he said.

The local Performing Arts Center Committee asked Edwards and Beitzel to introduce a $1 million bond bill to help fund the proposed Performing Arts Center. Committee member Bob Huebner said the money would be used for architectural and engineering fees.

Garrett County Community Action requested a bill that would set a cap on liability insurance claims associated with the operation of Garrett Transit Service. Community Action president Duane Yoder indicated that the legislation could save his agency an estimated 40 percent on its liability insurance.

Yoder said the bill could be modeled after one that was passed through Carroll County, which, like Garrett County, has a nonprofit group operating a public transit service on behalf of a local government.

"The liability cap would be $.5 million," Yoder said.

The Department Planning and Land Development asked the local lawmakers to support a bill that Sen. Katherine Klausmeier of Baltimore County will introduce in the General Assembly on behalf of the Maryland Electrical Legislative Group, Nelson said.

"The idea is to provide a statewide license for master, journeyman, and apprentice electricians throughout the state, all of the accompanying training, and upgrades to the licensing on an annual basis," he said about the purpose of the bill.

The commissioners also requested legislation that would more clearly define issues pertaining to the humane treatment of animals. Local officials expressed their concern that certain sections of the Garrett County Animal Control Ordinance, in particular those pertaining to "cruelty to animals" and kennel facility standards," are unenforceable and recommended corrective language to Beitzel and Edwards.

Local officials also asked them to introduce legislation to delete certain sections of the Garrett County Code that are obsolete or inconsistent with current policy. For example, one section states that if hogs are running loose and their owners cannot be located, the county has the authority to collect the swine and sell them to the highest bidder.

The commissioners also voiced their opposition to any legislation that may be presented for Garrett County public employees by the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees pertaining to mandated collective bargaining.

Beitzel and Edwards asked several questions about the numerous issues on the county's wish list to make sure their drafts of the bills will be worded correctly.

The lawmakers will be sworn into office Wednesday.

was stopped on Liberty Street, Oakland, after his vehicle was observed weaving across the center line. After Henderson failed to perform sobriety tests to the satisfaction of the deputy, he was placed under arrest and charged with DUI, DWI, failure to drive right of center, and driving on a suspended license. He was later released.

A third traffic violation led to the arrest of a Hyattsville man Sunday morning. After being paced traveling 90 mph in a posted 45 mph zone, Mauricio Alexander Barrientos Lopez, 30, was stopped heading north on Garrett Highway. After failing field sobriety tests, Lopez was placed under arrest and charged with DUI, DWI, driving on a suspended out-of-state license, possessing a suspended license, negligent driving, and speeding. Deep Creek UM To Host World Religion Program

The Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries of Hoyes and Paradise will host a program of Christianity and world religions studies on Sunday, Jan. 14. The program is a six-week study titled "Christianity and World Religions: Wrestling With Questions People Ask."

Each week during the 10 a.m. worship service at the Hoyes Chapel, the pastor, Rev. R. Samuel Wachter, will deliver a message which he said would address the following questions: "Why are there so many religions? Is Christianity the only way to God? Can I practice my faith and appreciate a friend who practices and believes in a different faith? What do I really know about other faiths?"

"These are questions that grip our attention, and yet we don't often discuss them in church," said Rev. Wachter. "We want to explore what God might be saying to us, and we hope to do it in a setting of sensitivity and respect."

The program will include worship, sermons, and small-group studies featuring videos, Bible study, and discussion. The essential beliefs and practices of five major religions will be covered: Hinduism, Buddhism, Islam, Judaism, and Christianity.

The study, published by Abingdon Press, was developed by the Reverend Adam Hamilton, pastor of the Church of the Resurrection in Leawood, Kan.

A team that has studied this topic has been planning the church-wide event. "These religions will be explored with sensitivity and respect, always seeking to discern God's truth and grace for us," said Rev. Wachter.

A discussion group will meet during the Sunday school hour each week at 11 a.m. following the morning worship service.

The Hoyes Church of Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries is located at the intersection of Route 40 and Hoyes Road. For more information, persons may contact Wachter at 301-387-2452 or by e-mail at rsw@gcnet.net.

January is Thyroid Awareness Month. The thyroid gland in your neck produces thyroid hormone that controls virtually every cell, tissue, and organ in the body. If your thyroid gland isn't working properly, neither will you. Thyroid disorders are more common among women and tend to run in families. A TSH blood test is the most effective check for a thyroid condition. See a doctor if you think you may be at risk.

SHS Attendance Appeal Letters Due Next Week

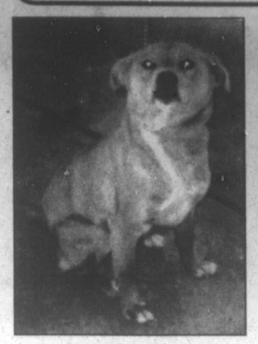
Student attendance appeal letters are due at Southern Highs School. Any students who need to appeal their attendance for 1st semester must have their appeal letter in the Attendance Office by Jan. 11.

Appeal guidelines include: full name and grade, schedule in order 1-4 (class and teacher name), the number of days absent, and reason for the absences. It must be noted if a student has applied for an appeal in the last three school years.

Students applying for an appeal should list why they feel an appeal should be granted to them. All students must have a written recommendation from a teacher he/she is presently in class with, one who will support the appeal. Students must also have available their agenda books for the appeal committee to use for documentation purposes.

Appeals will be screened using the above criteria prior to the attendance committee hearing.

Adorable Adoptables



LOOKING FOR NEW HOMES IN THE NEW YEAR –This female mix recently had puppies and was brought in to the Garrett County Animal Shelter by her owner. "She will need a special home where someone can spend time with her," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also looking for a new home is this pretty black/white female feline that was brought in by her senior owner who could no longer care for her. The shelter received many dogs his past week. All of the strays did not have identification tags, and several were owner give-ups. Last week, two puppies and one dog were adopted. Additionally, one cat was reclaimed, and one cat was adopted. "This is great news, but the shelter still remains over half full or full most of this winter already," said the spokesperson. "Part of the problem is that many people don't have their pets spayed or neutered. Then many of those pets are left tied out or run loose and get pregnant. Please call the animal shelter for information about how you can get assistance to have your pet 'fixed.' If your animal is not spayed or neutered and has puppies or kittens, you are helping the overpopulation problem to get worse and increasing the numbers of homeless animals that may have to be ethuanized at our shelter." For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553.

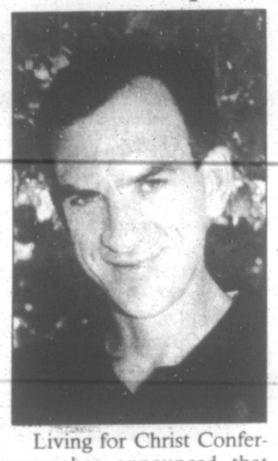
Dr. Doriani To Speak At Annual Mountaintop '07



Living for Christ Conferences has announced that Dr. Daniel Doriani will be the featured speaker for the 21st annual get-away conference, Mountaintop 2007. This will be his second visit to this event, having spoken in 2001.

The purpose of this weekend, according to Garrett County native Anne (Gibson) Robinson, co-founder, is to "provide a place away from worldly pressures and demands, a place to regain strength and perspective, and an inspiring place to focus on and experience time with God."

The nonprofit event for men and women is not affiliated with any denomination and will be held at Wilson Lodge, Oglebay, Wheeling, W.Va., March 2-4.

The topic for Mountaintop 2007 is "Jesus' Sacrifice for Us, Our Service for Him." During five main sessions, Doriani will conduct a session from the book of Matthew.

Dr. Doriani is senior pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, a historical congregation of the Evangelical Presbyterian Church. This 1,700-member congregation is located in the heart of the business, art, and university district in metropolitan St. Louis, Missouri.

Prior to his return to the pastorate, Doriani served as dean of the faculty, vice president of academics, and professor of New Testament at Covenant Theological Seminary in St. Louis. He earned his Ph.D. and M.Div. degrees from Westminster Theological Seminary, an S.T.M. from Yale University, and a B.A. from Geneva College. He has written six books.

"Dan Doriani speaks with clarity and wit, and he combines great Biblical insight with marvelous practical wisdom," Robinson said. "We were excited to invite him back and even more excited when he said yes, knowing that because of his commitment to his congregation, he can undertake very few weekend conferences. That he would choose to return to Mountaintop speaks very highly of our weekend."

Also included in the event will be a special presentation by David Horsager, award-winning Christian illusionist from St. Paul, Minn. Musical worship will be led by nation- Dr. Bill Cummings of Cicero, N.Y., with special entertainment by Nashville recording artist Charlie Dodrill.

Brochures and information are available through Living for Christ Conferences, 169 East Thistle Place, New Martinsville, WV 26155; (304) 455-5322; web site: www.mountaintopconference.org.

Cup O' Joe Now Open At GCMH

Nearly 200 people, including patients, visitors, staff and volunteers, turned out for the unveiling of Cup O' Joe, the new coffee bar and vending snack bar operated by the Loar Auxiliary to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Cup O' Joe offers traditional vending snacks, as well as specialty and gourmet coffee, and will be accessible 24 hours a day. New machines, supplied by Bittner Vending, include, most notably, a gourmet coffee machine that offers 15 different varieties of coffee, including lattes in two different sizes.

"When we were first approached about updating and improving the space, we knew we wanted to make the space more inviting, modern and appealing," explains Denise Shay, manager/buyer for the Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop. "Once we decided on a theme we ran with it."

Everything in the space, from the name to the tables and countertops with the coffee bean pattern to the wallpaper border to the mural on the wall, was chosen to fit the coffee theme.

Although there was plenty of planning and prep time, the actual remodeling and decoration had approximately a 30-day window of time in which to be completed. For that reason, each member of the committee was asked to undertake a particular component of the project, with final decisions being made by the committee as a whole.

"Without the efforts of many local businesses and artisans, the project would have never gotten off the ground," explains Shay.

The café-themed mural was conceived and created by a team of three local artists, Haddie Miller, Debbie Peck-Wagner and Wilma Rodeheaver. They donated their time and talent to the project without reservation because of their excitement over the expansion of the hospital facilities and staff.

To bring the snack bar and mural to life, Roger Skidmore, owner of the locally based Canvas Creations, was called upon to fabricate an awning like one might see when walking past an outdoor café.

Snyder's Cabinets of Oakland has assisted the auxiliary with the design, manufacturing and installation of the new countertops and seating area. Jesse Brobst, owner of Signs 2000, designed, crafted and installed a 3-dimensional sign for the outside of the space to be sure that patrons would head in the right direction.

The Loar Auxiliary was founded nearly 55 years ago and in 1976 expanded its services to include the operation of the Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop, which is located in the Hospital.

The Gift Shop is managed and operated by a core group of volunteers who devote countless hours to ensure the shop's success. All proceeds from the Gift Shop and Cup O' Joe will be used by the Auxiliary to support Garrett County Memorial Hospital, its patients, employees and visitors.

Most recently, the proceeds were used to purchase custom bears for the Family-Centered Maternity Suite to give to new parents to help them celebrate the new addition to their family.

For more information on the Loar Auxiliary, persons may contact Volunteer Services at 301-533-4178.

FIRST Robotics Competition Slated For Jan. 6

FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) Team 1629 (the Garrett Coalition), Garrett County's high school robotics team is awaiting the annual kickoff.

The 2007 FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) game rules will be announced on Saturday, Jan. 6, which signals the start of the six-week robot building period.

To celebrate this season's kickoff, there will be a day of "robotics fun" at the Garrett Engineering and Robotics (GEARS) building in Accident. Beginning at 9 a.m., the team will demonstrate Meshach 2.0, last year's robot, which won the team recognition in Pittsburgh, Annapolis, and nationally at the Atlanta competition.

The FRC opening ceremonies, followed by the new game rules, will begin at 10 a.m. and will be shown on the projection screen. Robot videos will be shown for the rest of the afternoon while the team brainstorms the new robot design and lays out the game arena.

Team 1629 comprises students, both male and female, from Northern High School and Southern High School, as well as mentors from various sects in the community. Meshach 3.0 is the team's third robot built for competition.

Founded in 1989, FIRST operates the FIRST Robotics Competitions in which teams of high school students, sponsored and assisted by local companies and volunteers, design, assemble, and test a robot capable of performing a specified task in competition with other teams.

Persons interested in learning about FIRST and/or GEARS are welcome to attend Saturday's event. For more information persons may contact team leader Chuck Trautwein at 301-616-3231 or via e-mail at ctrautwein@ga.k12.md.us.

LEARNING COMMUNITIES

Garrett College is proud of its Learning Community Program, which offers students a chance to learn in dynamic, small group settings taught by dedicated faculty who frequently team teach. The courses in each learning community are linked so that students connect material they learn in one class with concepts covered in another. In some cases, extracurricular activities supplement the curriculum. Students who register for one course in a learning community must register for all other courses in that learning community. Questions about the Learning Community Program should be directed to Professor Lonnie Brewster, Learning Communities Coordinator, 301-387-3017, or lbrewster@garrettcollege.edu.

Southern Falls To St. Maria Goretti And Preston In Holiday Tournament

The Southern Rams boys' basketball team had its four-game winning streak snapped in losing to St. Maria Goretti and Preston County in games one and two of the 30th Annual First United Snowball Classic Basketball Tournament Thursday and Friday at home.

The Rams had three players score in double figures, but were unable to overcome St. Maria Goretti's sharp-shooters down the stretch in a 59-51 game-one loss on the first evening of the tournament.

Jordan Pacella, who was 4 of 4 from the foul line, paced the Rams with 15 points, hitting three 3-pointers. Ryan DeWitt scored 13 and Erik Cousins dumped in 11. But St. Maria Goretti answered back as Kevin Breslin dumped in 21 points, and John Duhring, the tournament's Most Outstanding Player, and Mitch Bellella scored 13 apiece. Breslin hit all seven of his foul shots.

Southern took an early 13-10 first quarter lead but fell behind at halftime by a score of 27-24. At the close of the third period the teams remained close with St. Marie Goretti holding a 39-34 lead. The loss was the first one for Southern after four straight wins.

In the consolation game, Preston County used slow down tactics after it jumped to an early 10-2 lead, and Southern never seemed to find its game as it dropped to Preston by a score of 42-28.

Ryan DeWitt's eight points was Southern's team-high. Steve Grove scored 11 for the visitors, and Trapper Jennings dumped in nine.

The Rams (4-4) play Tucker on the road this Friday at 7:30 p.m., and will host Fort Hill next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Northern's Elijah Lais Named All-Area Off. Player Of Year

Junior midfielder Elijah Lais of Northern High School led the list of Garrett County high school soccer players who were recently afforded post-season All-Area and All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League honors, with Lais being named the Dr. Paul Felipa Offensive Player of the Year for the area.

Joining him on the first-team All-Area squad are teammates Zach Trautwein and Zac Beitzel, along with Southern High's Sean McCreery.

They along with Northern's Zac Cupler were also named first-team All-WMIL.

Lais assisted or scored more than half of the Huskies' goals this season, key to his team's 10-5-1 finish this past season and a 7-2-1 mark in WMIL play. He finished with 18 goals and an area-high 17 assists, placing him second in the area's scoring with 55 points. He easily finished first in scoring in the WMIL, with 15 goals and eight assists in 10 matches for a 3.80 average.

Lais was typically called upon by Coach Lynn Lais to handle the direct and corner kicks, as his talents include both good distance and accuracy.

"Elijah's role as an attacking midfielder was instrumental in our ability to control the game and attack," Coach Lais said. "Our offense would not have been the same without him.

"He loves the game, loves to compete, and is an unselfish team player," he continued. "His precision passing, vision, and creativity make him a superb attacking player. He sees the field a player or two ahead, and seems to have a knack for putting himself in the right place at the right time."

The combined record of the Huskies for the past two seasons, with Lais as a starter, is 22-7-1 overall and 15-3-1 in the WMIL.

The second-leading scorer in the WMIL is Lais's teammate Zac Beitzel, who recorded a dozen goals and four assists for 28 points overall, and nine goals and four assists for 22 points in WMIL matches.

The senior striker has excellent controlling touch and is able to hold the ball in traffic, Coach Lais said.

"Zac's runs were well timed and created space for his teammates," said Lais. "He is both fast and strong, and plays well with his back to the goal. His touch, shooting ability, work ethic, and attitude make him a player that is going to be difficult to replace."

The Huskies' third first-team honoree is Trautwein, a junior goalkeeper who allowed just three goals in the first six matches of the season and a total of 19 over the entire 16-match season. He recorded 92 saves for a .828 average, and he had five shutouts. In 11 of 16 matches, opponents scored one goal or fewer.

In WMIL matches, Trautwein led the league in save percentage (.870) with 67 saves and five shutouts. He allowed a total of 10 goals against league opponents.

"Zach's hands, quickness, athleticism, and decision-making speed are the keys to his success, and of our entire defense," Lais said. "His attitude in matches, training, and off the field are superb. Obviously I look forward to having him back next season."

Southern's Sean McCreery, a first-team All-Area repeater from the 2005 season, concluded his high school career after starting all four of his varsity seasons for the Rams, first as a striker, then a midfielder, and finally at the stopper position.

Before assuming the defensive spot, McCreery scored seven goals for the Rams and had three assists. He also played on a Morgantown youth team last spring that traveled to Brazil. He scored a goal and was the Maryland team's most valuable defensive player in the recent M&T Bank Senior Classic.

""Sean is multi-talented, and one of the best ever to play at Southern," said his coach, Bob Bonser. "His versatility made him invaluable. He's able to run full tilt and control the ball at his feet. He has outstanding touch and quickness."

Second-team All-Area picks from Garrett County were Northern's Cupler and Jeremy Beitzel, along with Ethan Chorpenning of Southern. Michael Edwards of Southern received honorable mention.

Named second-team All-WMIL were Jeremy Beitzel, Zach Lipscomb, and Justin Beitzel of Northern, and Edwards of Southern, while Neil Buckel and Daniel Warnick of Northern, and Alan Gnegy and Matt Burton of Southern were given honorable mention.

Senior Tyler Harvey of Salisbury High School was named the All-Area Player of the Year, and sharing Defensive Player of the Year honors were Bishop Walsh junior teammates Neal Eshleman and Sam Hawkins.

Rams Indoor Track Team Places Seventh

In its inaugural season, the Southern High School girls' indoor track and field team competed in the Mountain Express Holiday Invitational at Hagerstown Community College on Saturday and came away with a seventh place finish among 11 teams.

The top performer for the Rams was Meghan Flinn, who won first place in the pole vault with a height of 7'6".

Brittany Scheffel finished third in the high jump with a height of 4'3.25", Sierra Wassell placed fifth in the 1,600-meter run with a time of 6:17.5, and Lauren Neville was eighth in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 10.4 seconds.

The Southern 800 relay team, consisting of Flinn, Neville, Samantha Taylor, and Jennifer Cosner, placed eighth with a time of 2:08.

Also finishing eighth was the SHS 1,600 relay team of Wassell, Cosner, Scheffel, and Melinda Smith, which finished in 5:14.2.

Mount DeSales won the team title with 68.5 points, followed by Friendly with 62.5 points, Bowie with 46.33, LaPlata with 42.33, Central with 34.83, Liberty with 34, Southern with 25, Clarksburg with 20.5, Forestville with 19.5, James Wood with 16.5, and Fairmont Heights with 10.

The next competition for the SHS team, which is coached by Steve Cosner and Beth Sauder, will be the 1A/2A West Region championships, to be held Feb. 2 at Hagerstown CC.

BLACK ICE

Q. What is "black ice," and why is it considered so dangerous?

A. "Black ice" is a term referring to a very thin veneer of ice on the surface of a roadway – so thin that you can see right through it to the asphalt below, and thus it looks black, just like the pavement. In other words, invisible. But it still is ice, and a car has no traction on it.

Black ice is most commonly found in connection with freezing rain. It is the leading cause of winter-time auto accidents. It is much more hazardous than several inches of snowfall.

Black ice is dangerous explicitly because it is invisible and therefore sneaks up on you. If you were driving down a street and saw a big icy patch up ahead, you'd slow down and be cautious. But if you were driving along on ordinary black asphalt, your speed would be higher. Then you might suddenly hit a patch of invisible ice and you wouldn't be prepared for it. Under such conditions, you're suddenly on a frictionless surface, and your tires no longer control where the car is going. A slight steering motion can set your car into a full spin. You won't stop spinning until at least one wheel comes in contact with something other than ice – which may mean until you go off the road and into the ditch.

If you unexpectedly find yourself on black ice, the safest thing to do is not to brake suddenly or try to steer off it, but to coast in a straight line, which usually means straight ahead on the road. Ideally, you'll still be on the pavement when you reach the far end of the ice patch.

The worst thing you can possibly do is put your car into a spin. If there is an oncoming car, the resulting collision will probably involve hitting the side of your passenger compartment, and that is much more likely to produce fatalities than taking a front-to-front collision and depending on the air bags to protect you.

Obviously it's much better to anticipate where black ice might occur, and slow down just in case. The most likely place is at the bottom of a downhill stretch of road, just before starting back uphill. This is because cold air tends to collect in low pockets, and hence the pavement might be above 32 F uphill, but just below 32 F at the bottom of a gully. This is particularly true in the early morning, because during the night, cold air that is not moving can drift into a low spot and lower the temperature of the pavement. Just as dew forms on grass in the early morning, moisture in the air can condense onto the cold pavement, and if the pavement is below 32 F, that condensation will become a thin veneer of ice.

When the county highway department sprinkles cinders onto roads during the winter, that is a way of making an asphalt road behave a little like a gravel road. The cinders still offer tires a surface on which to gain traction. A thin veneer of ice over tiny stones will be instantly broken up by tires crunching on cinders. In fact, cinders are much better for this purpose than is road salt, because road salt dissolves and gets flushed away, while the cinders stick around and provide traction day after day.

ADHD Treatments

ADHD stands for attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder. Symptoms include inattention, hyperactivity, and impulsive behavior. ADHD is a chronic condition that often begins in childhood and lasts into adulthood. A diagnosis of ADHD can only be made after a child has a specific number of symptoms of inattention or hyperactivity that last for at least six months. One possible cause of ADHD is an alteration in brain function, in which there are changes in the neural pathways that carry information related to attention, planning, impulsive behavior and motor control. Generally may also play a role.

Treatment of ADHD involves a combination of both behavior therapy and medications. Psychostimulants are the most commonly used medications for treating ADHD. The exact way that these drugs work in treating ADHD is not known. However, it is thought that stimulants increase and balance levels of dopamine and serotonin. Dopamine is a brain chemical that is associated with activity, while serotinin is related to a sense of well-being.

Yeash was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Caroling is very big in Bittinger. Since Thanksgiving I am aware of at least four caroling events. I reported about the Thanksgiving caroling by Cherry Glade Mennonite Church and then the Bittinger 4-H, along with some members of our church, went to the Goodwill Nursing Home to entertain. Then the Bittinger Lutheran Parish Youth Group did a caroling session at Cherry Hill Assisted Living Home, and finally the James Kauffman family appeared at my door five days before Christmas. They didn't just sing, but brought me a plateful of homemade Christmas cookies. The youngest member of the family was not that happy about it and she didn't even like Boo. To me it is a sign that the Bittinger community is still a good, old-fashioned community. I remember very clearly from my youth the caroling sessions we did then.

My family's tradition was putting up and decorating our Christmas tree on Christmas Eve, but this year I bowed to the pressure of my girls and they put up the tree almost a week before Christmas. Christmas has dribbled to the end. Always during my childhood it included a visit of the Englar family from Westminster when my Glotfelty grandparents and Pappy Dale were still alive. We couldn't wait to see our family from Westminster. Since Courtney moved to Garrett County, Helen and Mike usually come up here for the holidays. This year their visit started Thursday after Christmas and lasted until Saturday the day before New Year's Eve. Their present for me was just what I needed, which was art supplies. Instead of one big gathering with them, they visited individual families separately.

Another tradition of the DuBose family – Jack and Carolyn of Grantsville – is hosting a special party. We each get a silly, tacky, or unusual gift and exchange them. You never know what you will draw. My number entitled me to a pair of the most hideous ceramic frogs. Only a person who collects frogs would love them. I was more lucky one year when I drew a multiple pack of toilet paper. I am not complaining, as I know what I get into in that gift exchange. Anyway, the company and food were great. It replaced for me a New Year's party with ladies dressed up in their holiday fashion. I did stay past midnight, which is a rare event for me. These days New Year's Eve does not have much attraction to me.

My first experience with New Year's Eve was when Ken and Harriett Buckel's family came up to our house. That family has an unusual connection with my family. Ken was a first cousin to my mother while Harriett was the same with my father. So, Larry, Bonnie, Bill, and John were my double second cousins. I always thought this would be an interesting study of genetics. We did have some similarities, high IQs, excellence in science in the older boys, and a couple artists. But we did not look alike at all. My parents and Ken and Harriet used to play cards while the older kids terrified the younger ones with scary stories.

The first peer-group New Year's Eve party was in my senior year of high school at the Donald Fratz lake house. The party wasn't as memorable as much as the ride home because it snowed and snowed and accumulated almost three feet. Rodney and his date and I got snowbound on Rock Lodge Road, just past the Mosser Road intersection. Luckily some snowmobile riders rescued us.

Possibly the best New Year's Eve party was the eve of Bicentennial year, 1976. We rang in the New Year with "Volunteers of America" by Jefferson Airplane and the rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Jimmy Hendricks. That was a spirited party – not wild, but spirited.

The most elegant New Year's Eve party was in the most elegant hotel in New York City, the Plaza, hosted by a former college friend, Steve Weinberger. Since we both lived in Manhattan during the 1980s, I guess it is not too odd that he and I still stay in touch.

I pointed out to my daughters the other day that you do not have a designated driver in Manhattan, as New Year's Eve is the biggest night for cab drivers in New York City.

This morning reminded me of a forgotten tradition of mine – watching the Rose Bowl parade in California. It was always my favorite televised special. I used to love to see all the many beautiful horses that were in it, as these are many mounted police squads, and many of the floats are drawn by teams of horses.

The Bittinger families with college-age kids are enjoying a couple weeks with their almost-grown-up offspring. While my Claire watched the big upset basketball game when WVU defeated a top-10 team, the University of Connecticut, we saw a gang of her NHS classmates in the stands in Morgantown, including Torrey Poholsky, Preston Sisler, and Jason Thomas.

Robbie Glotfelty, in his role as first chair tuba player at UMD, got to travel to Orlando for their football bowl game, which Maryland won. Although his dad Rodney saw a shot of the Maryland Pep Band, he didn't see Robbie.

Even if the college-age kids are pretty busy with their Garrett County friends, it is still good having them around for their break. Claire, Caitlin, Robbie, Blakely, Matt, Torrey, Brent, and Karla are all home.

Kevin Dodge reported a very interesting Christmas bird count. The unusual warm weather probably kept quite a few species farther north. Most years I see a rough leg Arctic hawk along the glades on Accident Bittinger Road, but I guess they stayed in the Arctic this year. This can't be a January thaw because we didn't get any winter weather yet. I think that the Wisp had an unusually high number of skiers last week. Luckily it was cold enough a couple days and nights to make some snow.

It is odd that I don't remember the day when President Gerald Ford pardoned Richard Nixon because I was still a student at the University of Maryland, and almost every day I read the Washington Post, and Coliege Park was a very political-conscious campus. It seemed as if Nixon was Public Enemy Number One there.

Gerald Ford was the right man to pull out of the conflict of the 1970s. He was a very unusual high political figure who cared more about the job at hand than his own ego. I believe that the best indication about the characters of Gerald Ford and his Democratic opponent in the election of 1976 was that it was probably the less dirty political battle – it wasn't who you should vote for, it was to choose who you want to vote for. What a blessing that was. Ford and Jimmy Carter both respected each other.

In my life I have experienced too many solemn funerals. It brings to mind the memories of the tragic funeral of the only sitting president who died during his term of office, JFK. That was an unusual funeral, and it was very fitting to have horse-drawn caisson carrying the flag-draped coffin. The most striking detail to me was the sight of a black horseless rider with riding boots placed backward in the stirrups. It is far different to bury a young sitting leader than an elder statesman. Sad as the funeral was of my father, who had many similarities with Gerald Ford, the memories of the Kennedy funeral rekindled in me thoughts of my young brother Scott's funeral.

I own a copy of a book signed by JFK called The Strategy For Peace. That strategy included the creation of the Peace Corps, in which Scott lost his life serving. JFK and Scott's deaths were so untimely and shocking that the emotions of sadness and loss were magnified ten-fold. They had so much more work to do. Although the 20-gun salute was part of JFK burial, what we should have had done for Scott was to release 20 white doves symbolic of peace. Maybe that is the reason I am so moved to hear the cry of the mourning dove around the farm.

It is fitting that Ford's funeral is televised. It was also fitting, but somewhat controversial, the photograph of Scott's funeral procession between Emmanuel Lutheran Church across the road to the Bittinger Cemetery. Emmanuel couldn't hold all of Scott's mourners.

Our local rock band White Noise is playing in Baltimore next Friday night at Rams Head Live. The boys say they need as many people as possible to come support them as they break into the Baltimore music scene. Pre-show tickets are available for $13.

Special Moments in Time

How breathtaking! Mother Nature is dripping in dazzling diamonds! The sun is magically transforming the treacherous, gray landscape into a multifaceted display of fiery color...a unique exhibit of ice sculpture in every direction. Yet, one must look quickly, for within the hour the ice will melt from branches and wires and fences, and the display will disappear. We must carefully capture this special moment in time.

We live and work in a frantic society. Isn't this even more reason to pause and behold the wonders of God's handiwork? Do we not gain strength from His power and majesty? Indeed, Psalm 96:6 reads, "Strength and beauty are in His sanctuary."

May we worship the Creator each day as we behold His works and worship Him each week as we gather in our house of worship. Each moment with God is a special moment in time.

Don't Put Your Trust In Things Of This World

Young children seem to have the utmost trust in their parents. For instance, they know that whenever they are not feeling well, their parents are there to comfort them and do whatever is necessary to make them better. A parent's love is special, and it seems that there is nothing that they would not do for their children. As adults, we should remember that all things of this world are temporary and that there is nothing we can truly depend on or be absolutely sure of.

A loved one passing away, or finances being low, or a serious illness could turn our world upside down in an instant. However, we should take heart; there is good news: we are God's children, and His love for us is even greater than that of our parents'. And although it takes enormous courage to put our complete trust in God, we must believe that He wants only what is good for us. What is required of us is to see God's work in everything we do, and develop perfect trust to accept the trials of his life, and to know that with whatever difficulties we are faced, God will not abandon us. The first step in increasing our trust in God is to thank Him daily for His many blessings and to always go to Him with our anxieties.

Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding;
in all your ways acknowledge
Him, and He will make your paths straight.

– N.I.V. Proverbs 3:5-6

Plant Seed/Oil Has Medical Uses

Flaxseed comes from the flax plant, which grows in the US and Canada. Flaxseed oil comes from grinding the flaxseed. It is also known as linseed oil. Flaxseed is a good source of alpha-linolenic acid (ALA), an essential fatty acid and a precursor to omega-3 fatty acids. Flaxseed is also composed of fiber, which contributes to its laxative effects. The lignans in flaxseed may be responsible for its antioxidant activity. Common uses of flaxseed include as a laxative and as an antioxidant. Evidence of whether or not flaxseed is beneficial in the prevention of heart disease or in the treatment of diabetes is inconclusive.

Two or three tablespoonsful of bulk flaxseed may be mixed with water and used as a laxative. Prescription medications should be taken 1 hour before or 2 hours after flaxseed. Flaxseed may increase the risk of bleeding when used with blood thinners. Flaxseed should not be used by women who are pregnant or breast feeding, and should be discontinued at least 14 days prior to surgery or invasive procedures. Side effects may include diarrhea and constipation (if not used with adequa6te amounts of water).

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was author and noted humorist Roy G. Blount Jr. who made the following observation: "Doctors and lawyers must go to school for years and years, often with little sleep and with great sacrifice to their first wives."

• Have you ever engaged in lip-clap? Chances are, you have — and if you haven't, I feel terribly sorry for you! "Lip-clap" is simply a little-used term for kissing.

• Last year, someone made a very generous donation to Goodwill — and didn't even realize it. This unknown philanthropist dropped a painting off at a donation center, but he obviously didn't have much of an eye for art. Fortunately for Goodwill, one of its employees did recognize the potential value of the watercolor. The painting was auctioned for more than $165,000, the proceeds going to the charity.

• Most of the caffeine in sodas comes from the leftovers from the process of making decaffeinated coffee.

• The lemon shark grows a new set of teeth every two weeks. Considering that the shark would have to be alive to grow the teeth, I certainly wouldn't want to have been the one given the task of figuring that out.

• In 1949, Popular Mechanics magazine stated, "Computers in the future may weigh no more than 1.5 tons."

• An acre of hemp can produce as much paper as four acres of trees.

Cigarettes and Pets

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My father, a committed smoker, lives on his own in a small apartment. He has one pet, a budgie. I don't think it's appropriate for smokers to keep pets because the animals don't have a choice in being exposed to secondhand smoke, and I urged my father to either quit smoking or give the bird away. He got angry and hasn't called or asked me over in three months. How can I get him to stop harming himself and his pet? — Nadia C., San Diego

DEAR NADIA: Some thorny issues are being raised here. One, your father's "committed" smoking habit is a choice he has made, and something he personally must deal with. Two, the secondhand smoke may be harming the health of his pet budgie. Three, he probably cares very much for his pet and wouldn't consider just giving it away.

Anyone, including myself, who has dealt with a family member who smokes knows that confronting that person can be difficult — and can lead to strife. Remember that it is the smoker who must make the choice to stop smoking, and that stopping is very difficult, thanks to the addictive qualities of cigarettes.

A gentle approach is necessary. First, you will need to apologize for suggesting that he give the bird away. Second, rather than argue with your father about his habit, tell him that you love him and you want many more years to spend with him — and that you are concerned that his smoking will take away those years. Third, offer to purchase an air filter to keep in the room near his pet, and to help in any way you can to keep the bird healthy.

Most dedicated pet owners, regardless of what they do to themselves, will go the extra mile for the pets they love. Show your father you're willing to do the same.

Rose Etch Glass

Q. I have a couple of pieces of Rose Etch glass. What can you tell me about either the pattern or the company that made it? — Stephanie, Pueblo, Colo.

A. Rose Etch was also marketed as Heisey Rose by the A.H. Heisey & Company. The company, based in Newark, Ohio, introduced the pattern in 1949 and retired it in 1957. Most of the pieces are not marked. Prices for the pattern found in Kovels' Depression Glass & Dinnerware Price List by Ralph and Terry Kovel (Random House Reference) include floral bowl, $41; salad plate, $30-$32; and footed vase, $50.

'Jordan' finally set to cross screens again

By Jay Bobbin

Jill Hennessy

Q: When will "Crossing Jordan" be returning? –Marlene Jordan, Billings, Mont.

A: After NBC announced Jill Hennessy's show would be back in October, the network changed its mind and pulled the series' return just days before it was supposed to air. As it has turned out, "Jordan" will be back when its sixth-season premiere originally was planned, after "Sunday Night Football" ends for the season; look for the drama to resume Jan. 14, with Jordan (Hennessy) still on the run while under suspicion of having killed her boyfriend.

Q: What happened to "Lost"? –Carol Judd, Vernon, Ariz.

A: Rather than take another chance on the ire of fans who complained about too many repeats last season, ABC decided to split the series' current third season into two parts. Taye Diggs' "Day Break" was meant to fill the slot in the interim, but its less-than-desired ratings abbreviated its run. "Lost" is slated to return with fresh episodes Feb. 7 – but with the new sitcoms "The Knights of Prosperity" and "In Case of Emergency" now filling its former hour, "Lost" will air one hour later than it did previously, bringing up the end of ABC's Wednesday prime-time lineup.

Q: Who is the little girl who plays Paige on the ABC show "Brothers & Sisters"? She looks like she could be Reese Witherspoon's daughter. Is she? –Allison Smits, Columbus, Ohio

A: No, although she did appear with Witherspoon (whose daughter's name is Ava) in both "Walk the Line" and "Just Like Heaven." The very young actress in question is Kerris Lilla Dorsey, and she also has had roles in such shows as "Scrubs" and "Monk."

Q: Recently, there was a two-hour "The Closer" special. This was supposed to be the start of a new season, yet I did not see the show in the next week's television listings. What happened? –Myra Martin, Delray Beach, Fla.

A: Actually, TNT intended that December episode to be something of a holiday bonus, not the official start of a whole new round of the show. Don't worry, though; Kyra Sedgwick's police drama will return with a third season of new, weekly stories beginning later this year.

Schaefer Notes New Benefits To Md. Taxpayers

State Comptroller William Donald Schaefer has highlighted some of the new benefits to Maryland taxpayers for the upcoming tax season. Beginning in 2007, those who electronically file a 2006 state return by the April 17 deadline, have a balance due, and choose direct debit or credit card payment will have until April 30 to pay the balance in full.

"The extra time to pay makes it more convenient for people to work it into their budgets," said Comptroller Schaefer. "Of course, it's always better to file as early as possible, especially if you expect a refund."

iFile, the comptroller's free Internet tax return filing service, will be open for business Friday, Jan. 12, coinciding with the availability of similar services provided by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Schaefer also made it a point to announce changes to Maryland's Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC). If qualifying taxpayers have an EITC that exceeds their Maryland tax liability, they may be entitled to a refund. To qualify for Maryland's EITC, a taxpayer must have a social security number.

"We have an opportunity to help more people with the state's Earned Income Tax Credit this year," said Schaefer. "If you worked in 2006, especially if you have children, and even if you were exempt from paying state taxes, you may qualify for the state's Earned Income Credit. It's worth looking into."

Taxpayers who qualify for the federal Earned Income Tax Credit and claim it on their federal returns, may be entitled to a Maryland Earned Income Tax Credit if their adjusted gross income is:

Less than $12,120 ($14,120 for married filing jointly), no children, and taxpayer is 25-64 years of age;

Less than $32,001 ($34,001 for married filing jointly) and taxpayer maintained a home for a child for at least six months of the year;

Less than $36,348 ($38,348 for married filing jointly) and taxpayer has two or more children.

Note: Marylanders will have until Tuesday, April 17, 2007, to file their state taxes because of the observance of Patriot's Day, a state holiday in Massachusetts. The IRS processes Maryland tax returns at its service center in Andover, Mass. Patriot's Day commemorates the battles of Lexington and Concord, the first battles of the American Revolutionary War, in 1775.

To find out what else is new for the 2007 Maryland tax season, persons are invited to visit the Comptroller's Web site, at http://individuals.marylandtaxes.com/taxseason.asp. Free state tax help is also available Monday-Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., by calling 1-800-MD TAXES. Also on the Web, persons may visit the IRS site at www.irs.gov.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
2884 FINZEL RD.
FROSTBURG, MD 21532

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust dated September 1, 1998, and recorded in Liber 749, Folio 325 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, with an original principal balance of $117,000.00 and an original interest rate of 11.00% default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on January 24, 2007, at 2:00 p.m.

ALL THAT fee-simple LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $12,000 in the form of cash or readily available funds acceptable to the Trustees required at the time of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. All transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be paid by the Purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. Purchaser waives personal service of any paper filed in connection with such a motion on himself and/or any principal or corporate designee, and expressly agrees to accept service of any such paper by regular mail directed to the address provided by said bidder at the time of the sale. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents.

New Deep Creek Treatment Plant To Be Dedicated

The Deep Creek Lake Wastewater Treatment Plant improvement project is basically complete, director Linda Lindsey, Garrett County Department of Public Utilities reported to the county commissioners on Tuesday.

The 30-day performance test results are being reviewed by the design engineer, and only some minor items need to be finished yet before final completion, she noted.

"Everything looked great," Lindsey said about the recent performance test itself.

A dedication ceremony and tour of the much-needed new facility is planned for Tuesday, Jan. 30, at 2 p.m.

Improvements began at the plant nearly two years ago in order to meet the need for more capacity because of the large increase in home construction at the lake. The new facility will be able to process an estimated 2.2 million gallons of wastewater a day.

Lindsey also reported on the Deep Creek Lake West-

WHAT'S THAT WHITE STUFF? Garrett Countians were at last reminded what a mountaintop January is usually like — cold and snowy. More seasonal weather finally arrived this week, enough even to cause a two-hour delay for the public schools on Wednesday morning. About six inches fell, complete with wind and very cold temperatures. However, the cold may be short-lived, as the weekend weather is to go back to warm and rainy. But snow is predicted again next week, so perhaps winter will stay awhile after all. Photo by John McEwen.

GC Officials Hear Update Report On Ag Programs

Cheryl DeBerry, agriculture marketing specialist for the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, presented an update report this week to the county commissioners about various projects that she has been involved with in recent months.

"We've got some new exciting programs going on that I wanted you to know about," she told the commissioners.

One of those is a scholarship program for farmers who want to attend agriculture conferences and workshops. DeBerry is hoping local farmers will be able to attend the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture's annual conference in State College, Pa., Feb. 1-3. She said about 2,000 people attend this "excellent" conference each year.

The ag marketing specialist also reported that she has been assisting in developing a local Young Farmer Leadership Program, which is being patterned after LEAD (Maryland's Agricultural Leadership Development Program). The purpose of the Young Farmer Leadership Program is to help young people become involved in the local political process, particularly those involving land development, DeBerry said.

She and Willie Lantz of the Extension Office wrote a grant last fall to pay for the first 18 months of the program.

"We're hoping to hear about the grant award in April," DeBerry said.

Application forms and brochures for the program have been drafted, she noted.

DeBerry also reported that a consultant had been hired to conduct a financial feasibility study on the proposed Garrett County Agribusiness Entrepreneurial Park in McHenry. The study was funded by the USDA and an Appalachian Regional Commission grant and is near completion. The first reading of the draft study was conducted in December, DeBerry said, with the final study to be released soon.

"The consultant has shown us that our original idea of an ag park, where we put everything together, isn't necessarily economically feasible," she said. "We wanted to have agritourism, ag business, and production, and research all in one location, thinking that a shared infrastructure

FY 2006 Financial Audit Shows Garrett Co. Is "In Great Shape"

The Garrett County commissioners and county department heads heard a favorable financial audit report on fiscal year 2006 from Rodeheaver & Associations this week.

"The county appears to be in great shape," said Jim Murray, audit principal for the local accounting firm.

The county's assets exceeded its liabilities at the close of the fiscal year – which ended June 30, 2006 – by $113,781,965 (net assets), compared to $103,305,973 at the close of the previous fiscal year, according to the auditors. Additionally, the county sustained a surplus of $3.8 million in the general fund for FY 2006, Murray said.

The audit also showed unfavorable variances between a few figures that were in the proposed 2006 budget and the actual amended cost for those items. Murray noted, however, some of these unfavorable variances included projects such as Program Open Space, which involve state funding that varies from year to year and cannot be budgeted.

He pointed out other items in the budget that were actually paid by the state or reimbursed by the state, but appeared as unforeseen expenses that went over the proposed budget.

Murray also noted in the proprietary fund category of the audit that the Garrett County Airport fund showed a loss of $223,335. Depreciation of assets, however, accounted for $155,000 of that amount.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg indicated that a major airport expansion project had been under way in recent years, and the county should be able to recoup losses once the project is completed.

In contrast, the Solid Waste Fund had $100,000 more revenue in '06 than in '05, according to Murphy. He said the landfill had occurred no new debt, but the county should be studying the cost of closing the site.

"When the landfill's full, you have to go through a closure process and will have to monitor it for post closure 30 years after that," Murray said. "Your financial

PSC Slates Hearing On Proposed Plan To Increase Electricity Rates

The Maryland Public Service Commission (PSC) will hold a public hearing Monday, Jan. 22, from 7 until 9 p.m. at Garrett College on Allegheny Power's proposed plan to transition residential customers from capped electric generation rates to market-based pricing.

The Maryland General Assembly enacted legislation in 1999 that deregulated the generation of electricity. Provisions in this legislation required that all customers receive a rate reduction, followed by a cap on those rates. Allegheny Power (AP) residential customers received a rate reduction of about 7 percent, and a cap on those rates that will expire on Dec. 31, 2008.

AP's residential capped rates appear to be much lower than current market prices for electricity, according to the Public Service Commission. With this in mind, on Nov. 28, 2006, the commission initiated a proceeding, Case No. 9091, to investigate methods for managing any increases that could occur on Jan. 1, 2009.

In response to the initiation of the case, AP filed a proposed residential rate stabilization and market transition plan on Dec. 29, 2006. Details of the commission's proceeding, including AP's proposal, can be viewed online at psc.state.md.us under Case No. 9091.

As a critical part of its investigation, the commission has established evening public hearings throughout western Maryland and a written public comment period for the purpose of receiving the public's views on this matter.

Following the hearing in Garrett County, the commission will hold another one on Tuesday, Jan. 23, at the Holiday Inn in Cumberland at 7 p.m.

The deadline for written comments from the public on the AP proposal is Feb. 5. Written comments should reference Case No. 9091, and be addressed as follows: Executive Secretary, Public Service Commission of Maryland, 6 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, MD 21202.

"Since any plan or plans to case the transition from capped rates to market rates first and foremost affects Allegheny Power's residential customers, the commission wants, and indeed needs, to understand the preferences of those customers," said Kenneth D. Schisler, commission chairman.

BOE Approves School Meal Price Increase

Scott Germain, Food and Nutrition Services program manager, was present at this month's Board of Education meeting to propose an increase in the cost of student meals for the 2007-2008 school year.

This price increase was requested because of the increase of overall costs, which include: salary increases, equipment expenses, and the increase in food costs.

The last increase in the meal price was in August of 2003. Garrett County is one of five counties that has not raised prices in the last three years. Most counties increase their prices yearly.

It was proposed and approved that breakfast prices be raised by $0.15 and lunch prices by $0.25. This increase is for elementary and secondary schools alike.

This increase will help to maintain the fund balance of the Food and Nutrition Services Department.

Highland Fest To Host Robert Burns Supper

The first Garrett County Robert Burns Supper, hosted by the McHenry Highland Festival board of directors, the Garrett College Pipes and Drums, and Rob Michael State Farm Insurance, will be held on Saturday, Jan. 27, at the Will O' the Wisp. The Scottish event will feature food, music, and poetry.

Organizers hope to make the Robert Burns Supper an annual celebratory tribute to the life, works, and spirit of the Scottish poet, Robert Burns (1759-1796). He is celebrated internationally on or about his birthday, Jan. 25.

"Burns suppers generally follow some sort of time honored form which includes the eating of a traditional Scottish meal, the

Health Department Reports First Case Of Confirmed Rabies In Bats

The Environmental Health Services division of the Garrett County Health Department reported the first case of laboratory confirmed rabies for 2007 on Monday. It is also the first laboratory confirmed rabies in bats in Garrett County, according to the Health Department.

This case involved a bat that flew out of a storage area and landed on the head of a worker at a business in the Oakland area. The animal was sent to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Rabies Laboratory in Baltimore on Jan. 5 and confirmed to have the rabies virus on Jan. 6.

"Although not certain of being bitten, the worker was urged to start post-exposure rabies treatment immediately," said a Health Department spokesperson. "When called with the results, the individual exposed informed personnel from Environmental Health that shots had been started within an hour of the incident. The bat had no other contact with persons or animals."

Though this is the first locally confirmed rabies case in bats, the animals are routinely tested for the virus if they are found in bedrooms or in areas with disabled individuals, according to the spokesperson.

The Health Department urges pet owners to check the vaccination status of their dogs, cats, and ferrets. Puppies and kittens can be vaccinated at 3 months of ages, and Maryland law requires that pets older than 4 months of age be vaccinated against the virus.

Two Arrested In Connection With Burglaries

Detectives of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation unit arrested a Garrett County man in connection with several burglaries in the Garrett County area.

Edward Clay Villarreal, 35, of McHenry was arrested Thursday, Jan. 4, and charged with several crimes relating to two different burglaries.

Villarreal is charged with second degree burglary, destruction of property over $500, and theft over $500, all relating to a burglary that occurred in November of 2006 to a construction trailer located on Maryland Highway in Garrett County.

A monthlong investigation led detectives to a residence where stolen property from this and other burglaries was located. Detectives ultimately obtained an arrest warrant for Villarreal and arrested him at his McHenry residence.

He was also charged in a separate burglary that occurred to a residence on Friendsville Addison Road, Garrett County, that also occurred around November of 2006. Villarreal was charged with first degree burglary and theft over $500 in this incident.

A second Garrett County man was arrested late Thursday night at his residence by GBI detectives. Bert Joseph Lorch, 27, of Friendsville was charged with conspiracy to commit theft over $500. The arrest stemmed from information obtained by the GBI unit during the investigation of the storage trailer burglary on Maryland Highway.

During the investigation, detectives did recover stolen property from each of the burglaries.

Villarreal is being held on $30,000 bond, and Lorch is being held on $10,000 bond.

POS Funding Awarded To Local Schools

Gov. Robert Ehrlich Jr. announced last week that the Maryland Board of Public Works had approved $197,213 in Program Open Space funds for development projects at three Garrett County schools.

Accident Elementary School will receive $77,603 for a new American Disabilities Act approved pre-kindergarten playground equipment and a basketball court with adjustable backboards.

Dennett Road Elementary School was awarded $67,5000 to replace existing playground equipment.

Kitzmiller Elementary School will receive $52,110 for bleachers, park benches, and trash cans for the school playground and community park.

The Board of Public Works has yet to approve various other local 2007 Program Open Space projects. Those include a public walking trail at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Friendsville's Kendall Trail project, and improvements to the Loch Lynn athletic field.

State General Assembly Opens Wednesday; Tough Battles Loom

by Jonathan Crawford and Liz Farmer
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Maryland's General Assembly opened its annual 90-day session Wednesday with optimism that an end to divided government will help move the Democratic agenda forward. But the optimism was tempered by the prospect of a looming budget deficit and some potentially difficult legislative battles.

"I wouldn't say it's euphoria, but it's a feeling of happiness," Senate President Thomas V. "Mike" Miller, D-Prince George's, told reporters just before the opening. "The tension is gone. There's a feeling that people will work together."

Such a mood of cooperation, if indeed it materializes, would be a sharp departure from the last four years of bitter partisan battles between the Democrat-controlled legislature and the outgoing Republican governor, Robert L. Ehrlich.

Indeed, barely after the opening gavels came down, and the two houses finished swearing in members and completing procedural matters, the new incoming Democratic governor, former Baltimore mayor Martin O'Malley, drew warm applause and cheers when he was introduced to each house.

"Progress is bipartisan and I'm looking forward to working with all of you," he told the Senate.

Of the 188 state legislators, 137 are Democrats. The party gained five seats in the House to out-number Republicans by 2-1, and Democrats make up a three-quarters majority in the Senate.

Still, the coming session will not be without controversy, whether within the Democratic Party or between the two parties.

At a breakfast meeting with reporters, Miller threw cold water on the idea that revenue-raising measures would lead to expanded government programs.

"I don't like the idea of tax, tax, tax, spend, spend, spend," he said.

On the other hand, Miller spoke approvingly of slot machine legislation, which he has supported for the last four years. This year, he said, may be the session to finally get it passed.

"I'd like to do it right now, sooner rather than later. You kill the snake while you got the hoe in the hand," he said.

However, his counterpart in the House of Delegates, Speaker Michael E. Busch, D-Anne Arundel, said he saw no need to take up the issue this year, according to the Associated Press.

And though O'Malley has said he favors slots, he told reporters Wednesday he didn't see a consensus for it this year.

"I don't think I'll be able to pull people together around that thorny problem until after the legislative session," he said.

Among the other issues expected to come before the legislators this session are a return of the early voting bill, an effort to get a so-called "paper trail" from electronic voting machines, efforts to fund education, new environmental standards for autos, and a proposed cigarette tax increase.

Despite their shrunken numbers, Republicans vowed to make their presence felt.

"We'll have to see if they consider the results of the election a mandate and decide to set the state further, much further, to the left," said Sen. David R. Brinkley, R-Carroll and Frederick, the new Senate minority leader.

The 423rd legislative session opened in the typical celebratory fashion, with handshakes and congratulations for the newly elected members and friendly welcomes for the returning members. The State House swarmed with spectators, as legislators and their families lined up to be photographed with Busch. Delegate Joseline A. Pena-Melnyk, D-Prince George's, posed with her husband and three children.

"I'm looking forward to getting to know my colleagues," said the newly elected delegate, who listed health and education among her top priorities.

For many, it was a family affair. In the House lounge, Delegate S. Saqib Ali, D-Montgomery, sat in a couch holding sleeping infant daughter Sofia.

Over at the computers, Christian Anderson, 17, son of Delegate Curtis S. Anderson, D-Baltimore, played a game with friends Cathy and Joseph LoGrande. Other families toured the State House and met Max, the bomb-sniffing dog. During both the house and senate sessions, many members simply sat with their children on their laps.

Notably missing from the hubbub was Ehrlich, who, according to aides, was in meetings all day.

As legislators made their way to the State House through near-freezing temperatures, they were greeted by anti-abortion messages from about a dozen Defend for Life protesters on Lawyer's Mall.

"When they vote for abortion, they vote for the destruction of life," said Vincent Perticone, a 66-year-old Taneytown resident.

Kevin Davis, a protester from Towson, said he wanted legislators to end abortion and what he called "the baby holocaust."

Man Arrested On Drug Charge After Traffic Stop

A 52-year-old Virginia man was arrested for possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia after a traffic stop on Route 40 at Pigs Ear Road Sunday at approximately 12:45 a.m., according to the Maryland State Police.

After John C. Ansell, 52, McGaheysville, was pulled over for allegedly traveling 69 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone, an MSP officer noticed a smoking device made of glass in Ansell's 2000 Chevrolet Impala. After a probable cause search of the vehicle, the police seized 5.7 grams of suspected marijuana and the smoking device.

Ansell was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia, and speeding, before being taken to Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial bond hearing.

Drivers Charged With Failure To Control Speed

An Oakland woman was charged with driving on a suspended license and failure to control speed to avoid a collision Tuesday evening.

Toni Lynn Sullivan, 25, was involved in a minor motor vehicle accident at the intersection of Garrett Highway and Sang Run Road to which sheriff's deputies responded. Snow covered roadways were the responsible catalyst to the accident. No injuries were reported at the scene.

In an unrelated incident, Phillip James Gordon, 25, Oakland, was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision on Fingerboard Road Wednesday morning. Snow-covered roadways contributed to the accident, noted authorities.

Gordon was driving eastbound and failed to negotiate a turn. He drove off the roadway and struck a dwelling which was occupied at the time of the accident; however, there were no injuries. Sheriff's deputies reported to the scene as well as the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Drug Charge

An Oakland man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court Monday to three years in the Division of Corrections for a drug charge. Robert Gordon Cook, 32, had pleaded guilty in December to possession with intent to distribute marijuana.

Cook was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in May 2006 after quantities of marijuana and paraphernalia were found at his residence when a search and seizure warrant was executed.

Jennifer Lynn Cook, 35, Oakland, was also charged in the incident. She pleaded guilty in Circuit Court on Monday to possession of marijuana and to possession of cocaine.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Mrs. Cook to three years in the Division of Corrections, with all but six months suspended for the cocaine charge, and to six months in the Garrett County Jail, to be served concurrently, for the marijuana charge. After serving her jail sentences, Mrs. Cook will be on supervised probation.

Jennifer Cook was also charged last January when a vehicle in which she was a passenger was stopped for a traffic violation. After a drug detection dog gave a positive alert, marijuana was found in her pocketbook. For this violation, Mrs. Cook received three months in the Garrett County Jail, consecutive to the sentences in the other case.

In other court news this week, William Elsworth Hughes Jr., 33, Etters, Pa., admitted in Circuit Court to violating his probation.

Sherbin reimposed the 3½ years remaining on Hughes's sentence and suspended 2½ years. Hughes will serve the one year in the Garrett County Jail, and will then be on probation again for two years.

Hughes had pleaded guilty in Circuit Court in October 2004 to a second-degree rape charge for having relations with an underage female at an Oakland area motel. At that time, he was sentenced to five years in the Division of Corrections, with the 3½ years suspended.

After serving 18 months in the Garrett County Jail, Hughes was released on probation, which was transferred and being supervised in Pennsylvania.

Hughes violated his probation by testing positive for marijuana usage, for changing his address without permission and subsequently absconding from probation supervision, according to the state's attorney.

In other Circuit Court news, charges of child abuse and second degree assault against Brian Keith Craver, 40, Oakland, were placed on the stet docket on Wednesday. He was charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation after allegations were made that he had assaulted a juvenile in his residence in June.

As a condition of the stet being granted, Craver must attend and complete an anger management course, said the state's attorney.

Also on Tuesday, William Evan Stubbs, 33, Preston, was found guilty of driving on a revoked privilege by Sherbin after a bench trial. The judge then granted a probation before judgment to Stubbs and fined him $1,000.

Stubbs was charged by Maryland State Police in October 2005 after his vehicle was stopped on I-68 for a speeding violation. A computer check with the Motor Vehicle Administration showed Stubbs's privilege to drive had been revoked since 1999.

A MEGA BASH, at which not only a grand prize of $10,000 will be awarded, but also six (count 'em) six Suzuki 400 4-wheelers (pictured) will be presented to lucky ticket holders. Numerous other cash prizes will also be awarded. It will all take place this Saturday, Jan. 13, at the Oakland fire hall, for the benefit of the Oakland VFD. A drawing will be held every five minutes from noon to 6 p.m., and the winning tickets will be returned to the bin so participants will have a chance to win multiple times. Only 1,000 tickets are being sold at $100 each. Food and beverages will be available at the hall all day, free to ticket holders. Tickets are still available and may be purchased from any member of the OVFD. Persons need not be present to win prizes.

Police Arrest Man For Assault In Local Apartment

The Oakland Police arrested Timothy Hart Winkler, 23, Lonaconing, on New Year's day after he allegedly invited a man into an Oakland apartment and attacked him. The incident occurred at approximately 9:05 p.m.

The police said they responded to a call from a neighbor who reported a possible fight in progress at 101 E. Water Street Apt. 2. Upon arrival, the police found Winkler and Thomas Allen Lantz, 27, inside the apartment.

A police investigation revealed that Winkler had invited Lantz into the apartment, locked the door, and then attacked him. The tenant of the apartment was not on the premises at the time of the incident as she was being held at the Garrett County Detention Center on drug charges. In questioning the authorized tenant, the police determined that Winkler did not have permission to be in the apartment.

The police reported that Lantz had head and neck injuries. Winkler was arrested and charged with second-degree assault, false imprisonment, fourth-degree assault, disorderly conduct, and disturbing the peace. Winkler was taken to Garrett County Detention Center and held on a $20,000 bond.

Man Charged With Theft Of Gas From Buses

An Oakland man was arrested and charged with theft of less than $100 when he allegedly attempted to siphon gas from a Garrett County Transit Bus Wednesday at approximately 11:45 p.m., according to the Oakland Police.

A pickup truck, driven by John Clinton Friend Jr., 22, Oakland, was spotted by an Oakland police officer pulling out of an area near Oakland Rosedale Road where the Garrett Transit buses were parked.

Because the police had received past reports of gas being stolen from the buses, the officer on patrol stopped the vehicle to question the occupants. Reportedly, there was no gas can in the vehicle at the time, but the officer smelled gas coming from inside the cab of the truck.

The officer checked the buses and found a gas can with a siphon hose running from the can to the gas tank of the bus. The police then matched the bottom of the gas can with impressions in the snow in the bed of the pickup.

Friend later confessed to the crime. The other occupant in the truck was not charged. Friend was taken to Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Few Options...

The thought of sending more troops into Iraq as President Bush intends to do is horrible. The thought of even one more of our young American troops dying there is ghastly. The thought of the daily, deadly hostilities there raging for another year, or two, or three, is terrifying.

Yet, under the circumstances, are there really many options here? There may be as few as three: continue doing what we have been doing; pack all of our troops up immediately and bring them home; or do what the president is now proposing. That's about it.

There couldn't be many Americans, if any, who would be in favor of the first option.

The second option is evidently the choice of about two-thirds of Americans, according to polls released just this morning. That position is completely understandable, as the death count, both of Americans and Iraqis, continues to climb daily, and progress seems so agonizingly slow or non-existent.

But we must consider the consequences of an abrupt, or even a measured, departure of our troops, which would likely be devastating; devastating for Iraq, for the Middle East, and ultimately for the entire world. Pulling our military is precisely what the terrorists want us to do, meaning it would be an absolute victory for them and absolute defeat for not only the United States, but the entire free world. Pulling out now would make the sacrifices of the thousands of U.S. troops who have given life and limb for the cause totally in vain.

Was it wrong for us to have invaded Iraq in the first place? Maybe. Was it wrong for President Bush to exclaim "Mission accomplished" over two years ago? Absolutely. Did he and our military leaders underestimate the strength and perseverance of the enemy? Obviously. Should we have sent greater numbers of troops in to begin with? In all probability.

But all of that is the proverbial water over the dam. We are in a huge mess. It is what it is, regardless of how it came to be. "I told you so"s are absolutely useless. All effort must now be directed to getting ourselves out of the mess, but with some measure of victory, and in a way that does not render the blood that has been shed there a total waste. Unfortunately, the option selected by the president appears to be the only one whereby we can have hope that such can be accomplished.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am sure you have been informed frequently in some form or fashion about the prices of property here in Garrett County. As a native, I search the paper for an affordable home to buy or for a decent place to rent, and I find a lack for the home ownership dream.

I can relate to how the Native Americans must have felt at being driven off lands that were familiar to them. I can relate to their pain and anguish, and even now centuries later, they are still a people group that suffers. So I wonder if just a small percentage are to excel, while others who truly feel a love for this place and have deep roots and memories here are to give up in despair.

Sincerely,
Dawn Braskey

To the Editor:

Glisan's Restaurant's late owner Isa T. Rosenberger, who died Dec. 28, was a true legend of the Laurel Mountains.

The matriarch of a beloved local family, she and her husband Howard owned Glisan's for a half century. We family, friends, and employees are certainly going to miss her.

When you entered Glisan's, you could not tell where customer ended and family began. Isa lived for the restaurant, and she never met a stranger. She enjoyed visiting with everyone who came in, and she was very good to us employees. There was nothing she wouldn't do to help us. She was a very special lady whom we all looked up to. They don't come any finer.

Glisan's Restaurant will continue, and Isa's memory will continue through her children: Ruth, Darwin, Harry, and Bonnie. Her memory will live on with all of us.

Keep coming to Glisan's, and keep Isa's memory alive.

To the Editor:

It is time the Annapolis legislature look to change an archaic law that covers divorce settlements in Maryland. Today is a new generation, and lifestyles have changed making the current law discriminatory against the men of this state. The antiquated law has protected the woman no matter how her morals are, or if she is guilty of adultry and even if she has deserted the family. The law makes her look like a model of motherhood even if she is not truly a fit mother.

There are fathers who want to see their children properly cared for, but the law is inadequate in that there is no follow-through of how the support money is spent. A serious economic issue is that child support is taken from the father's gross income and the father cannot deduct this from his income tax, but the mother can do so.

Another issue is that the mother can sign away the custody of the children, and a year later file for full custody and the court awards her full custody.

There are many changes needed in this system, and those interested in solving this injustice to men in the state of Maryland are asked to contact: Maryland Fathers' Rights League, 400 So. Allegany St., Cumberland, MD 21502, or call 301-722-4624. The first meeting is set for Sunday, Jan. 14, at 2 p.m. at the above address.

To the Editor:

I would like to commend our local postal service for going above and beyond their call to duty.

My five-year-old daughter has asked Santa for a jack-in-the-box for the last couple years. When she asked again this year, even though I thought she was a little old for one, I thought I ought to make that wish come true. I searched frantically locally and could not find one. The Sunday before Christmas, I purchased one over the Internet. Thinking I had a week, standard delivery would suffice.

Waiting patiently, I was rather disappointed to find the parcel pickup card in the mailbox on Saturday, indicating I could pick it up Tuesday after Christmas. The thought of the disappointing look in her eyes brought tears to mine.

Well, Sunday morning after church, there was a knock on the door. A woman stood there holding a package! Startled with disbelief, I said thank you and, as I watched her drive away, I noticed the back of her car was loaded with other packages. The next morning, even though there were numerous gifts under the tree, the most favorite was the jack-in-the-box!

I don't know the woman's name, but I want her to know that she made a 5-year-old's dream – and her mom's – come true. Thank you!

To the Editor:

On Dec. 28, several members of Garrett Countians for Smart Growth attended a meeting of the Garrett County commissioners. The purpose was to review several legislative issues. Approximately 50% of those in attendance, other than government officials, were there to pursue an alternate design to the proposed Oakland bypass.

There were 13 issues on the agenda. Each of these items was addressed in depth. All questions from those in attendance were answered thoroughly.

However, when the subject of the bypass was brought forward, the climate changed.

Paul Shogren restated the cost of the bypass: $42 million. He asked the commissioners to show how citizens will gain $42 million worth of benefits from this bypass. The commissioners cited no statistics, offered no explanation; they said nothing!

I had asked a question at a previous public commissioner meeting. Having received no response, I repeated it on Thursday; "Many persons have offered other less costly, less invasive designs to relieve traffic in Oakland. Why won't you even consider an alternative to this proposed design? If you won't consider another option, then at the very least tell us why you won't consider an alternative?" Again, no statistics, no explanations, not even an attempt at political doubletalk of evasion ... only dead silence from all three commissioners.

My intent was not to aggravate our commissioners. I would simply like some understanding of why they are so steadfast in their decision when so many citizens oppose it. Surely, looking at alternatives would be a simple procedure that could result in a better design for all of us. And yet the commissioners refuse even to consider a look at something else, and they refuse to tell us why.

Why will the commissioners devote as much time as is needed on all other issues and completely avoid any attempt to answer this simple question concerning the bypass?

As a citizen, you have the right to know how the expenditure of $42 million of your tax money is going to benefit you. You have the right to know why less-expensive, less-invasive designs are not even being considered.

As an elementary school teacher, I expect the students I teach to take responsibility for the decisions they make. In addition, I never refuse to answer their questions. In turn, when I ask them a question, I expect (and always) receive an answer. I would expect the same from our board of commissioners.

Sincerely,
Lynne Elmlinger

To the Editor:

I reflect back on 2006 as the year that the citizens of the state of Maryland lost rights and privileges due to the DNR's use of its arbitrary powers.

In 2006, Mike Dreisbach of the Savage River Lodge took his friend, Delegate Leroy Myers, to Mike Slattery, assistant secretary of the DNR, to establish a so called "Safety Buffer Zone" around his business. Mike stated and pleaded safety issues with the DNR. Steve Koehn, state forester, authorized "No Hunting/ Weapons Prohibited" signs to be posted 150 yards from a hiking trail around the Savage River Lodge and the road leading up to the lodge. This gave Mike Dreisbach a 193-acre buffer around the 42-acre parcel he owns in the middle of the Savage River State Forest. This took 193 acres of hunting lands from the public and caused much outrage in the local community.

It turns out that our Delegate George Edwards or the public was never addressed of the situation. The yellow signs just appeared. The DNR stated that they had the authority to establish such a safety zone when safety is an issue.

In my opinion, this is not a safety issue. The issue is that Mike Dreisbach of the Savage River Lodge does not have enough land to support his business operations and has to use state lands to do so. There were never any safety issues documented by the DNR police until this year. On the opening day of rifle season, the DNR police gave written warnings to Walter Dreisbach, Hagerstown, and Brian Dreisbach, Williamsport, for having loaded firearms in the safety zone along Mount Aetna Road. My sources tell me these are Mike Dreisbach's relatives disobeying the very signs that he had the DNR authorize to be put in place.

The DNR stated that the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce agreed with the safety zone in place when, in fact this was the personal opinion of the chamber's CEO, Charlie Ross. By the way, Jan Russell, lodge owner, is on the chamber's board of directors.

The bottom line is that this sets a horrible precedent. Allowing any business or individual to post and control state lands 150 yards from their property line or from self-created hiking trails on state land is wrong. Delegate George Edwards is asking for the signs to come down. So am I, and so is my community.

To the Editor:

On October 30, 2002, before he was even elected to office, Governor Ehrlich said (Sun, page 1B) "I would reverse Glendening's policy of refusing to pardon people who have been sentenced to life in prison." Instead, Ehrlich said, he would review each case to determine if the prisoner has reformed.

After four years in office, Governor Ehrlich has granted clemency in just five cases; the validity of his lifer promise remains sadly unfulfilled. And the question is relevant given the front page Baltimore Sun article about the long overdue release of Walter Lomax ("Judge Overturns Life Sentence In '67 Killing," December 14, 2006, Baltimore Sun, page 1A).

Walter "Mandela" Lomax, the name he signed his editorials with in the monthly Maryland House of Corrections Conqueror magazine, is one of the 134 lifers who were removed from work release in 1993 when the governor changed the lifer policies.

As reported in the Sun, Lomax had educated himself while in prison, and earned work release and family leave. As one of the 134 lifers, I have known Walt for over two decades, since we were in the Jessup Pre-Release Unit where Walt was a supervisor for Advo Systems, which produces the Sunday sales inserts for newspapers nationwide.

On work release we paid room and board; transportation; local, state, and federal taxes; Blue Cross/Blue Shield and other insurance; and Social Security. We were productive, contributing members of society, and not one of the 134 lifers removed from work release had violated any regulation to merit removal from the community.

It is understood that politics have taken over the process and lifers will never again be placed in work release; the question is whether any relief will ever be provided for those remaining lifers who, like Walter Lomax, had earned their education, and moved on to work release and family leave in the community.

For those lifers who lack prestigious legal and political friends, the question is, almost 14 years after their removal from the community when they had fulfilled every expectation that they were truly reformed, will the political process continue to ignore their plight, the limbo in which they have been placed through no fault of their own due solely to a regulatory change?

Is there hope Governor Ehrlich may yet fulfill his pre-election promise?

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey

To the Editor:

While President Bush decides what to do in the debacle of Iraq, brave Americans continue to die and suffer. Previous strategies have been exhausted ever since our initial failure to "shock and awe" an enemy that knows well this is a war without end. Winning every battle is irrelevant. They will never quit.

Engaged in an ideological and sacred religious crusade, the Iraqis will fight as long as it takes until the Americans leave. They have resisted foreign invaders in the past, and they will do it again.

And now, the president talks of a "surge," or what was called an "escalation" during the Vietnam civil war. If one of our major purposes in Iraq is to let the Iraqis take the lead in enforcing their own national security, then whose side are young Americans fighting and dying for? Only the Iraqis can bring order to Iraq. We cannot win by simply escalating troop strength.

Benchmarks and timetables mean nothing to Prime Minister al-Maliki, Parliament Speaker Mahmud al-Mashhadani, or powerful cleric Muqtadaal-Sadr. With democracy comes sovereignty, and the Iraqi duly elected power structure, not the U.S., will eventually reach some sort of conflict resolution and equilibrium–maybe. And, it will take years, not months.

Once again, an American president sends its best and brightest to fight in a war built upon lies, with an unclear mission, reckless strategy, and no end in sight. There are limitations to high-tech military equipment and superbly trained warriors when facing an unconventional and highly motivated people who will fight and die for their national sovereignty. As we learned in Vietnam, nationalism is a powerful force.

Like Vietnam, Iraq, regardless of what we do, will continue to have a profound and lasting impact on another generation of Americans. This misguided and deadly venture will leave our children alienated, confused, and cynical about American leadership in the world. When will we ever learn from previous entanglements?

There is no justification for Americans to bleed and sacrifice for a civil war-torn and fragmented Iraq, whose leaders are more focused on their own parochial interests. Having served as a Marine in Vietnam, I must ask, "How many more American lives will be lost before President Bush, like President Johnson, admits that he has made a deadly mistake?"

May God bless our brave and selfless men and women serving in Iraq.

ern Conveyance System. She said the design engineer delivered 100 percent complete drawings and specification for the pump station contract on Jan. 4 for her department's final review, along with 90 percent complete plans for the pipeline contract for review and comment.

"We are working on the water resources permit for that with the state," she added. "It's pretty detailed."

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty asked if all the easements for the project were in place.

"No," Lindsey said, adding that the county's General Services department and Public Utilities were reviewing the final plats for the project and would be contacting the affected property owners.

Lindsey reported on several other water projects taking place in the county. Those include the following.

•Crellin Water Improvements – The Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) has issued its approval to award the well drilling contract to Wayne's Water 'N' Wells.

•Mtn. Lake Park Water Improvements – The MDE also approved the award of the test well drilling contract to Brenneman Well Drilling.

•McHenry Water Improvements – The Garrett County Fair Board executed a formal, right-of-entry agreement, allowing Public Utilities to drill two test wells on the fairground property. Advertisment for the drilling contract will begin this week in The Republican.

Public Utilities is also coordinating solicitation of engineering proposals with the Garrett County Purchasing Deaprtment. The scope of services will includ extension of the water line from the Sweet Rewards development to the new tank site along Ridgeview Valley and connection of the existing well along Gravelly Run Road to the new tank, Lindsey said.

•Thayerville Water System – Jim Casselberry of Casselberry & Associates will be in the county on Wednesday to further evaluate possible water sources in the Thayerville area. Lindsey noted the need for the water system, as wells were going dry at Mountain Side.

•Gorman Water/Table Rock Road Water Line Extension – The state's Smart Growth Committee was scheduled to review the project Tuesday in relation to a $350,000 grant that is earmarked for the project.

Lindsey said 20 years ago the county was focusing on the need for sewer service improvements and expansion. The focus is now going to be on water, she indicated.

No appointment is required, and taxpayers will normally have their returns completed while they wait. However, anyone concerned about long wait times may call 301-334-2953 during the hours listed above, a spokesperson noted.

would be good."

But, she added, for a retail establishment that does not appear to be feasible.

DeBerry also reported on the "Visit Our Working Farms" brochure, which has been published for about six years. Funding was procured for the project, and farm participants were solicited. The brochures feature local farms that visitors may tour.

Commissioner Fred Holliday asked about the brochure funding. DeBerry said the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Development Corporation, and Economic Development have helped fund the project. Farmers could be included in the brochure for free for the first few years to get the project started in Garrett and Preston County, W.Va.

"We started charging farmers last year and are going to increase that fee this year to help fund it," DeBerry said about the publication.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty asked if the tours were profitable for the farmers.

"Some are charging (for the tours) and doing very well," DeBerry said. For example, Cove Run Farm, which features a corn maze in the fall, is looking at expanding its operation. Some participants, however, do not charge for their tours, even if they offer refreshments and trinkets. They see the tours as a public service and an opportunity to educate the public on agriculture.

Glotfelty asked why some farmers did not charge for their tours.

DeBerry said they see the tours as a service, a way to educate people about farming, and to build support for the agricultural community. The specialist said she understands their point, but is trying to encourage those farmers to also charge fees.

In addition to overseeing the tour brochure, DeBerry does a follow-up survey to see how many visitors the farms had during the year. About 50,000 people visited farms in Garrett and Preston counties last year, she said. About a third of those visitors toured Cove Run Farm, which charges a fee.

"Our farmers' markets did pretty well this year," DeBerry reported.

For the Grantsville Farmers Market, she assisted in making advertising posters, listed the venue on free web site calendars, and provided additional assistance as needed.

For the Mtn. Fresh Farmers Markets in Oakland and McHenry, DeBerry created posters for and provided marketing assistance to youth market vendors, maintained the Mtn. Fresh web site, completed customer surveys with the help of a courthouse intern and AmeriCorps workers, and started work on a recipe booklet.

New at all the markets for the 2007 season will be a "Shop with a Chef" program. DeBerry wrote and received a grant that will enable a chef to buy produce from the vendors, set up a grill, prepare dishes, and show market shoppers what recipes they can prepare at home with their purchases.

DeBerry reported that she also helped coordinate meetings for the local Land Use Taskforce and researched densities of ag land and ordinances related to farming. The goal of the taskforce is to find ways to save local farm land.

She also participated in the Rural Development Coalition's (RDC) 2006 Rural Enterprises Conferences by helping to secure speakers, vendors, and sponsors; drafting the conference brochure and news releases; organizing vendor displays; coordinating speaker presentations; and updating and maintaining the RDC web site.

The coalition's 2007 conference will be held at Preston High School in Kingwood, W.Va., on March 17. Workshops for farmers of all ages will be available.

"We're hoping to have about 150 people there this year," DeBerry said about the day-long conference.

She has also been involved in numerous state and local agriculture committees and speaking engagements at various conferences and meetings, including the Maryland Land Use Forum, Maryland Rural Summit, and the Maryland Farmers Market Conference.

"We've got several things going on, and we're excited about agriculture in the county right now," DeBerry said at the conclusion of her update for the commissioners.

"Good report," Holliday said. "Keep our farmers going."

ON A PERSONAL NOTE
by Lucretia Sines

Another year has come and gone way too quickly, and it is always fun to look back on the year and see what things were significant and what changes came about. Believe it or not, 2006 started out pretty much the same way it has so far in 2007, with spring-like weather the week of the 9th through the 13th, with snow on the 18th and a storm that closed Garrett County schools on the 25th.

The year 2006 also brought new businesses to the community, with the opening of the Jubilee Diner on April 10, the Morning Glory Bed and Breakfast, the Sugar Shack in August, and Luigi's Coffee Shop in the fall. December saw the open house for the new rescue squad building.

March 31 will be remembered by many volunteer emergency personnel from all over the county who answered the call when a bus loaded with school students lost its brakes on Elder Hill and ran into the back of a log truck. Even though it could have been worse, no serious injuries occurred.

Friendsville Days celebration was revived in August with the Salute to our Troops, which was a great success.

As we reflect on days gone by, we should also remember those from the Friendsville area who touched our lives through the years and will be long remembered: David Liller, Brenda Glass, Dorothy Bowser, John E. Sines, Janet Jeffreys, Judy Selby, Naomi Frantz, Charles E. Thomas, Pauline M. Lewis, Helen Fike, Jasper Friend, Betty Smith, Norma Frazee, Larna Umbel, Dr. Bruce G. Jenkins, Norma VanDivner, Dawn Jenkins, Ruth Selby, Ina Lechman, Joyce Tyson, Blaine J. Frazee, Richard (Rit) Thomas, Lawrence Burdick Sr., Wayne L. Bowser, Joyce Verbus, Cynthia Thomas, Iris Dordal, Marlin Uphold, Helen Ortlip, Richard (Doug) King, Allen L. Bowman, Dorothy Savage, Leslie E. Friend, Albert Smearman, Ed Wilburn, and Michael Coomes. May the spirit of all that they gave be long appreciated in all who knew them.

cial statements will reflect the cost of that as if it were going to happen today."

He added, however, that the county would have to estimate the future closure cost and periodically change that number based on inflation and available technology.

"Your financial department is doing a great job," Murray said at the conclusion of the audit report.

Gregg concurred and also commended county staff for their diligence in maintaining the budget.

Copies of the financial report are available by contacting the commissioners' office.

How is Cystic Fibrosis Treated?

Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disorder that is characterized by abnormal functioning of the mucus glands, causing the mucus that lines organs to become thick and sticky. With cystic fibrosis, mucus builds up in the lungs and blocks the airways, producing an environment conducive to bacterial growth. This leads to repeated serious lung infections, such as bronchitis and pneumonia, which over time may cause serious lung damage. The digestion process can also be affected by this condition, as the thickened mucus can block pancreas ducts, preventing the passage of digestive enzymes to the small intestine. There is currently no cure available for cystic fibrosis. However, treatments are available which may permit cystic fibrosis sufferers to live longer.

Antibiotics are used for the treatment of bacterial infections. Inhaled antibiotics, such as tobramycin, may be used to treat infections. Anti-inflammatory medications are useful to help decrease the inflammation of the lungs that results from on-going infections. Ibuprofen may be used to slow the progress of this condition in young children with mild symptoms. Bronchodilators help to relax the airway muscle and help clear mucus. Mucus-thinning medications are also available to help reduce the stickiness of mucus in the airways.

Local College Student Earns Degree Through Online Completion Program

A Garrett College student was awarded a bachelor's degree at a commencement ceremony Sunday, Jan. 7. However, the degree awarded was not from Garrett College, but rather from Franklin University in Columbus, Ohio.

The graduate, Amanda Savage, completed her bachelor's degree in public safety management by participating in a unique educational alliance between Garrett College and Franklin University. The bachelor's degree completion program allows students in the U.S. to combine on-campus course work at their local community college with online classes through Franklin to complete their degree.

Garrett College is one of 238 community colleges across the U.S. that has formed an educational alliance with Franklin University. The Community College Alliance was established to provide students the opportunity to earn their bachelor's degrees online while remaining in their community. Bachelor's degrees are available in: accounting, applied management, business administration, business forensics, computer science, digital communication, financial management, forensic accounting, health care management, information technology, management, management information sciences, marketing, and public safety management. An innovative 17-month online Vantage MBA also is available.

Franklin offers students a convenient online format and the ability to fit classes into their daily schedule. Students also have the benefit of belonging to two schools at one time. They can access Franklin's resources in addition to the resources of Garrett College. Franklin's resources include academic advising, a help desk, and a library system. Each student also is assigned a student services associate, who provides support and guidance by answering questions about transcripts, financial aid or even how to purchase textbooks.

Franklin University serves nearly 10,000 students annually through its on-campus programs in Columbus and the Community College Alliance.

In addition to offering eight undergraduate degree programs, the 100-year-old university now has three master's degree programs, offered in an online format.

In 1999, Franklin was named as one of 15 educational organizations nationwide for a U.S. Department of Education pilot project, which ensures that federal financial aid is available to students pursuing college degrees through distance learning.

LIABILITIES INTO ASSETS!

Getting ready to place your home on the market? If it is in anything less than "like new" condition, you'll need a little reality check before you can determine a fair asking price. Since buyers will order one anyway, you should strongly consider having an inspection performed by a licensed professional before you market your home.

Why do it now, since the buyers will pay to do it later? Ask yourself if you like surprises! If repair issues are identified, you have time to decide whether to pay now for the improvements, or adjust your asking price accordingly. The old rule of thumb dictates that buyers will offer $2 less for every $1 in needed repairs, so make your decision with care.

This is a great opportunity to take lemons and make some lemonade! Don't ignore major repairs that can boost your home's value and desirability. If your home is marketed while in need of a new roof, you've got a real liability and challenging sales point. Market your home with a brand new roof, and suddenly you've got a great asset.

Discover problems and implement solutions before you make your final pricing decision. To do otherwise simply invites unpleasant surprises and low offers. In today's highly competitive market, you need to take proactive steps that assure your home's value stands out in the crowd.

THE POINSETTIA: FROM SOUTH OF THE BORDER TO BRIGHTEN THOSE WINTER DAYS

Poinsettias are originally from Mexico and Central America and offer the home a bright focal point on those long winter days. They were named after Joel Roberts Poinsett, the first ambassador to Mexico, who brought the plant back to his plantation in Greenville, South Carolina. December 12 is Poinsettia Day. It was so declared in honor of Poinsett, who died on Dec. 12, 1851.

The holidays are over and you have one or more lovely poinsettias, and you would like to enjoy them for a while longer. What should you do to extend the life of your poinsettia (Euphorbia pulcherrima). The beautiful colored leaves, called bracts, should easily last for four to six weeks in your home if you take care of them properly. Place your plant in a sunny location. Places like your hallway won't work. Sudden temperature changes can mean the end to your plant so place them away from drafts or heating vents or the like. The ideal temperature for poinsettias is 70-75 degrees in the day and 62 to 65 degrees at night.

Water thoroughly when the surface soil is dry to the touch and drain off any excess water within 30 minutes to an hour. Poinsettias hate to get their feet wet, but they love a humid environment. You can increase the humidity by placing the plant in a shallow dish filled with gravel or pebbles. Add water to just below the base of the pot but not touching it. Don't mist your plant, and don't let water get on the bracts.

Long-term Planting and Care

Poinsettias are perennials. If you would like to keep your plant growing and blooming year after year, place it outside in full or partial sun once all danger of frost has passed. Trim it into a nice rounded shape. Place it against a southern exposure wall if at all possible. This protects it from wind damage. Choose a well-draining location. Root disease is a major problem with poinsettias; consequently, garden soil is not recommended if you are repotting into a larger pot. Use a sterilized, lightweight potting mix for this purpose. If you are planting directly into the ground, amend your soil with a sterilized lightweight potting mix.

When new growth begins to show, use an all-purpose, water-soluble fertilizer every other week or use slow release pellets. Bring the plant indoors before the first frost. Poinsettias cannot tolerate frost. Be certain to check for any bugs on your plant so you don't bring them into the house by accident.

Forced Blooming

Poinsettias are considered short-day plants, but they will eventually bloom. If you want to see your plants in bloom for the holidays you must subject them to a minimum of six weeks of 14 hours of total darkness per day starting in mid-September up until October 1. You can do this by placing your plant in a closet or covering it with black cloth, a black plastic frame or a cardboard box. An even easier way is to put your poinsettia in a black plastic bag with a twist tie because you can just take the tie off and lower the bag, then pull it back up when time is up. Any small light can upset this process, even turning the light on in the closet, so be careful. The plant should be taken out and given direct sunlight each day for up to 6 hours. Once the color begins to show, take it out of the darkness and use fertilizer with a high nitrogen content every 2 weeks. Have fun!

A Little Poinsettia Trivia

Poinsettias are not poisonous as many believe, but eating them could give you a tummy ache so keep them away from children and pets.

Adorable Adoptables

Because of repairs being conducted at the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week, only a few animals are available for adoption. One of those is an older male beagle that was picked up as a stray at New Germany State Park. No photograph of the canine was available.

"The shelter was filled to capacity last week, but because of the dedication of HART of Garrett County and several other volunteers most of those animals were taken to rescues," said Lisa Baker, Humane Society president. Otherwise, these pets would been euthanized so that the work at the shelter could be done, she noted.

HART stands for Homeless Animal Rescue and Transport. Baker plans to provide more information in next week's paper about HART's shelter rescue operation.

"Now that the cold weather has returned, hay is available at the shelter for use in dog boxes," Baker added. "The Maryland Annotated Code requires that you provide adequate shelter, food, and water for your pets.

For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

TOTL Theatre Co. To Present Fledgly, Shakespeare, Musical

Lynn Broderick, director of the TOTL (Theatre on the Lake) Theatre Company, announces the 2007 season, to be presented at the Garrett College theatre from July 12 to August 11. The slate includes a production for children, a Shakespearean classic, and a Broadway musical.

Leading off the summer will be a new Adventures of Fledgly: Fledgly and the Forrest of Things Forgotten. The youth theatre play, written by Broderick, takes Fledgly and his pals – Lester, Fester, Dester, Mester, Pester, and Littleun – on a journey to find things they've forgotten because of lack of use.

"Everything from lost toys to good manners, from silence to not forgetting you're a kid only once are some of the ideas explored in the play," said Broderick, who added, "All of the Fledgly plays put some responsibility into the hands kids ... plays challenge audience members with the decisions the main characters in the play make how those decisions affect the group. The plays also remind us that sometimes we resemble the characters in the plays in the way we handle ourselves in daily life."

Fledgly and the Forrest of Things Forgotten will be performed for the public July 12-14 at 7 p.m. The play will also be offered to summer Bible camps, youth groups, and specialty camps during the day from July 15 through August 9. Youth directors who are planning their summer schedules are invited to contact Broderick at 304-735-3118 for more details on what the TOTL Theatre Company can do to enrich their children's experience.

The Shakespearean comedy A Midsummer Night's Dream will be presented for two weekends: July 11-21 and July 25-28, at 7:30 p.m. each evening. In typical Shakespearean fashion, the play involves a wedding, a play within a play, fairies and fairy juice, mistaken identities, lovers who love and lovers who don't, and a man who turns into a donkey, all set in a verdant forest surrounding the home of the Duke.

"The play is robust and fun, and no one should shy away from the beautiful language. It is one of Shakespeare's most accessible plays for audiences of all ages," said Broderick.

The third offering will be the Broadway musical The Secret Garden, to be presented August 2-4 and August 8-11 at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

The story is the classic drama of young Mary Lennox whose parents die in India of the cholera. Subsequently, Mary is sent to England to live with her uncle and his son Colin, a sickly forgotten lad. The garden becomes the place where Mary helps Colin get well and earns herself a place in their family forever.

Broderick directed and designed the musical in 2005 for the Preston County Summer Theatre, but admitted designing the production for the smaller space at Garrett College would be a challenge, even for a seasoned set designer.

"The music is also not for novice singers. It is bold and challenging, with soaring melodies and Celtic overtones that are delightfully singable," she said. "It is one of a few musicals in which the TOTL company's trained voices will be featured to their fullest extent, and the audience is guaranteed an engaging theatrical experience."

Tickets for the summer season will go on sale later this spring.

GCS To Present Mozart's Requiem; Singers Invited

The Garrett Choral Society will be performing Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's Requiem during Palm Sunday weekend, March 31 and April 1. Rehearsals began on Jan. 7, but new singers are welcome, according to Julie Turrentine, director of the group. Rehearsals take place on Sundays, 6:30 to 9, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, located at the corner of Fourth and Oak streets in Oakland.

The Requiem was the musical score for the movie Amadeus, which was a portrayal of Mozart's life.

"Mozart was only 35 when he was visited by a 'gray visitor' who commissioned him to compose a requiem," Turrentine said. "Being in ill health and because he desperately needed the money, the movie purports that Mozart accepted the offer but was forever haunted by this visitor as he considered this individual to be some sort of emissary of death. In fact, he became obsessed with the notion that he was writing the work in preparation for his own death."

Mozart died just short of his 36th birthday, having not finished the Requiem.

"Since he had already been paid a portion of the commission fee, which was mostly spent, and since Constanze, his young widow, needed the money, she set about finding someone to complete the work," Turrentine said. "The remainder of the work therefore was finished by one of his students, Franz Xaver Sussmayr, although he was not her first or even her second choice. It is this edition, however, that the Choral Society will be performing."

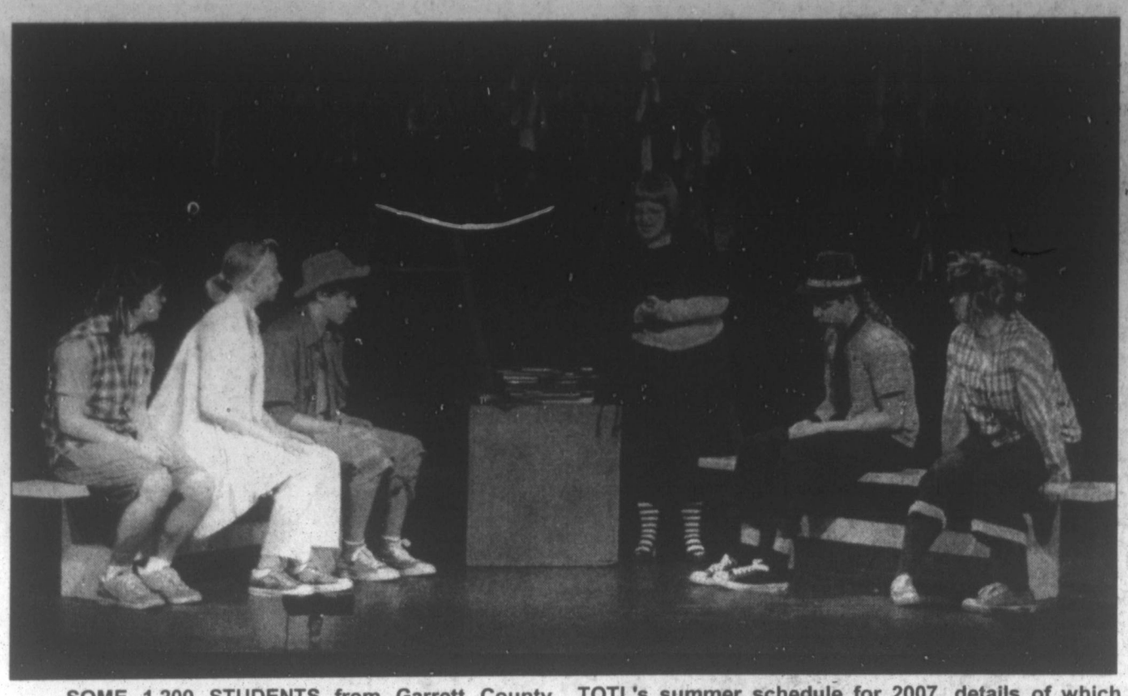
Turrentine went on to note that a controversy as to how Sussmayr completed the work exists today.

"Did he use Mozart's ideas from conversations that they had had prior to his death, or was the material Sussmayr's own? At any rate, the Requiem fits the style of the Viennese Mass setting of the time. We will never know to what degree Sussmayr made use of Mozart's sketches for the later movements, as Constanze destroyed these sketches in order to maintain the fiction that her husband actually completed the Requiem himself," Turrentine said.

"A requiem is a Mass for the dead, and musical beauty can be achieved many ways," she said. "With the Faure, it was lush harmonies, long phrases, and subtle harmonic changes. With the Mozart, phrases can be aggressive, dark, even sombre at times, yet rising to great heights of drama and majesty."

Singers who wish to learn and perform the Requiem are invited to take part in this event. The Garrett Choral Society is a non-auditioned, community choral organization. Those who join are asked to make a commitment to regularly attending rehearsals and to learning the music, Turrentine noted.

For more information, persons may call the director at 301-387-4624.



SOME 1,200 STUDENTS from Garrett County elementary schools, along with a couple hundred teachers and chaperons, attended performances of TOTL (Theatre on the Lake) Theatre Company at Garrett College last week. Presented was an original play written by TOTL director Lynn Broderick and titled The Adventures of Fledgly. Broderick also announced TOTL's summer schedule for 2007, details of which can be found in the story on this page. Fledgly cast members in the photo above are, from left: Adam Sincell, Kristin Szilagyi, Nate Golden, Danielle Riggins, Josh Adili, and Leah Broderick. The BookWorm

by Jill Conner Browne with Karin Gillespie
c. 2006, Simon & Schuster, $22.95, 289 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Seen any good parades lately?

With Macy's Thanksgiving parade, the Rose Bowl Parade, and other assorted such fun for the holidays, you've probably seen your share of high school marchers, dancing elves, Santa's sleighs, and a whole bevy of waving beauties.

So now strike up the band, parade on out yourself, and pick up the new novel The Sweet Potato Queens' 1st Big... Novel by Jill Conner Browne (with Karin Gillespie). They say it's a novel, but it might not be.

Jill always knew she was royalty. Back in grade school, she was quite benevolent to her little subjects, including a moon-faced girl named Patsy (whom everybody called Poot because... well, you understand). Patsy once stole Jill's Valentine Queen crown, but that didn't stop them from becoming best friends years later in high school.

Mary Bennett was in their clique, too, but mostly because she wanted to be. Well, and partly because that snobby little Marcy Stevens and her friends wouldn't let Mary Bennett in their group because they thought Mary Bennett was a tramp. She smoked and ran around with no supervision, and she slept with all the guys on the football team. Mary Bennett knew how to make things happen, though, and Jill was glad to have her as a friend.

For some reason – and nobody could really remember why – Gerald hung out with the girls. He never really fit in with the other boys; he wasn't athletic or aggressive and he knew a lot about fashion. Strangely, although he was friends with Jill and Patsy, he was closest to Mary Bennett.

When Tammy was transferred in high school from Killeen, Texas, to Jackson, Mississippi, she didn't know a soul. Tammy's mother was a maid, and because of that, Marcy Stevens wouldn't let her in the elite circle. Still, Tammy always wanted to live the life of a queen. Jill, being the best friend anyone could ever have, decided to make that happen.

Through the years, through marriages and divorces, health scares, relationship crises, new jobs and old desires, childbirth and parent death, the Sweet Potato Queens remained strong friends.

Well, mostly so.

Sweeter than candy thrown from a float and more fun than a post-parade party, The Sweet Potato Queens' 1st Big... Novel is the ultimate in girly-girl books and is easier to slip into than a taffeta formal gown. Although the overall plot of this book is a bit predictable, I was charmed by the story itself and the complicated yet close friendships of the characters. Author and Boss Queen of the Sweet Potato Queens Jill Conner Browne says the entire book is "completely made up" and that "none of the characters exist in real life – except a couple of 'em."

Which ones? Well, far be it from me to rain on your parade by telling.

Start your New Year off right. March right out today and pick up a copy of this book. The Sweet Potato Queens' 1st Big... Novel is one very yammy... uh, yummy... little novel.

GCAC Offering Bus To Capitol For Md. Arts Day

Maryland Citizens for the Arts, a statewide nonprofit arts advocacy organization, is coordinating Maryland Arts Day in Annapolis on Feb. 6, and the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) is coordinating free bus transportation from Cumberland to Annapolis and return for local persons.

The purpose of Maryland Arts Day is to provide an opportunity for arts advocates from around the state to meet with one another and to speak with elected officials about the impact of public arts funding on nonprofit organizations in local communities.

"Since seating is limited, we're confirming transportation requests on a first-come, first-served basis," said Steve Schlosnagle, executive director of the arts council.

The agenda includes an informal breakfast, formal welcome and comments by special guests, an analysis of Maryland's creative economy, advocate training, lunch and legislative visits, performance and panel presentations, and a closing reception.

The registration fee for individuals attending the all-day conference is $35 with registration discounts available for groups. Busing requests may be made through GCAC at 301-334-6580 or the Allegany Arts Council at 301-777-2787.

Additional information about Maryland Arts Day is available through the office of the Garrett County Arts Council and on the website of Maryland Citizens for the Arts at www.mdarts.org.

GC Chamber Launches New Photo Contest

There is a brand new page on the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce web site and a new photography contest under way. The "12/15s Photo Gallery" currently contains samples of photos taken by Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, which will be displayed on the page.

In 2004, Ross went out on the 15th of each month of the year to four different locations and took a picture of the same view. The result: 12/15ths of Garrett County.

The sponsors of this page challenge residents and visitors to take photos of a favorite location on the 15th of each month. Photos submitted and approved will be posted on the chamber's web site. At the end of the year, a $1,000 award will be given for the "best year" of photos.

"I encourage all budding photographers to take advantage of this opportunity to showcase their work," said Ross. "Garrett County has a lot of offer, which is why we use the theme 'Mountains of Possibilities.' Show us what you see in Garrett County all year long."

The photos can be scenic shots, towns, buildings, people in a certain location, etc.

The contest is open only to amateur photographers, but professional photographs will also be posted upon request.

"Enter as many different shots as you like," said the spokesperson.

Photos submitted may be used by the Chamber of Commerce in its publications, and credit will be given to each photographer.

Photos should be sent to Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 12/15s Contest, 15 Visitors Center Way, McHenry, MD 21541, or (preferably) e-mailed to contest@garrettchamber.com.

"Please remember to designate the name of the contest – 12/15s – your name, address, phone number, and e-mail address," said the spokesperson.

For more information, persons may contact Jo Donaldson at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 301-387-4386, ext. 11, or e-mail jod@garrettchamber.com.

Local Author To Hold Reading

A book reading featuring local author Thomas Pessini will be held Thursday, Jan. 25, from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the McHenry campus of Garrett College.

The book reading is a lead-in event to a Creative Writing course that Mr. Pessini will be teaching at Garrett College beginning Feb. 13, which will also be held at the McHenry campus. The book reading is free, although pre-registration is required to assure adequate seating.

To sign up to attend the book reading, or to inquire about the Creative Writing course, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development office at 301-387-3069.

Rams Win G. Co. Invitational Tournament; Huskies Second

Garrett County high school wrestlers dominated the 2007 Garrett County Invitational Tournament, hosted Saturday by Northern High School, as 10 of the 14 championship-round matches featured at least one local grappler, and eight of the consolation rounds included either a Southern High Ram or Northern Husky.

The Rams emerged with the tournament team championship, while the Huskies finished a close second in the seven-team event.

Southern amassed 217.5 points, while Northern finished with 207.5. Placing third was Francis Scott Key with 165 points, followed by Keyser with 148.5, Frankfort with 120.5, Allegany with 90, and Phillip Barbour with 53.

Four Rams earned individual titles, four finished with runner-up honors, one captured a third place, and two placed fourth.

Individual champions for Southern were freshman David Stewart in the 103-pound division, Josh Armstrong at 125 pounds, Daniel Carr in the 135-pound clash, and Sean Sisler in the heavyweight division.

While the Huskies finished 10 points behind the Rams in total points, Northern had a tournament-high five wrestlers garner individual championships. RAMS, HUSKIES DOMINATE TOURNAMENT — The Southern and Northern high school wrestling teams dominated Saturday's Garrett County Invitational Tournament, hosed by the Huskies, as the Rams placed first among the seven teams participating, and Northern finished just 10 points back to take second place. Of the 14 weight divisions, the local grapplers won nine individual titles and grabbed a number of second and third places. These photos are all from the championship rounds, most of which involve both Southern and Northern wrestlers. Above left, Southern's Daniel Carr controls Northern's Adam Moranduzzo and goes on to win a decision in the 135-pound division. In the photo above right, Jason Warnick of Northern is in the process of pinning Southern's Josh Arnold in the 119-pound final. Below left, Ram David Stewart records a pinfall over Husky Andrew Reynolds in the 103-pound championship bout. Below right, Dustin Stough of Northern ties up Southern's Jonathan Feaster and ultimately pins him in the 145-pound division. Two more pins are captured in the bottom two photos, with Southern's Sean Sisler pinning Jacob Banks of Francis Scott Key (left) to win the heavyweight division title, and Northern's Brandon Opel pinning Marcus Baker of Keyser to take home the crown in the 171-pound division. The Rams and Huskies are both undefeated in regular-season (non-tournament) competition, and will face each other this evening on the Huskies' mats. Photos by John McEwen.

Laker Women On A Hot Streak: Defeat Cecil, Upset Allegany, Crush PG Owls

The Garrett College women's basketball team has been on a hot streak since its holiday break, winning at home against Cecil Community College on Saturday, upsetting the vaunted Allegany College of Maryland on Monday, and handing defending champion Prince George's its first Maryland JUCO Conference loss on Wednesday.

In Saturday's action, Flodysha Peterson and Mindy Sharp had double doubles in leading Garrett to a 65-50 win over Cecil.

Peterson scored 20 points, grabbed 14 rebounds, and blocked seven shots, while Mindy Sharp added 16 points and pulled down 11 rebounds. Tegra Hillman also scored 16 points for the Lakers. Further details were not received.

In Monday evening's victory over Allegany, Garrett dominated the boards down the stretch and put together a shooting performance that had three Lakers score in double figures to snap Allegany College of Maryland's 10-game winning streak with a 62-56 victory at Garrett.

Tegra Hillman scored 19 points, dished out a team-high eight assists, and grabbed eight rebounds and five steals for the Lakers; and Flodysha Peterson added 14 points, 16 rebounds, eight blocked shots, seven steals, and six assists. Yolanda Anthony, who dumped in 17 points, was the third Laker player to score in double figures.

Garrett fell behind by two at halftime as Allegany took a 27-25 lead, but Garrett used its strength on the inside to pull ahead when the score was tied at 51 late in the second half.

"We didn't do a good job of executing our offense and didn't shoot well," said Allegany coach Jerry Rice. "They really pounded us onthe boards, but the girls never quit and we get another shot at them."

Lindsey Holliday led Allegany with a game-high 23 points and Stephanie Gibbons added 11. Leah Gonzalez had eight rebounds and three blocked shots, Janessa Shambaugh added five assists and three steals, and Karen James grabbed six rebounds and dished out four assists.

Garrett is now 8-2 overall, and Allegany 11-2. The game did not count in the Maryland JUCO Conference standings.

"The team came out ready to play and it was a great win for us over an undefeated Maryland JUCO team," said Garrett coach Thea Garland. "Hats off to Allegany because they are a very good team.

In Wednesday's action, Flodysha Peterson logged a double double by scoring 18 points and grabbing 14 to lead Garrett to a 65-34 win over defending champion Prince George's at Garrett.

In addition to her scoring and rebounding, Peterson had seven blocked shots and five assists. Teammates Chelsea Woolfolk, Mindy Sharp, Yolanda Anthony, and Brittney Jackson contributed 10 points apiece to help Garrett improve its record to 9-2 overall and 7-1 in the conference.

Like Peterson, Woolfolk also had a double double as she pulled down 10 rebounds to go with her 10 points. Sharp had nine boards, Anthony dished out eight assists, and Tegra Hillman added seven assists and seven steals.

Prince George's Lavonda Thompson scored a team-high 11 points as the Owls fell to 7-7 overall and 3-1 in the conference. The Lakers led at halftime 28-17, and were never seriously challenged.

Garrett will play Northern Virginia Community College on the road this Saturday and return home to play Montgomery Rockville this Monday.

Garrett Men Score Overtime Win At Hagerstown, Then Crush AA

The Garrett College men's basketball team gained momentum after returning from the holidays by defeating Hagerstown on Saturday in overtime and rolling a big win over Anne Arundel Wednesday evening at home.

In Saturday's Maryland JUCO game, Hrvoje Muhek hit a three-pointer in overtime to give Garrett a five-point lead and the needed momentum to gain a thrilling 86-78 come-from-behind win over Hagerstown.

Garrett's Dale Taylor led all scorers with 21 points as the Lakers had to overcome a 16-point first-half deficit. Garrett hit nine three-pointers of which Taylor had six. Four other Lakers scored in double figures, with Daniel Conway finishing with 17 points, Jerome Jack 12, and Glen Izevbigie and Bruce Hall 11 apiece.

Garrett (9-3, 3-2 JUCO), playing without point-guard Chris Henderson, fell behind early by as many as 16 points before cutting the lead to five at halftime, 36-31. Garrett took a 10-point lead with four minutes left in the game, but the Lakers' 1 of 7 foul-shooting performance allowed Hagerstown to rally and tie the score 71-71 at the end of regulation.

Garrett went on to win by 10 points after Muhek nailed a three in overtime.

In Wednesday's action, Garrett set a single game record in scoring for this season with a 108-63 victory over Anne Arundel as Bruce Hall pumped in a game-high 21 points, Dale Taylor had 20, and Daniel Sherman added 15.

Garrett (10-3 overall, 4-2 Maryland JUCO) pressured Anne Arundel with a dominating defense and accurate shooting. The Lakers led by 28 points at halftime by taking a 52-24 lead, and overall they held the Maryland JUCO Conference's leading scorer, Brandon Abney, to nine points, 17 points below his 26-point-per-game average.

Hall and Taylor hit seven three-pointers and combined to score 41 points. Hall made seven field goals, three three-pointers, and was 4 of 6 from the line. Taylor put up eight field goals, four of which were three-pointers.

In addition to Hall, Taylor, and Sherman, two other Lakers hit double figures — Antonio Levere with 16 points, and Daniel Conway with 14 points. Taylor and Hrvoje Muhek grabbed seven rebounds apiece, Chris Speicher dished out five assists, and Hall had three steals.

"We executed well and obviously hit our open shots," said Garrett coach Dennis Gibson." Garrett's fullcourt press made a big difference, according to Gibson. "We kept constant pressure on them two-thirds of the way until the game was out of reach."

Again, the Lakers played without play-maker and leading scorer Chris Henderson, who is out because of injury.

Brian Reed had a team-high 13 points for Anne Arundel.

Garrett visits Chesapeake on Friday night for a 7 p.m. game and returns home this Wednesday for a game with Allegany College of Maryland on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Sweitzer's heroics sealed the win in which the 5-8 sophomore scored 22 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Teammates Adrienne Yoder put up 15 points and Brittany Boyce added 14.

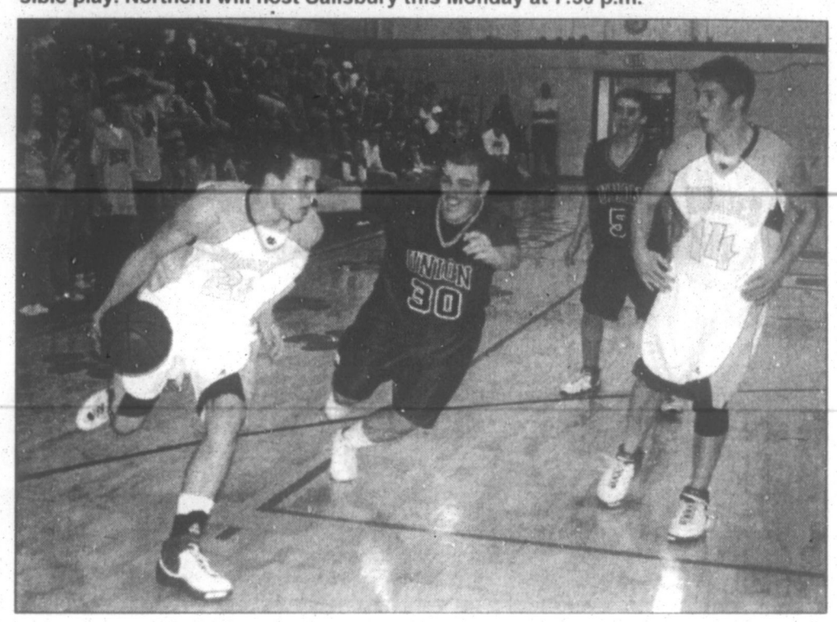
NORTHERN ROLLS OVER UNION – The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team won its third game in four outings by rolling over Union 50-33 on Friday at home. Above, Ed Herpel (#41) pulls up for a short jumper, and Kory Gibson (#21, below) drives for a layup as Dan Miller (#14) prepares to follow for a possible play. Northern will host Salisbury this Monday at 7:30 p.m.



NHS Slams Hancock, Salisbury; Falls To Bishop Walsh At Buzzer

The Northern High School girls' basketball team crushed Hancock last Thursday, dropped a heartbreaker to Bishop Walsh on Saturday, then rebounded to crush Salisbury Monday evening.

After losing to Southern on Wednesday night, Northern bounced back with a huge win over Hancock Thursday night at home. Megan Wiley scored a game-high 20 points and grabbed eight rebounds to lead the Huskies to a lopsided 59-29 win.

Wiley did not do it by herself. Three other Huskies scored in double figures — Kasie Fratz had 11, Danielle Brenneman had 10, and Brittany Stein dumped in 10. Trish Wiley logged a team-high 11 rebounds.

Both teams started slowly with Northern managing to take a 12-5 first-quarter lead. But in the second quarter the Huskies ran wild as they outscored the Panthers 19-6 for a 31-13 halftime margin. Hancock was down by 20 points going into the fourth period before the Huskies went on another run, outscoring the Panthers 15-5 to close out the game.

Brandy Jenkins led Hancock with eight points.

Northern won the jayvee game 44-8. Adria Graham scored 17 points and Justine Harvey added 10.

In Saturday's action, the Huskies lost a heart-breaker when Taylor Butts hit a game-winning shot at the buzzer to lift Bishop Walsh to a stunning 48-46 victory on Saturday.

The Spartans jumped to an early lead, and went into the halftime break on top by a score of 27-17. In the third quarter, Northern began to shrink the lead, and went into the fourth quarter trailing 35-30. The Huskies tied the game in the last five seconds, but a chance for an overtime victory was shattered when Butts took the inbound pass, drove the length of the court, and sunk an improbable shot from just inside the three-point line to seal the win at the buzzer.

Brittany Stein led Northern with a team-high 14 points, and Megan Wiley added 13. Kasie Fratz grabbed eight rebounds.

Tricia Geiger led the Spartans in scoring with 14 points, and Kelly Smith dumped in eight points and pulled down a game-high 21 rebounds. Charma Harris logged a double-double, scoring 10 points and grabbing 10 boards.

The Bishop Walsh jayvee team also took a close game from Northern, winning by a score of 43-39. Northern's Adria Graham lead all scorers with 17 points. Morgan Evans led BW with 13 points.

Rams Lose To Tucker County, Then Knock Off Top-Ranked Ft. Hill 59-51

The Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team suffered its third straight loss last week to Tucker County on Friday evening, but rebounded by knocking off top-ranked Fort Hill on Tuesday night.

In Friday's game, the Rams were unable to keep pace with Tucker's L.J. Gravelle, Eric Wamsley, and Darius Dillard, who combined for 49 points in leading the Mountain Lions to a 54-43 win.

The Rams went into the second quarter with a 12-12 tie, and fell behind 30-27 at halftime. Tucker ended the third quarter leading 43-35, and outscored the Rams 11-8 in the last eight minutes to win the game.

Ryan DeWitt scored a team-high 16 points; teammates Tim Reams added 10 and Sean McCreery dumped in nine.

Gravelle hit a game-high 19 points for the Mountain Lions, Wamsley added 18, and Dillard put up 12.

In Tuesday night's stunning victory over Fort Hill, Southern's Drew Proudfoot forced the game into overtime with a last second bucket, and Sean McCreery hit all eight of his free throws in the extra period as Southern upset the Sentinels 59-51 in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League (WMIL) game.

With their victory over Fort Hill, the Rams improved to 5-5 overall and 3-1 in the WMIL. The Sentinels fell to 9-1 overall and 3-1 in the WMIL. Beall took over first place in league play with a 4-1 record.

Ryan DeWitt led the Rams with 13 points; McCreery added 12, Proudfoot 11, and Jordan Pacella nine.

For the Sentinels, Jordan Brooks scored a game-high 20 points, Zach Blank had 13, and Jordan Helmick added eight.

The Rams led through the first three quarters 7-6, 15-14, and 29-25. The Sentinels regained the lead late in the game, and it was only Proudfoot's late heroics that saved Southern and pushed the game into overtime.

Fort Hill took the early lead in the extra period on an inside move by Jordan Helmick, but back-to-back buckets by Ryan DeWitt and Proudfoot put the Rams ahead again. Southern maintained the lead and won the game by going 11 for 16 from the line down the stretch.

"It was a good win for us, and a confidence booster against a very good and well-coached team, " said Southern coach Paul Pacella. "Our kids hung in there and stuck together during a tough stretch during our Snowball Classic and then a trip to Tucker County."

The win marked the second year in a row Southern has knocked off the top-ranked team. Last year the Rams defeated Allegany 51-49 in overtime.

Fort Hill won the jayvee game 50-34.

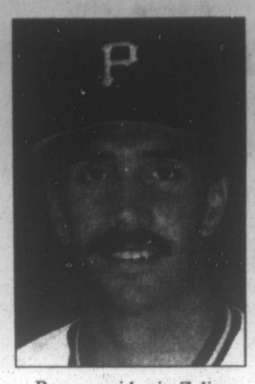
Former Major Leaguer Sid Bream To Speak At Sportsman's Feast



Sid Bream, standout second baseman for the Pittsburgh Pirates and Atlanta Braves will be the feature speaker for the Sportsman's Feast on Saturday, Jan. 27, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

The event will begin at 5 p.m. with the judging of wild game dishes submitted by participants. Immediately following the judging, the meal will be served.

Bream was signed by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1981 and was traded to the Pirates in 1985, where he played on a division winning team. In 1991, he became a free agent and signed with the Braves, who made the playoffs every year that Bream played for their team.

While playing for the Braves, Bream participated in World Series matchups against the Minnesota Twins and the Toronto Blue Jays.

Local baseball fans may recall the National League Championship Series in 1992 between the Pirates and Braves. Bream scored the deciding run for the Braves in the 9th inning of the 7th game by sliding in safe at home against his former team, the Pirates.

He finished his 10-year major league career with the Houston Astros.

The Sportsman's Feast is sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood of Faith Evangelical Free Church.

"Sid is an avid outdoorsman and loves to talk about God's awesome handprint across this world," said Pastor David Martin. "He will be an excellent speaker for our feast."

Bream resides in Zelienople, Pa., with his wife and four children. Since ending his career, he spends most of his time speaking in churches, youth groups, and schools.

There is no admission fee for the Sportsman's Feast, and it is open to all persons who enjoy the outdoors and sports.

Dishes to be served will include deer, caribou, moose, elk, bear, rattlesnake, native trout, catfish, and other local and exotic wild animal dishes. Hunters and fishermen are encouraged to bring their favorite dishes to share and also participate in the competition for the best dishes.

"While at the feast, participants can swap stories and taste each other's game recipes, all the while enjoying the company of others who love the great outdoors," said an event spokesperson.

Door prizes and prizes for winning dishes will be given to participants.

FIRE

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. What is fire? What is it composed of? What causes forest fires? Other than water, is there anything we can fight it with?

Fire is a special variety of a chemical reaction. When many chemical reactions take place, energy is released; those are called exothermic reactions. There are some reactions that require an input of energy, and those are called endothermic reactions. Fire is most definitely an exothermic reaction – releasing lots of energy.

From a chemist's point of view, trees are nothing but hydrocarbons, which are made up of combinations of carbon and hydrogen. Their special shape is irrelevant. The chemical reaction takes place by combining oxygen from the air with hydrocarbons. The resulting output chemicals are nearly entirely water vapor and carbon dioxide. Other familiar hydrocarbons include oil, gasoline, coal and natural gas.

In your home furnace, you burn natural gas under controlled conditions in order to produce heat to warm the house. At an electric generating plant, coal is burned to produce heat, which makes steam, which drives a turbine and generates electricity. In a forest fire, it's uncontrolled. Chemically, they're all the same.

The energy released in the chemical reaction can boost nearby atoms or molecules into an excited state, and they in turn go back down to their relaxed (or ground state) by giving off radiation. If that radiation is in the visible part of the spectrum, we can see it – we say it "lights up." The radiation is what we call a flame. The whole thing (chemical reaction, energy release, radiation) is given the name "fire."

At normal room temperatures, oxygen does not react with hydrocarbons. First it has to be heated up to a sufficiently high temperature to get the chemical reaction started. Lighting a match is one way to produce a very hot spot locally, and if newspaper or leaves are nearby, they'll "catch fire," and begin the chemical reaction that releases energy. In a forest, a lightning bolt acts in the same way to heat everything up in one specific location.

Once a tree in the forest starts burning, other nearby things (other trees) can receive some of that released energy, and then their molecules too may become hot enough to begin engaging in chemical reactions. In that case, we say the fire has "spread." That can keep on going until all the "fuel" is used up, which in some major forests, could be years. But the fire will go out if either the fuel or the oxygen runs out.

A strong wind does two things: It brings in more oxygen to sustain the chemical reaction, and it facilitates the movement of heat, embers, and flying twigs that are on fire. In the great Yellowstone National Park fire of 1988, a ball of flame jumped a canyon ½ mile wide and started trees burning on the opposite side.

Basically, a fire requires three things: fuel, oxygen and heat. To fight a fire, you must change the conditions so that one of those isn't there any more.

Pouring water onto a fire introduces a type of molecule which is not easy to raise to an excited state. Water molecules can soak up a lot of energy and still not chemically react with other substances. Water is basically a "dead end," chemically. Put enough water molecules into the vicinity of the stuff that is the fuel, and the energy will be absorbed by the water, the fuel will cool down, and we say "the fire went out."

Water is the best thing for many fires, mainly because it's so cheap. There are many other chemicals that serve the same purpose, but they are mostly expensive. Chemically speaking, ordinary nitrogen gas in air would be nearly perfect, but it tends not to stick around and only mixes with oxygen, so it won't put out fire.

Water doesn't always work. There are chemical fires and electrical fires for which pouring on water might actually make it worse. That's why there are 3 different types of fire extinguishers: A, B and C. Carbon dioxide is in B and C. Carbon dioxide is another chemical that is a "dead end," a molecule that doesn't get excited easily; so it's a fine way to drive out oxygen and change the conditions, making the fire unable to sustain itself.

Hydrogeologist To Speak About "Water Beneath Our Feet" At Local Association

James B. Palmer, senior hydrogeologist at the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, will be the guest speaker at the Savage River Watershed Association's (SRWA)monthly meeting Jan. 18, Thursday, at 7 p.m. at Route 40 Elementary School.

Palmer's PowerPoint presentation called "The Water Beneath Our Feet" will provide a brief introduction to ground water, its sources, location, and destinations. Palmer's presentation will also cover the interactions between ground water and surface water, and potential impacts to both.

According to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Marylanders use both surface water and ground water sources to obtain their water supplies. Surface water sources such as rivers, streams, and reservoirs serve approximately two-thirds of the state's 5.1 million citizens. The remaining one-third of the state's population obtains their water from underground sources.

"Many of us take for granted a safe and abundant supply of drinking water. However, the drought conditions that occurred in 1999 and 2002 and associated restrictions on nonessential water uses brought home the lesson that our water supplies are not limitless and require good stewardship," said a department spokesperson.

Palmer has worked for three years as a senior hydrogeologist at the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin. Prior to that Palmer worked for several environmental consulting companies in the Washington, D.C., and central Florida areas.

He has performed environmental, geological, and hydrogeological surveys, and ground water modeling on projects as small as three acres and as large as the 970 square mile Monarchy River basin in Maryland.

WATCHING THE WATER FLOW from one of the many old streams crossing along Monroe Run in the Savage River State Forest, a hydrogeologist would ask the questions: What is its source? Where is its location, and what are its destinations? In a presentation at the Savage River Watershed Association next Thursday evening, James B. Palmer, senior hydrogeologist at the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, will be giving a presentation titled "The Water Beneath Our Feet" that will provide a brief introduction to ground water, its sources, location, and destinations. See separate story.

Palmer received his BS in geology and did his masters degree project at the University of South Florida in Tampa. Prior to starting his career in geology, Palmer provided marketing, training, and technical support for computer systems to commercial and government clients.

The SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed. Members assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach. Everyone who is concerned about the Savage River basin is invited to join.

SRWA bimonthly meetings are held at Route 40 Elementary School located at 17764 National Pike a few miles west of Frostburg in Garrett County. For more information persons may contact Laura Haynes at 301-689-6104 or e-mail lhaynes@allconet.org; Ron Boyer at 301-895-3686 or info@elkridgenatureworks.com; or Jeff Conner at 301-777-9383 or jeffconner @ atlanticbb.net.

The presentation will immediately follow the regular business meeting. The presentation is open to the public.

Teacher Of Year Nominations Due

Nominations for the Maryland 2006-07 Teacher of the Year award are being accepted through March 1.

The award will include $1,000 to the winning teacher and a $500 grant to that teacher's school. The state winner will also be eligible for the national award, which includes a special recognition and a $2,500 travel certificate.

Teachers, students, and parents can nominate any of the state's 65,000+ accredited teachers. Nomination forms are available online at www.teachers.com/toty.

To nominate an educator, one must explain in 250 words or less why this teacher should be Teacher of the Year. Nominees will be judged on their ability to motivate students, their special talents, and their contributions to their school, students, and/or educational community.

Winners will be announced at the start of the next school year.

"Running Effective Meetings" Set By Garrett College

A course for those responsible for facilitating meetings will be held Tuesday, Jan. 30, from 6 to 9 p.m. at Garrett College. The three-hour workshop, "Running Effective Meetings," will be led by small business consultant Beverley Williams.

"This seminar will be helpful for those conducting meetings in private industry, agencies, and organizations or civic clubs," said a college spokesperson.

During the training, students will discuss the importance of developing agendas and handling non-stop talkers, as well as techniques for handling everything from time management to assigning "to-dos."

Students will also learn the difference between open-ended and closed-ended questions and how to use each to deal with disruptions in meetings.

This course is an offering of the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College and will be held at the McHenry campus. To register, persons may phone 301-387-3069.

Another Essential B Vitamin

Thiamine (Vitamin B-1) is a water-soluble vitamin that is essential for numerous bodily processes. Thiamin is needed for protein, red blood cell, and glucose (sugar) metabolism, immune and nervous system function, and to produce niacin, another B vitamin. Thiamine can be found in numerous foods including beans, poultry, fortified cereals, fruits, and vegetables. The Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) of thiamine is 1.3 mg for men and women ages 19-50. The RDA of thiamine is 1.7 mg. for men ages 51 and over, and 1.5 mg. for women ages 51 and over. The RDA for pregnant women of all ages is 1.9 mg.

Thiamine deficiency is rare in the United States; however, certain people are at risk. Older people and alcoholics may develop thiamine deficiency due to lack of dietary variety or decreased appetite/food intake. Chronic alcohol ingestion also leads to the destruction of thiamine in the body. Children who take theophylline for asthma may need thiamine supplementation. People taking the drug isoniazid for the treatment of tuberculosis should take thiamine supplements because isoniazid decreases the activity of thiamine in the body.

A Piece of the Past

Have you ever wondered why people love to collect antiques? Things were built differently than they are today...no assembly line construction. Each piece was custom made by hand. It was a time when individuality and character were a big part of life. Perhaps we want to preserve those times by owning a piece of the past.

Today nearly every item we purchase is a clone of the others on the shelf. Mass production allows us to make more for less, but where is the uniqueness? Is individuality lost to the past? Not to God.

God cares about each and every one of us individually. We are matchless in His eyes. He hears our words and knows our thoughts the same as He did years and years ago when these old things were made.

Some things never change. We can still instruct our children about God. We are free to pray for our needs. Even today, God has not changed. He tells us in Malachi 3:6... "For I the Lord do not change...." Celebrate your uniqueness this week at your house of worship.

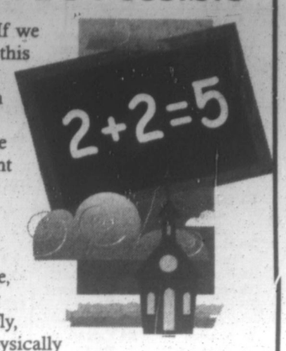
All Things Are Possible



What is truly possible? If we are to seriously address this question we should first distinguish between different senses of the word "possibility." There are at least three different senses of possibility: technological, physical, and logical possibility. For example, until the invention of the airplane, it wasn't technologically possible for humans to fly, though it was always physically possible to do this, as evidenced by birds. Time travel may not be physically possible, but there is nothing logically impossible about this, and even this problem may one day succumb to human ingenuity. Still, other things are said to be logically impossible, such as making two plus two equal five or making a rock so big that even an omnipotent God could not lift it. So, can God make two plus two equal five, or can He make a rock so big that even He could not lift it? Or is this just nonsense? For God to be able to make a rock so big that He could not lift it is paradoxical. For if He cannot make the rock, His omnipotence is contradicted, and if He can make it, then He can't lift it, and so His omnipotence is contradicted there as well. Either way, whether He can or cannot ends in contradiction, and thus the paradox. But usually when we talk about something being impossible, we just mean it is going to be very difficult. Often the impossible is only what we haven't yet figured out how to do. As Henry Ford once quipped, "Whether you think you can, or think you can't, either way you are right." So, think positively, use your head, work hard, and ask for God's help.

With men it is impossible, but not with God; for all things are possible with God.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Those who study such things claim that in any given year, more gasoline is spilled simply while refueling lawn equipment than was spilled in the Exxon Valdez disaster.

• It was famed composer Igor Stravinsky who said, "Too many pieces of music finish too long after the end."

• In the United States, approximately 18 acres of pizza are consumed every day.

• With more than 300 million books in print, British novelist J.K. Rowling, author of the beloved Harry Potter series of books, is one of the best-selling writers in the world. When Joanne Kathleen was a youngster, however, her parents didn't have such lofty ambitions for her. When she went to college they wanted her to study French so she would be able to find work as a bilingual secretary. The future author hated secretarial work, though; during meetings, when she was supposed to be taking notes about the proceedings, she daydreamed and scribbled potential names for fictional characters in the margins of her notepad.

• Mechanics and engineers can tell exactly how hot an object (such as an engine component) is if they know two things: what color it glows and what material it is made of.

• In San Francisco, the city leaders are trying out a new way to get power: They're turning the methane from canine excrement — doggie doo — into electricity.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 21, 1789, the first novel by an American writer to be published in America is printed in Boston. The first edition of the book, "The Power of Sympathy or the Triumph of Nature Founded in Truth," was a thinly veiled account of the seduction and suicide of a young woman.

• On Jan. 18, 1912, after a two-month ordeal, the expedition of British explorer Robert Falcon Scott arrives at the South Pole, only to find that Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, had preceded them by just over a month. The frozen bodies of Scott and his two compatriots were recovered eight months later, 11 miles from base camp.

• On Jan. 17, 1949, the first Volkswagen Beetle in the U.S. arrives from Germany. The little Volkswagen ("people's car") was a sturdy vehicle designed by Ferdinand Porsche at the request of Adolf Hitler. Its reputation for affordable reliability made it a profitable export.

• On Jan. 19, 1953, 44 million viewers, a full 72 percent of all U.S. homes with a television, tune in to episode No. 56 of the popular '50s television sitcom "I Love Lucy." In "Lucy Goes to the Hospital," Lucy Ricardo, famously played by Lucille Ball, gives birth to a son.

• On Jan. 16, 1963, Los Angeles' first disco, Whiskey-A-Go-Go, opens on Sunset Boulevard. The underground disco subculture turned into a national sensation when the film "Saturday Night Fever" was released in 1977.

• On Jan. 15, 1974, the first episode of "Happy Days" airs. The show portrayed the comic antics of 1950s Milwaukee high-school student Richie Cunningham and his pal Potsie Webber. A minor character, super-cool biker Arthur "the Fonz" Fonzarelli, soon came to be the show's central character.

Paw's corner

by Sam Mazzotta

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I read your column about veterinary malpractice, and I was touched. There are many very bad veterinarians, and not many people care, or they don't want to send their complaints in to the licensing board because they will get the runaround followed by no action against the vet.

I lost a pet through a doctor's misdiagnosis in November 2005. I complained to the licensing board, but they told me that the doctor didn't do anything wrong. That's why people don't complain. They get another pet, or they give up on caring for another animal.

It is much easier to go after a human doctor than an animal doctor. People should start an organization to help people like me and the lady that wrote in to your column. Thank you — Phyllis C., Rhode Island

DEAR PHYLLIS: Thank you for writing, and my condolences on the loss of your pet. Concerned owners and veterinarians are working to build better ethics and accountability practices, forming organizations such as Protect the Pets (www.protectthepets.com). Read on:

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Regarding vet malpractice, the best thing is to avoid the problem when possible by researching which vets are highly regarded in one's area. One way to do this is by searching pet sites online that recommend vets in each state.

Another good indicator is vet certification by the American Animal Hospital Association (I know they also deal with malpractice). Only 14 percent of U.S. vet hospitals have this certification. Other pet owners in the community may be able to make recommendations for vets as well. — David L. (and Daisy the rabbit), via e-mail

Q. I have a small collection of 12 Hot Wheels. Even though I don't want to sell any of them, I would like to find out how much they are worth. Can you recommend a good price guide? — Kirk, Miami, Fla.

A. Although there are several good guides, my personal favorite is the uber-friendly Warman's Companion Hot Wheels, by Michael Zarnock. It includes design history, identification details and up-to-date values. There are more than 500 color photos in the guide, which retails for $17.99. It can be ordered from the publisher, Krause Publications, 1-888-457-2873.

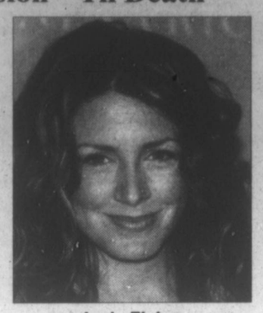
Fisher on television ''Til Death'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Can you tell me what shows Brad Garrett's wife on " 'Til Death" starred in previously? –Joyce Stoudt, Sinking Spring, Pa.

A: While she's done considerable guest-star work – notably on "Desperate Housewives" recently – Joely Fisher had full star status on the Lifetime series "Wild Card." Prior to that, the daughter of singer-actors Eddie Fisher and Connie Stevens was a regular on "Baby Bob," "Normal, Ohio" and Ellen DeGeneres' mid-1990s sitcom, "Ellen."



Joely Fisher

Q: What has Sherry Stringfield been up to since she left "ER"? –Wayne Orr, Winfield, Kan.

A: Last year, the actress made an evidently unsold CBS series pilot titled "Company Town," about government agents in the nation's capital. Had the show been greenlit, it would have included many other familiar television faces such as fellow "ER" alumna Michael Michele, Gary Cole ("The West Wing"), Blair Underwood ("L.A. Law"), Catherine Bell ("JAG") and Esai Morales ("NYPD Blue"). Stringfield's latest completed project is a revenge melodrama titled "Forfeit," also featuring Gregory Itzin ("24") and Wayne Knight (alias Newman on "Seinfeld").

Q: I'm trying to find information on a short-lived series from the '90s called "Cop Rock." Steven Bochco was the producer. I'd like to know if it is available for purchase on DVD. –Jackie Jones, Milwaukee

A: The unique merging of musical and police drama, which everyone knew was a huge gamble going into and during its brief run on ABC in the fall of 1990, was not available on disc at this writing. Among the cast members were some actors who would go on to other Bochco efforts, including James McDaniel ("NYPD Blue") and Peter Onorati ("Civil Wars") – as well as "Hill Street Blues" alumna Barbara Bosson, who was then Bochco's wife.

Q: Besides the first episode of "What About Brian" this season, where has Sarah Lancaster been? –Gary Bruno, Severna Park, Md.

A: The ABC show's writers and producers evidently decided her character, Marjorie, had reached an emotional peak with both Brian and her fiance, Adam (Barry Watson, Matthew Davis) – so some "away" time was in the cards for her, especially after she literally left Adam at the altar a couple of episodes into the new season. Lancaster has remained in the show's opening credits, so it's only a matter of time until she resurfaces. Here's a great big hint: The story slated to air Jan. 22 is subtitled "What About Marjorie ... ."

Garrett Students In India During '07 Intersession

Several Garrett College students are visiting India during the 2007 intersession as part of a new academic study abroad program.

Students participating in the program are Adrienne Leigh Glotfelty, McHenry; Virgus Wells, Friendsville; Patrice Wells, Accident; Brianna Eckley of Pennsylvania; Joshua Morton, Locust Grove, Va.; Garrett Werner, Mt. Avery; and Chas Fitzwater, Oakland. The Garrett College faculty leader of the study is Dr. Lonnie Brewster, professor of English.

The study abroad in India is offering up to six hours of Garrett College credit for the students participating in the program. The two academic courses offered as part of the program are anthropology and Indian literature. The Garrett College instructors are Dr. Brewster and professor of sociology Liz Bizer.

Student pre-study and orientation class meetings were convened on the GC campus prior to departing for India. Post-trip class meetings are also part of the academic schedule. An expansive academic program planned for the Garrett students while in India includes lectures by Indian professors, fine-arts performances, yoga lessons, and cultural interactive activities with various Indian population groups.

A wide range of significant cultural and historical land travel activities is also planned. These activities include visiting the Guruvayoor Temple, an elephant village, Chamundy Hills Temple, Padmanabha Swamy Temple (built in the 12th century), Mysore Palace, Vrindhavan Gardens, Kovalam Beach, Padmanabhapuram Palace, Kanyakumari Temple, Cape Comorine (where the Indian Ocean, Arabian Sea and Bay of Bengal can be seen together), and Cochin Harbor. They will also be boating in the back waters and visiting the Vivekananda Rock Memorial in the sea by boat.

During the course of their cultural and historical land travel activities, the Garrett study group will be visiting the cities of Kannur, Cochin, Bangalore, and Mysore in southern India.

The group will return to the United States on January 17.

Phil Rivera, associate dean of academic affairs, is hoping that the study abroad to India will be the first of many programs to be developed and led by Garrett College faculty in the interest of local students, citizens, and organizations. Programs to Africa, Latin America, and Asia are being explored.

According to a spokesperson, Garrett College is intent on maintaining the legacy of contributing to international understanding and cultural awareness, and the development of study abroad programs is one part of this continuing effort.

STATE OF MARYLAND PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

NOTICE OF EVENING PUBLIC HEARINGS

The Potomac Edison Company d/b/a Allegheny Power ("AP") residential electricity rate caps will end on December 31, 2008. Following enactment of legislation in 1999, the price of electricity supply for residential customers of AP was reduced by about seven percent and then frozen through December 31, 2008. In order to minimize the potential for sharp increases in AP's residential customers' electric rates when the rate caps end, on November 28, 2006 the Public Service Commission ("Commission") instituted Case No. 9091 to investigate ways of managing the transition to market-based rates prior to the expiration of the rate caps.

After holding a series of open houses seeking public input, in late December 2006, AP filed a proposal for a transition plan to market-based pricing for residential generation services. Interested persons may view AP's proposal, and testimony supporting it, by visiting the Commission's website at www.psc.state.md.us, clicking on "Case Search," and then typing in "9091" as the case number.

According to AP, its proposal includes the following key provisions:

- Beginning March 31, 2007, residential customers would pay a non-bypassable distribution surcharge. The application of the surcharge would result in an overall rate increase of approximately 15 percent for Allegheny's residential customers;
- On January 1, 2008, the distribution surcharge would increase residential rates an additional 15 percent;
- With the expiration of the residential generation rate caps and the move to market-based generation pricing on January 1, 2009, the surcharge would convert to a credit on customers' bills. Funds collected through the surcharge during 2007 and 2008, plus interest, would be returned to customers as a credit on their electric bills, thereby reducing the effect of the rate cap expiration; and
- The credit would continue, with adjustments, to maintain rate stability until December 31, 2010.

Hearings for the purpose of receiving public comment in the above matter will be held on the following dates:

- Tuesday, January 16, 2007 at South Hagerstown High School, 1101 South Potomac Street, Hagerstown, Maryland.
- Thursday, January 18, 2007 at Winchester Hall, 12 East Church Street, Frederick, Maryland.
- Monday, January 22, 2007 at Garrett College, Athletic Center Auditorium, 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, Maryland.
- Tuesday, January 23, 2007 at the Holiday Inn at 100 South George Street, Cumberland, Maryland.

Hearings will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on each date shown above.

If you choose not to speak at an evening public hearing, the Commission is also receiving written comments on the proposal. Written comments, accompanied by a disc for electronic filing, if possible, shall be filed with the Commission's Executive Secretary, Public Service Commission of Maryland, 6 St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202. Please reference Case No. 9091 on any such comments. All comments should be filed by the close of business on Monday, February 5, 2007.

The Commission also directs AP to publish display advertisements noting the dates, times, places and purpose of the evening public hearing dates in newspapers in general circulation in the Company's Maryland service territory at least twice prior to the above hearing dates. Proof of publication shall be filed with the Commission on or before the date of each hearing.

By Direction of the Commission,
O. Ray Bourland
Executive Secretary

Reasonable accommodations will be made at Public Service Commission proceedings for qualified persons with disabilities, if requested five days in advance of the proceeding. (Dial 410-767-8000 or 1-800-492-0474 or access the prior numbers through the Maryland Relay Service at (1-800-735-2258.)

Is the American dream of homeownership slipping away? 84% of Marylanders believe that rising costs are putting homeownership out of their grasp. Nearly 70% worry about keeping their homes in the face of higher interest rates and the explosive increase in home energy and maintenance costs. And 77% fear that their children will never be able to afford a home near them. The Maryland Association of REALTORS® believes that anyone who wants to own a home should be able to buy one. That's why we're launching the League of Maryland Homeowners, a new initiative connecting our members, home buyers, public officials and others in a campaign to bring the dream of homeownership back within reach.

Sudden Traffic Stop Causes Cars To Collide

A Grantsville woman, the driver of a 1999 Ford Contour, struck the rear of a 2004 Subaru Legacy when the line of cars in front of her came to a sudden stop Friday at approximately 4:55 p.m., according to the Maryland State Police.

Sharon K. Butler, 48, was traveling north on Route 219 when an unidentified person, attempting a make a left turn onto Mayhew Inn Road, came to a sudden stop, causing the line of vehicles to the rear to take evasive action. Butler struck a Subaru driven by Holly R. Baumann, 21, Swanton, causing minor damage.

Butler was charged with failing to control speed to avoid a collision, and was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and treated for minor injuries. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, the Maryland State Police, the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office responded to the scene of the accident.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Although Pastor Randy and Cindy Richardson enjoyed the visit of their two grownup daughters over Christmas, they weren't sure about their companions for the trip. Both daughters own two very big dogs. For Cindy and Randy it was something else to have two 100-plus pounds of dogs wrestling in their house.

The two dogs liked each other; they just enjoyed rough play. This is a different situation than that of a friend of mine who lived next door to me in an apartment in New York. She had rescued a big, beautiful golden retriever, which she talked me into adopting. I named him Blue. She had a big black dog at this same time named Jason. Blue and Jason just hated each other. If we met on the street, one would have to cross over to avoid a fight. In the building's vestibule we had a few interesting occasions. When my friend found herself planning to move to San Francisco she needed a home for both Jason and her other little dog Becky. My mother adopted Becky and my sister adopted Jason, and both moved to Bittinger, where they enjoyed many happy years.

It is always hard to see my daughters embark downstate to see their father's family, especially this year, as this weekend is the last of their Christmas break. I still have a few big chores for them to do, but I think it is now too late. In the past I had always enjoyed the Christmas trip to see Lloyd's parents. That is one more thing that stinks about divorce. I can't begrudge my girls their visit to their Sussman grandparents because Ruthie and Al are well into their golden years. No one knows better what the relationship between grandparent and grandchildren can be. My grandparents gave so much to me and my siblings, and hopefully we gave back to them, especially when they were old. But I still think they gave more than we did. They taught me so many things I have used through the years, such as horsemanship skills, sewing, cooking and canning, and, most importantly, how to be a good person.

So far I have kept 100% of my New Year's resolutions. I vowed to write 2007 instead of 2006 on my checks. I have so far written one check in a store, and paid four bills with checks, and haven't messed up yet. I believe in easy resolutions. Why start the new year feeling like a failure? People who go for the big ones often feel sad if they aren't as successful as they would like. Take quitting smoking or reducing one's weight. I do want to quit smoking and lose weight, but right now is not the right time. I hear there is a new prescription to help quit smoking. I plan to ask about it soon. I also plan to try to get better using a computer.

I enjoyed a reunion with my best friend from elementary, high school, and college. Linda Bowman Neiderberger is now living in the Romney area. I had found a hand-made silver bracelet for her last summer. Linda was in Garrett County for a holiday visit with her parents, Charles "Skeeter" and Mary Bowman of McHenry.

Well, the holidays are over at the same time as our mild weather. It started snowing here Monday morning. It was inevitable, as Bittinger's winter must involve snow. It was perfect timing, as my front door doesn't seem to want to stay closed. I remember a time when my family was up at my grandmother's home for Christmas dinner and our front door blew open (this was in a howling blizzard). After a few hours of taking the blizzard inside, we had some frozen pipes.

Since I don't ski anymore I really don't miss the real Bittinger winters of the past. Since we recently got plenty of rain, the lack of snow-cover shouldn't have too much of a negative impact on our groundwater supply.

It is sad to say it is time for our college kids to go back to school. It was wonderful to have all three girls home with me, even when their social calendars were packed with get-togethers with local friends and their cousins. I imagine Lenny and Torrey Poholsky had plenty of things to discuss with the resignation of Steelers' Bill Cower and the possibility that the Penguins may leave Pittsburgh. Torrey is the biggest fan of the Pens that I know. Lenny and Sally drove Torrey back to his college in North Carolina last Sunday. I am glad mine are closer to home.

Although I am glad the weather is warm (mainly because it saves on heating costs), I do still miss winter sports. One very fun winter activity was when Joey and I pulled a toboggan loaded with my younger brothers and sister. We used to blast across the long field by Rock Lodge Road. It was almost as good as a horse-drawn sleigh for them. We did go fast. We sledded on the big hill between the house and the creek. During the 1980s, my friend Linda and I perfected some stunts on the toboggan, mainly just standing for the whole ride down the hill. What I miss most is cross-country skiing. What a wonderful way to enjoy our beautiful winter scenery. It was also a great workout, but not all hard work. You can get some pretty great thrills on the downhills.

One year Kevin Dodge and I took a group of GCC students on a ski trip. The wind had blown in such a way on our back hill that we had a perfect place to do a jump right off the edge. I used to have a snapshot of it, but have lost it.

I guess the most spectacular ski trip was when Lesa Whittemore and I saw a magical rainbow tree. The icy twigs were sparkling with what appeared to be bright colored lights. I am glad Lesa saw it too, because it seems almost too fantastic to believe, but she remembers it as well as I do.

Another special cross-country memory was the day Lloyd and I saw a pair of snow geese along the shore of the beaver dam. If

Farming On The Mountaintop

Meetings Set To Address Area Land Use

A series of six community meetings have been planned to address agriculture and forestry in Garrett County.

The topic of discussion will be — "What do you want your community to look like in 20 years?"

The meetings have been scheduled by the Garrett-Preston Rural Development Coalition (RDC) to provide an opportunity for farmers and other landowners to understand the current subdivision regulations in agriculture and rural resource areas in Garrett County's Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

Information will be provided on tools that can be used to maintain the agricultural nature of Garrett County. Input from the meetings will be shared with the Garrett County Planning Commission for consideration in updating the comprehensive plan. County ordinances, such as the subdivision ordinance, are developed based on the county's comprehensive plan.

Meetings are planned as follows: Thursday, Jan. 11, at the Ryan's Glade Community Building; Friday, Jan. 12, at the Grantsville Senior Center at 10 a.m.; Wednesday, Jan. 17, at the Flowery Vale Fitness Center in Accident at 10 a.m.; Wednesday, Jan. 17, at the Friendsville Senior Center at 7 p.m.; and Wednesday, Jan. 24, at the Eastern Garrett Fire Department in Finzel at 7 p.m.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-6960.

Dairy Cattle Reproduction Workshop Set

A workshop on dairy cattle reproduction will be held on Thursday, Jan. 18, at the Pleasant Valley Community Building from 7 to 9 p.m.

Dr. Ray Nebel will be the presenter. He was invited to come to Maryland to address and answer some of the questions identified during the 2006 Maryland Dairy Survey. Formerly an extension dairy cattle reproduction specialist with Virginia Tech, Dr. Nebel is currently a select reproductive solutions specialist with Select Sires Inc.

"Ray spent 25 years in his extension position at Virginia Tech, and is a very well-known and respected reproductive physiologist," said Willie Lantz, extension educator for Garrett County. "Dr. Nebel brings both scientific and practical expertise to his workshops. His teaching style is very down-to-earth and understandable. You will enjoy his enthusiastic presentation and candor."

There is no cost for the workshop. Persons may call the extension office at 301-334-6960 to register.

First Maryland Dairy Convention Set For Feb. 17

The inaugural Maryland Dairy Convention, a joint effort of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association and the Maryland Dairy Shrine, will be held Saturday, Feb. 17. Noted industry experts will unveil secrets of successful dairy production at this event, scheduled to kick off at 8:30 a.m. at the Lynfield Event Complex in Frederick.

Focusing on "Making Progress with Your Dairy During Challenging Times," the convention committee has secured several speakers, including Gary Sipiorski, president of Citizens Bank in Loyal, Wisc.; Gary Heckman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Center for Dairy Excellence; and Dr. Mark Armfelt from Monsanto.

Coinciding with the day meeting will be a variety of youth activities. While young people will be invited to attend any speaker sessions of their interest, the convention will feature the Maryland Junior Dairyman Contest with cash prizes, and an ice cream social.

Also arranged for the day is a tour of Mason Dixon Farms in Gettysburg, Pa., which tour will highlight the dairy farm's robotic milkers, a history of the farm, and a stop at its visitor center. Space is limited. Those interested in joining the tour should make note of this on the registration, or call Debra Spurrier at 301-473-7522.

Rounding out the day's events will be a dinner honoring a Dairy Shrine inductee, recognition of distinguished youth, presentation of the Junior Dairyman youth contest awards, announcement of the silent auction winners, and a live auction.

Many Expected To Attend Farm Leaders Dinner

Maryland's agricultural industry leaders will dine with state and national legislators on Thursday, Feb. 1, to celebrate the importance of agriculture in Maryland. Over 700 are expected to attend the annual gala at Michael's Eighth Avenue in Glen Burnie. It is sponsored by the Maryland Agriculture Council.

Among the highlights of the evening will be the presentation of the Governor's Agriculture Hall of Fame awards to two farm families that have demonstrated an exceptional commitment to agriculture and their communities.

The council will also award several thousand dollars in grants for various agricultural projects throughout the state.

The role of the Maryland Agriculture Council is one of educating the public on the importance of agriculture. Various avenues enable the council to interact with the public on a year-around basis, such as Ag Week shows at the malls, Web sites, fairs, community shows, and newsletters. The council's grant program offers funding to individuals or organizations for the promotion of agriculture.

Tickets for the dinner are still available at $75 per person if purchased before January 10; after that date, tickets are $85 per person. For ticket information and reservations, persons may call Gail Yeiser at 301-405-2434. For more information on the dinner, persons may contact Susan Summers at 301-865-1045.

Home Ownership Program Started For Volunteers

A new program that will help enable emergency-service volunteers and others become homeowners has been developed by two local businesses.

Long and Foster Real Estate and Prosperity Mortgage are working cooperatively to help local firefighters and emergency medical volunteers, as well as police officers, military personnel, and school teachers, purchase a first house, or move into a larger house. The program, called "Helping Those Who Serve," offers flexible credit guidelines, reduced income requirements, and the opportunity for home purchase with little or no money down.

"Our firefighters, police, military and medical personnel have always been heroes, but since Sept. 11, 2001, we hold a special appreciation for these brave men and women," stated Carol Wills of Long and Foster. "This home ownership program has been developed to recognize the commitment of these people who serve and dedicate themselves to public service."

Those handling the program are Mary Lou Rohrbaugh of Prosperity Mortgage and a Long and Foster team of Sandy, Larry, and Brad Nesline, Kym Newmann, Mark Utterback, and Wills.

Larry Nesline is a volunteer firefighter with the Bittinger VFD and a first-responder with the Northern Rescue Squad. Sandy Nesline was a principal at Red House and Accident elementary schools. Utterback worked for the West Virginia school system as a bus driver and financially supports local fire departments throughout Preston County. Newmann is a substitute teacher in Garrett County, and Wills worked 17 years in the medical field.

For more information about the program, persons may telephone Sandy Nesline at 301-501-1755 or Mark Utterback at 304-698-6140.

MRS. CLAUS VISITS LIBRARY – Mrs. Claus, also known as Juanita Salazar from Mount Savage, stopped by the Oakland Library in December during Children's Hour. Using a program designed around audience participation, she read "'Twas the Night Before Christmas" and had the children act out the poem. They also donned costume attire and sang "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Jingle Bells," and "Frosty the Snowman." "I had a wonderful time during my first visit to Oakland," said Mrs. Claus. "The children were just great." Salazar is a professional actress who also has worked as a teacher and children's librarian. She has appeared on stages in several states. Children's Hour at the Oakland Library meets every Wednesday from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. For more information about programs at the Ruth Enlow Library, persons may visit online at relib.net.

Missions Trip Presentation Slated Saturday

A missions trip presentation will be given this Saturday, Jan. 13, at 7 p.m., at Faith Evangelical Free Church, Mountain Lake Park. The program will present the events and activities of a church-sponsored missions trip to Sri Lanka last November.

The two-man team consisted of David Martin, pastor of the church, and Paul Schultz, a retired auditor from Chippewa Evangelical Free Church in Beaver Falls, Pa. The trip was held November 6-21, with Pastor Martin teaching a Colombo Theological Seminary course on missions, and the two men visiting and speaking at a seminary chapel service, Youth For Christ, and church planters staff meetings, a rural Sri Lankan church, and an Asian Access pastoral training meeting.

Saturday's program will feature slides taken by Schultz, an accomplished photographer. The program is free of charge and open to the public. For additional information, persons may contact the church at 301-334-4172.

God Saw You...

God saw you getting tired,
When a cure was not to be.
So He wrapped His arms around you,
And whispered, "Come to me."

You didn't deserve what you went through,
So He gave you rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.

And when I saw you sleeping,
So peaceful and free from pain
I could not wish you back
To suffer that again.

Loved and sadly missed by all,
Mom and Dad, Lona, Deb, Trish,
& Wayne, along with their families,
and her loving son, Trint

January is Thyroid Awareness Month. The thyroid gland in your neck produces thyroid hormone that controls virtually every cell, tissue, and organ in the body. If your thyroid gland isn't working properly, neither will you. Thyroid disorders are more common among women and tend to run in families. A TSH blood test is the most effective check for a thyroid condition. See a doctor if you think you may be at risk.

All Invited To FSU Renewable Energy Meeting

The public is invited to attend an informative meeting about the possibilities of wind and solar energy in western Maryland during a Renewable Energy Focus Group meeting, scheduled for next Thursday, Jan. 18, at 5 p.m. in the FSU Compton Science Building, Room 226.

The event is organized in conjunction with a project funded by the Maryland Energy Administration (MEA) and directed by Dr. Oguz Soysal, chair of the physics and engineering department at FSU, which recently secured external funding from the MEA that will allow the university to build a demonstration system with a 35-45 ft. wind turbine and photovoltaic solar panels to supply energy to a small building on the FSU campus. The purpose of the project is to develop interdisciplinary curriculum and educational outreach programs that will explore the possibilities of harvesting wind and solar energy in western Maryland.

Additionally, FSU will also administer the Maryland State Anemometer Loan Program, which supplies anemometers (wind meters) to residents interested in installing them on their properties. The program will also enable Frostburg to develop first-hand experience with technical, economic, and environmental and administrative issues residents might face through the construction and operation of wind power systems.

For more information about FSU's solar-wind energy project, persons may contact Dr. Soysal at 301-687-7079 or e-mail osoysal-@frostburg.edu.

Town Hall

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

Christmas Tree Pick-Up – Residents are asked to place Christmas trees along the roadside for pick-up by the town crew. Trees will be collected and disposed of on an ongoing basis until Wednesday, Jan. 31.

Community Legacy Committee – The Mayor and Town Council are currently soliciting names/resumés from town residents interested in serving on the Mountain Lake Park Community Legacy Committee. Residents are asked to see the Public Notices section of this newspaper for further details. This committee will consist of citizen members, elected officials, and town staff. The frequency of meetings has not been established for this committee, but is likely to be no more than quarterly.

The purpose of this committee is to implement the Community Legacy Strategic Plan, which was completed in August 2004. Major elements of the plan include: Historic Preservation, Housing, Recreational Amenities, Commercial Area Guidelines/Development, and Leadership Development. Copies of the plan are available for review at Town Hall.

Looking Back
by Karen Wooddell

Aug. 25, 1886 – "On a motion J. M. Davis was employed at a salary of $1000.00 as superintendent and traveling agent for one year from Sept. 18, 1886, to Sept. 1887. It was agreed that E. J. Stone and J. M. Davis be a committee to file and arrange the papers belonging to the association."

LOCH LYNN

• The town of Loch Lynn Heights will be picking up discarded Christmas trees on Jan. 15 and 22. Persons who wish to have their trees removed are asked to have all trees in their front yards by 9 a.m.

• The Garrett County Planning Commission will be meeting on Jan. 15 at 6 p.m. at the Loch Lynn town hall.

• The Zoning Board of Appeals will be meeting on Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. to hold a special appeals hearing at the Loch Lynn town hall.

ACCIDENT

The January town meeting was held on Thursday, Jan. 4, at the town hall.

• Jo Sheffield from Devine and Sheffield CPAs was on hand to present and review the 2005-2006 financial report with the mayor and council. She confirmed all financial reports had been submitted on time and the town is starting the new year on a positive note.

• Deputy Sam Thomas and Chief Deputy Major Randy Resh were at the meeting to confirm that there are now three deputies assigned to the northern end of Garrett County.

• The council signed proclamations naming three town-owned areas as town parks. They include the pond to be known as Accident Community Park; the area on the northwest side of town hall to be known as Marjorie Fratz Memorial Park; and the area at the intersection of South Main Street and Main Street Extended to be known as Accident Veteran's Park.

• The council moved to accept Devine and Sheffield CPA's proposal for a three-year contract for audit services.

• The county commissioners are scheduled to attend the March town meeting.

• The next Accident Revitalization Task Force meeting is scheduled for Jan. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the town hall. Four businesses have expressed an interest in applying for money for façade projects.

The next town meeting will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 7:30 p.m., after the town convention to be held at 7 p.m. at the town hall. Two council members and the mayor are up for re-election on March 6.

CIVIC CLUB DONATES TO DOVE CENTER – The Civic Club of Oakland recently made a $250 donation to the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault prevention resource center. you haven't tried cross-county skiing before, give it a chance; you might love it.

My Caitlin was cuddling our tom cat Tigger, who was named for the cat in the Winnie the Pooh stories. She was cheek-to-cheek, and Tigger got a little grouchy and scratched her face. I saw today on the "Today" show that Tigger at Disneyland is in trouble for hitting a kid during a photo op. It was a bad weekend for the Tiggers of the world. I guess a lesson to be learned from this is "Don't trust a Tigger." I often mention things I see on the "Today" show. This year marks its 55th year on the air. So it was only two years old when I was born. I share most mornings with them. It is great to know what is going on in the world.

I got an ugly shock when I learned of my daughters' addiction to daytime soaps, which I find horrible. I just can't watch them at all. We ended up having some conflicts in the afternoons. They not only like the daytime soaps, but also the prime time ones such as "Grey's Anatomy" and "Desperate Housewives." I was surprised that college-aged kids love that old show from my childhood, "The Price is Right." I didn't like it then and I still don't. But bad TV or not, I am still glad to have my girls home with me.

The snow shower this morning didn't last long; now the sun is shining. The air still feels pretty cold. I still can't figure out my door. I will need to have Rodney look at it when he comes home from work. The hardest thing for me since I got sick is to learn to wait and have some patience.

Otherwise around Bittinger, Ferne Beachy and Sally Poholsky visited Ida Reckner and Donna Glotfelty recently. With Torrey's return to Greensboro, N.C., he now will begin baseball practice to prepare for a California trip in February.

Cleo Hetrick of Ohio visited with Ferne Beachy. She is the daughter of Vera Merrill, a lifelong friend of Ferne who passed away in October.

Tie Vote Halts Annexation For Mtn. Lake Park

A petition filed by some residents and property owners on the south and west sides of Mtn. Lake Park to be annexed by the town has been halted, at least temporarily, by a tie vote in a referendum held January 6.

According to the town administrator Richard Haynes, the petition for annexation had the full support of the mayor and town council. However, the issue was forced to referendum by some of the affected residents. The vote that was held at the Parkwood Apartment complex office ended with 21 in favor of the annexation, and 21 persons against. Because the law requires a majority vote in favor of the annexation in order for it to pass, the process is now at a standstill.

A similar effort by the town was undertaken two years ago on much of the same property involved this time. A referendum in that case resulted in a vote of 30 to 1 in favor of the annexation. But in that case, the town of Oakland was also attempting to annex a portion of the same property, consisting of Southern High School and Dennett Road Elementary School.

It appeared at the time that Mtn. Lake Park's annexation superceded Oakland's because of an alleged violation by Oakland of a 15-day waiting period that was shortened by one day. Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jim Sherbin ruled in favor of Mtn. Lake Park; however, Oakland took the issue to the Maryland State Court of Appeals, where Sherbin's ruling was overturned.

Homeowners on the property to be annexed were granted in-town sewer rates by Mtn. Lake Park back in

NARY A SNOWFLAKE WAS CHASED, but the annual Uno Restaurant Snowflake Chase was held nonetheless at Deep Creek Lake State Park on Saturday, an event which attracted nearly 250 runners and walkers, and raises money for Cindy's Fund. The 5-mile run and 2-mile walk, which are coordinated by the Queen City Striders Running Club, had participants from five different states, all of whom were treated to a pizza lunch at Uno's afterward. The temperature for the chase, which is usually well below freezing, was a balmy 50 degrees, and there was a light drizzle in the air. The usual cold weather finally returned to the Mountaintop Monday evening, and the forecast calls for more normal temperatures for the next several days, with some snow expected tomorrow and again Monday. Commissioners Hear General Services Update

Director Gary Mullich, Garrett County Department of General Services, updated the county commissioners on Tuesday about his department's recent activities. He presented a written status report on and discussed numerous projects, including the proposed exhibit hall, detention center, public works complex, and airport runway expansion.

Exhibit Hall

Permits obtained for the construction of the exhibit hall on the Keystone Lime site near Deep Creek Lake were canceled in December, as the county and Garrett County Fair Board are now looking at locating the facility at the fairgrounds.

A meeting was scheduled for Jan. 4 for the fair board and county representatives to establish a program for the design and construction of the hall, Mullich wrote in his report.

Detention Center

Best and final price quotes were received in December from architectural firms bidding on the detention center project. From those, ATI Inc. was chosen

"Swap Shop" Prog. Diverts 38.81 Tons From GC Landfill

The Solid Waste and Recycling Division, General Services Department, has announced the year-end totals for the "Garrett County Swap Shop." In this free recycling program, residents salvaged approximately 38.81 tons of materials at the county landfill and collection sites in 2006.

"These items would have otherwise come to the landfill for disposal," said Kim Madigan, the division's recycling coordinator. "Diverting materials from the landfill is very important, and the swap shop is a big part of our source reduction efforts.

"Our office would like to recognize the Grantsville refuse and recycling site for swapping 13.82 tons of materials, the highest yearly amount recorded since the inception of this program in 2003," she added.

The Rt. 135 collection site came in second by swapping 5.75 tons of materials.

Approximately 31.03 tons of materials were recycled through the swap shop in 2005.

The shop is available at the landfill and six refuse and recycling sites located throughout the county. Residents are encouraged to

Woman Arrested After Allegedly Firing Gun To Break Up Fight

A North Carolina woman was arrested after allegedly firing three shots from a handgun into the air in an attempt to break up a fight outside a residence in Silver Ridge Development off Glendale Road Monday at approximately 2:10 a.m., according to the Maryland State Police.

Troopers D.T. Wagoner, S. LeMay, and A. Blocher from McHenry MSP Barracks arrived at Unit 24 Trail Side Way of the aforementioned development in response to information that a fight was in progress and gun shots were fired. The officers secured the scene, and the MSP road supervisor, Cpl. B. Hughes, interviewed the six occupants of the unit.

Through the investigation the police learned that two men, one from Georgia and the other from North Carolina, were allegedly engaged in an altercation outside Unit 24 when Luwanda Williams, 24, reportedly picked up a small caliber handgun from the ground near the men and a fired three shots into the air in an attempt to stop their fight.

Williams was arrested and charged with reckless endangerment and disturbing the peace, and then transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an initial bond hearing before the District Court commissioner.

Two other handguns were found inside the residence and seized for evidence. The police said that alcohol was a factor in the incident. Capt. Pratt and a deputy from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office also assisted at the scene.

Oakland Plans DNR-Sanctioned Crow Shoot

Because all humane tactics have been exhausted in attempts to rid the downtown area of the influx of thousands of crows, Oakland officials are in the process of arranging a controlled shoot within the next seven to 10 days, according to Jay Moyer of the town council.

The crows have been settling in the town at night for the past several winters, gathering in the thousands along Center, Second, and Pennington streets, or on the hilltops to the west or east of town. The numbers have increased over the years, as have the consequences of the birds' presence, such as their copious droppings, occasional car-

Arrest Made In Local Identity Theft Case

A 32-year-old Edgewater woman has been arrested by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in connection with a Nov. 25, 2006, identity theft case. Belinda Marie Glock allegedly stole the victim's wallet from her Mc-Henry business.

The wallet contained several important items, such as the victim's credit cards and Maryland operator's license. Glock purchased several items with the stolen credit cards in Garrett County, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, according to the GBI.

She then reportedly used the victim's identification and visited several hospital emergency rooms and other health facilities in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Oklahoma, and Maryland. Police officials say Glock usually traveled to pharmacies in those areas to have prescriptions filled and was captured on surveillance video at several locations.

Her identity was revealed after she was in Garrett County Memorial Hospital

Two GC Men Face Additional Burglary Charges

Detectives of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation have served numerous felony arrest warrants on two Garrett County men already incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail. Edward Clay Villarreal, 35, Grantsville, and Bert Joseph Lorch, 27, Friendsville, are each charged with a total of at least 12 additional charges including numerous counts of second degree burglary.

Additional information concerning other earlier reported burglaries surfaced and led GBI detectives to the recovery of a large number of stolen construction tools with an estimated value of approximately $7,000. Detectives were able to link all of the recovered property to burglaries. The majority of the stolen property was construction equipment and tools.

GBI is encouraging all contractors to mark their tools with some type of identifier. Many of the tools that were recovered did have identifiers and made it easy for detectives to connect the stolen property with the original owners. Information sharing between the Maryland State Police, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and GBI was a key factor in this investigation.

Governor O'Malley Sworn In; Vows To "Take Responsibility"

by Liz Farmer
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Martin O'Malley was sworn in as Maryland's 61st governor Wednesday, declaring, "I take responsibility" for what he predicted would be difficult choices and asking Marylanders to share in the sacrifice.

"As of this moment, honoring your trust, I take responsibility for doing all that I can to make your government work again," O'Malley told a crowd of about 1,000 gathered on a bright and cold afternoon in front of the West Portico of the State House.

"I take responsibility for setting a tone of mutual respect inside the halls of government – and for working with leaders of both parties to find common ground to advance the common good."

O'Malley, who turned 44 today, took the oath of office at 12:16 p.m. in a tightly packed Senate chamber, accompanied by his wife, Baltimore District Court Judge Catherine Curran O'Malley, and their four children – one of whom, 4-year-old Jack, fidgeted and mugged on a podium otherwise filled with beaming dignitaries.

Sworn in shortly before O'Malley was Anthony G. Brown, who became the state's seventh lieutenant governor since the office was created in 1970.

Moments later, both men donned heavy topcoats and moved to a makeshift stage overlooking Lawyer's Mall where O'Malley, known for his rhetorical flights and lengthy speeches, delivered an upbeat, but realistic 14-minute assessment of the tasks he says are facing Maryland.

"There are things for which each of us must take responsibility, as individuals, or the work of our government will be futile," O'Malley said. "Safe neighborhoods. A strong and growing middle class. Educational opportunity. Financial fairness. Protecting God's creation. Caring for the sick."

In the audience were scores of dignitaries, including the outgoing governor, Robert L. Ehrlich, who was recognized by O'Malley but otherwise played no official part in the ceremony. Lending star quality to the gath-

CAT SAVES OWNER — A pet cat is credited with saving the life of its owner, and then dying in an accidental fire that resulted in the destruction of this single-story, wood-frame house located at 676 Glendale Road yesterday. Firefighters from Deep Creek Lake, Oakland, Accident, and Bittinger were summoned to the house at 7:04 a.m., with the first units on the scene facing heavy flames that had already broken through the wall. The house was owned by Ed Browning, who told investigators he was sleeping on the couch when he was awakened by the crying of his cat. The cause of the fire, which caused an estimated loss of $130,000 to the structure and contents, was reportedly a lighted candle in a rear bedroom that was left unattended. Deep Creek VFC deputy fire chief Jason King said that the smoke alarms in the house did not activate. Also responding to the scene were state and county police and the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported. Photo submitted by Mark Weber.

THE PROBLEM WITH THE CROWS in Oakland is growing, and town officials are trying a variety of remedies to make the birds stop roosting in the area every night, and now are planning to arrange a crow shoot. The crows have gathered nightly in the thousands for months, and this has happened for the past several winters. The great numbers of the birds have resulted in a real mess on the streets and downtown properties, and officials are concerned about the possible health risks to citizens. A number of humane remedies have been tried for months, but to no avail, according to Jay Moyer of the town council. While it is a last resort, Moyer said there is no choice but to destroy some of the birds, with the hope that the roosting cycle will then be broken. A staged and authorized shooting is being planned to take place within the next few weeks. See story. Photo by John McEwen.

Drugs And Alcohol Violations Continue To Dominate Local District Court Cases

A Swanton man received a 30-day jail sentence, of which all but four days was suspended after he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana at the conclusion of a recent hearing in the Garrett County District Court.

Shannon Leroy Lee, 29, Swanton, was stopped for speeding in October, and was arrested after the police determined that he had been drinking and driving in violation of the restrictions that had been placed on his license because of an earlier traffic offense, according to court records. Lee was transported to the McHenry Barracks, at which time the police found two clear plastic baggies of marijuana and a smoking pipe on the defendant.

Lee was then charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, failure to attach vehicle license plates to the front and rear of the car, speeding, driving with an alcohol in the blood in violation of a court order, and consuming alcohol in the passenger area of a motor vehicle.

In addition to the four days Lee will spend in jail, he was given one year of unsupervised probation and a $200 fine. Lee was not prosecuted on charges of possession of paraphernalia, failure to attach a vehicle license plate to the front and rear of the car, speeding, driving with alcohol in the blood in violation of a court order, and driver consuming alcoholic beverage in the passenger area of the car.

In other District Court activity, Steven Louis Coddington, 28, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to driving a motor vehicle on an out-of-state license, and Judge Ralph Burnett handed the defendant a 30-day jail term, all of which was suspended, according to court records.

Coddington was stopped by police for a seat belt violation in July, and told Deputy A.M. Wilson that he did not have a license and that his West Virginia driver's license was suspended. The officer placed the defendant under arrest, then searched his vehicle and found a prescription bottle, three different pills, two prescriptions, and a controlled dangerous substance that was later tested and identified as Oxycodone. The state's attorney did not prosecute Coddington on charges of possession of CDS not marijuana and removing the label of a prescription bottle.

Lamont Alexander, 23, New York, N.Y., pleaded guilty to giving a peace officer a false statement, but no punishment was issued.

Alexander was a passenger in a Chevy Cavalier that was stopped in February 2005 on I-68 for displaying an expired registration. The driver told the officer that he did not have a license and had never had one. The car was scanned by a drug detection canine, who gave a positive response to the presence of drugs. The vehicle was searched, and Alexander was subsequently arrested for carrying a handgun in a vehicle, possessing a firearm with a felony conviction, and making a false statement to a police officer.

The state's attorney did not prosecute Alexander on charges of carrying a handgun in a vehicle and possessing a firearm with a felony conviction.

Devin Nelson Rose, 19, White Stone, Va., was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), a 30-day jail term, all of which was suspended, a $200 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation after being found guilty for possession of marijuana.

Rose, a passenger in 2000 Pontiac Grand Am that was stopped for speeding, was arrested after the police found marijuana, hashish, cocaine, and heroin in a blue backpack belonging to the defendant, according to court records.

The state's attorney did not prosecute Rose on charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) not marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia.

Benjamin Lowell Thompson, 18, Owings, pleaded guilty to possession of CDS marijuana, and was handed a 30-day jail term, all of which was suspended except for 12 hours. In addition, the defendant was ordered to complete six months of unsupervised probation and pay a $250 fine.

Thompson was pulled over for speeding, and his car was scanned by a drug detection canine and tested positive to the presence of drugs. The police found a smoking pipe that contained the burnt residue of marijuana. Thompson was not prosecuted on the charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

Frank Richard Mallon Jr., 26, Southampton, Pa., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a 30 day-jail term, all of which was suspended. In addition, the defendant was ordered to undergo six months of unsupervised probation and to pay a $250 fine.

Mallon was the passenger in a car that was stopped for speeding on I-68. A canine drug detection dog alerted police to the positive presence of drugs, and Mallon told police he had a smoking device that contained marijuana. In a search after the arrest, the police found a glass jar of marijuana in the defendant's pants pocket.

Mallon was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on the charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia.

Michael DelPriore, 19, Stockton, N.J., pleaded guilty to possession of CDS marijuana, and was handed a 30-day jail sentence, of which all but 12 hours was suspended. In addition, the defendant was ordered to complete one year of unsupervised probation and to pay a $200 fine. DelPriore was traveling in a 1994 Honda when he was stopped for speeding. A canine unit gave the police a positive alert to the presence of drugs, and the police conducted a probable cause search of the vehicle and found a smoking pipe that contained the residue of marijuana and cocaine, and two baggies of marijuana. The defendant's passenger, Matthew Edward Seekins, 21, Putney, Vt., was charged with possession of CDS marijuana, possession of CDS paraphernalia, and possession of CDS not marijuana. All charges were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

David Dale Collins II, 23, Eglon, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of CDS paraphernalia and failure to drive right of center. He received a PBJ by Judge Burnett, who handed down a $200 fine and one day of unsupervised probation for the possession charge, and one day of unsupervised probation and a $75 fine for the traffic charge. Collins's July arrest by local law enforcement officials followed a traffic stop on Hutton Road, where the defendant failed a sobriety test, and a search of the vehicle produced a smoking pipe containing the residue of burnt marijuana. Collins was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of possession of marijuana, DWI, DWI by drugs and alcohol, and DWI by CDS.

Timothy Brandon Field Lax, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to theft of property of less than $100 in value, and was handed a PBJ, one day of unsupervised probation, 30 hours of community service, and a $50 fine. Lax was involved in a single vehicle accident, and an investigation by Garrett County sheriff's deputy re-

GBI, MSP, and SFM Respond To Bomb Threat

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Bureau of Investigation, Maryland State Police, and the State Fire Marshal's office responded to Southern Garrett High School last Thursday, Jan. 11, for a reported bomb threat.

School officials evacuated students to a safe location and began dismissal procedures. Officers secured the scene and awaited MSP bomb dogs.

One bomb dog was flown to the school from Annapolis, and another responded from Allegheny County. Once at the scene, school employees accompanied MSP officers with their dogs as they scanned the school. No explosive devices were located.

The following school day, a copy of the note announcing the threat was circulated to the school faculty. Almost immediately the handwriting was recognized. A female student was identified and subsequently arrested by GBI investigators after confessing to the crime.

Man Receives Jail Time For Assault Charges

A Kitzmiller man appeared in Garrett County Circuit Court last Tuesday for two cases involving second-degree assaults. Charles Raymond Housley, 32, pleaded guilty to a second-degree assault on his girlfriend, for which he was charged in August by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Housley to one year in the Garrett County Jail and then suspended the sentence in favor of supervised probation. A condition of probation is that Housley be on home confinement for a period of six months.

In the second case, a second-degree assault charge involving another household member of Housley's that was filed by Garrett Bureau of Investigation officers in February was placed on the stet docket.

In other court news from last week, Joseph Paul Otto, 24, Friendsville, , pleaded guilty to possession of heroin and to leaving the scene of a property damage accident.

He was sentenced on the drug charge to four years in the Division of Corrections, with three years suspended, and to six months in the Garrett County Jail for the motor vehicle charge. Otto will be on probation upon his release, with conditions that include drug treatment.

He was charged by Maryland State Police in March after his car struck the front of a business in Accident. location. While investigating the accident, troopers determined Otto had concealed a quantity of heroin inside the business, and additional drugs were found on his person when he was arrested.

Employees of the business directed police to the car that had left the scene and traveled to another business.

Additional drug and traffic charges were dismissed upon his plea.

In an unrelated case, a charge of second-degree assault against Carrie Lee McCombie, 27, formerly of Friendsville, was placed on the stet docket in Garrett County Circuit Court last Tuesday.

Conditions of the case remaining inactive are that McCombie have no contact with the victim and remain away from the business where the assault was alleged to have occurred.

McCombie was charged following an altercation at a Friendsville business in the early morning hours of April 16, 2006.

In other court news from last Tuesday, Daniel Paul Melnick, 25, Londonderry, N.H., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. Sherbin sentenced Melnick to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail and suspended all but time he had previously served when arrested. He was also fined $300.

Melnick was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in July 2006 after the vehicle he was driving was stopped for speeding on I-68. A certified drug detection dog scanned the vehicle and gave a positive alert. When the vehicle was searched, a quantity of marijuana was found in a bag that also contained Melnick's identification, according to the state's attorney.

In other recent court news, numerous charges against Maria Lynn Swick, 33, Maysville, W.Va., were not prosecuted by the state's attorney. Swick had been charged with 11 counts of second-degree burglary, seven counts of theft over $500, three counts of theft under $500, two counts of fourth-degree burglary, and two counts of malicious destruction of property.

The charges stemmed from burglaries that took place at numerous storehouses in the Deep Creek Lake and Oakland areas between March and September 2004.

U.S. Appeals Court Throws Out Wal-Mart Health Insurance Bill

by Esther Nguonly
Capital News Service

A bill to force retail giant Wal-Mart to provide more health insurance for its workers was once again ruled invalid in a 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision released Wednesday.

The federal appeals court upheld a lower court decision that overturned a controversial state law. That law, approved in January 2006, required Maryland employers with 10,000 or more employees to pay 8 percent of its total payroll on employee health insurance costs. The law affects only Wal-Mart Stores' 16,000 Maryland employees.

But the General Assembly is not going to let the issue die, said Maryland Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert. Lawmakers, he said, have resolved to find a way to write the bill so that it will be passed.

Getting a bill that will stand a court challenge is important, he said, because the state must continue to subsidize health care to the 60 percent of Wal-Mart employees who do not have health insurance.

The bill had a rough road to passage. First approved by lawmakers in April 2005, it was vetoed by Republican Gov. Robert Ehrlich. But the General Assembly came back and overrode that veto in January 2006.

Wal-Mart is a member of the Retail Industry Leaders Association, which brought suit to overturn the Maryland law.

Then Federal District Judge J. Frederick Motz invalidated the law on the grounds that it violated part of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

Wal-Mart's spokesman Nate Hurst contended the language used in the original bill was politically motivated, and the measure does nothing to control or improve the cost of health care.

Hurst said that 90.4 percent of Wal-Mart associates are covered by health insurance.

"We are pleased that the U.S. Court of Appeals has affirmed the Maryland federal court's decision," said Hurst. "Not only was this legislation widely viewed as bad public policy, the courts have confirmed that it violates the law."

The retail association, too, extolled the decision, saying it makes it clear that "employer health plans are governed by federal law, not a patchwork of state and local laws."

"The court's decision," said RILA president Sandy Kennedy, "sends a strong message that similar bills under consideration in other states and municipalities also violate federal law."

Miller said he doesn't see legislation coming out of negotiation with Wal-Mart.

"Finding a common ground in these areas is impossible," said Miller. "We'll have Wal-Mart suing us again."

vealed that the license plate that the defendant was displaying had been stolen from a car belonging to a Mtn. Lake Park resident.

Matthew Alan Riley, 44, Cumberland, pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence (DUI) and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day jail sentence, all of which was suspended; and was fined $500, of which $100 was suspended; and was given one year of supervised probation. Riley was arrested by a sheriff's deputy in July during a traffic stop after he failed a sobriety test. In the subsequent search of the defendant's vehicle, police found two clear baggies of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Riley was not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia, failure to drive right of center, DUI per se, and driving while impaired by alcohol.

Shavon Lynn Royal, 24, Grantsville, was handed stet rulings on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, the unlawful taking of a motor vehicle, and the theft of property in excess of $500 in value. The charges were filed by the Maryland State Police in August when the owner of a 1992 Oldsmobile reported that the defendant had not returned her vehicle. The owner had given Royal permission to use the car to go to the market, but the car and the defendant disappeared for five days, after which time the defendant spoke with the owner and the police and claimed the car had been stolen. The police later found the car in Uniontown, Pa., and reported that the vehicle had been abandoned and appeared to have been in an accident. Judge Burnett issued the stet rulings on the condition that Royal pay the owner $1,500 in restitution.

Mary Rebeccca White, 20, Morgantown, W.Va., was handed stet rulings on charges of possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia and possession of CDS not marijuana filed by the Maryland State Police after a traffic stop in August and the subsequent probable cause search of the vehicle. Matthew Glen Morgan, 22, Richmond, Va., a passenger in White's Toyota, was handed stet rulings for possession of paraphernalia and possession of psilocybin mushrooms.

Anthony Wayne Michaels, 19, Friendsville, was handed stet rulings on charges of possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia filed by the Maryland State Police after a domestic incident in Mtn. Lake Park in May.

The following two cases were not prosecuted by the state's attorney:

Clayton Rodney House, 34, Boyton, Pa., was not prosecuted for attempted theft of property worth more than $500, malicious destruction of property in excess of $500 in value, and fourth-degree burglary. A second-degree burglary charge was dismissed, and the defendant was ordered to make restitution to the complainant of $75.

DUI AND DWI

In recent traffic court news, William Francis Schmidl, 21, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI per se and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day jail term, all of which was suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, a $500 fine, of which $200 was suspended, and 30 hours of community service. Schmidl was not prosecuted by the state's attorney on charges of DUI and DWI.

George Allan Killell, 38, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day jail sentence, all of which was suspended except for 96 hours, a $400 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation.

Fix the Leak...

Leadership of the Maryland General Assembly seems determined to strap the problem of soaring health insurance costs onto the backs of business. Instead of having the political guts to pass some meaningful legislation that could help curb the rising costs, some of our elected officials are going to do everything they can to pass the buck.

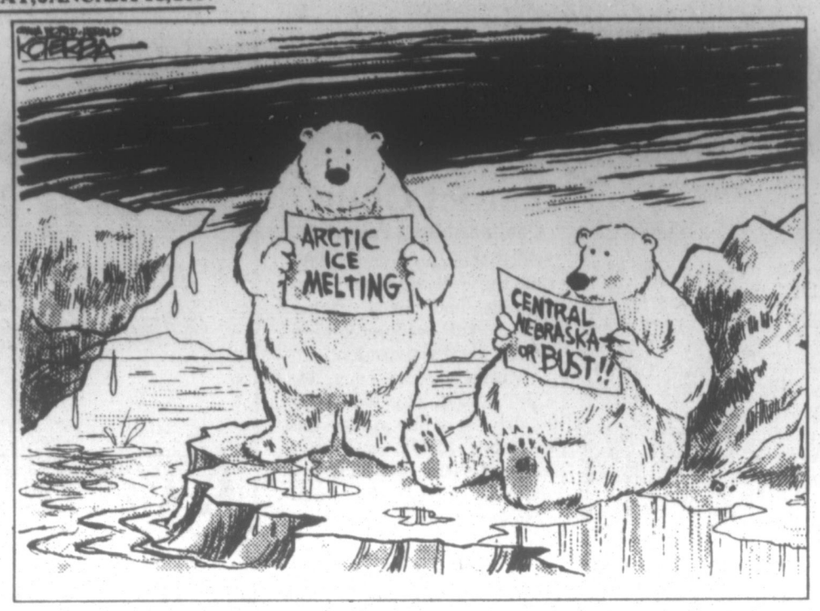
This would include Senate president Thomas V. "Mike" Miller Jr. Just yesterday a federal appeals court overturned a Maryland state law that would have forced Maryland employers with at least 10,000 workers to pay 8 percent of its payroll on employee health insurance costs. Only Wal-Mart, which has approximately 16,000 employees in Maryland, would be affected. The bill was passed in 2005 via an override of then-Governor Robert Ehrlich's wise veto. The law was then ruled invalid by a federal district court judge, after which the state took the case to the court of appeals, which upheld the lower court judge's ruling.

However, Senate president "Mike" vowed yesterday that the General Assembly is "resolved" to find a way to write the bill so that it will be passed. Now with fellow Democrat Martin O'Malley in the governor's chair, passage of a "revised" bill may be a breeze.

This column today is certainly not an endorsement of Wal-Mart, which can afford to and morally should provide health insurance to its employees, or at least pay the lion's share of the premiums. But as was opined in this corner several months ago, government should not be permitted to force businesses to purchase insurance for its employees, at least not unless and until government acts boldly to try to curb the continuing rise in costs. (Incidentally, over 90% of Wal-Mart employees are already covered by health insurance.)

Governor O'Malley said in his inaugural address yesterday, "We have the possibility of rolling up our sleeves to find ways to expand the affordability of healthcare coverage for our people." We challenge the governor to "find ways" to address this problem besides passing the buck and forcing businesses to just foot the bill.

If there is a leak in a water pipe, the right course of action is not to "find ways" to keep paying the growing bill for all the wasted water, but to "find ways" to fix the leak.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Sending more troops to Iraq is very wrong. What does President Bush think he is doing? We need to bring our troops home. We should not have troops there, and we should not have had them in Vietnam.

I think we need a new president who will not send troops to foreign countries.

Steve Pagenhardt

To the Editor:

Many thanks to John Bambacus for his thoughtful and articulate letter in last week's paper. I support his position and commend his forthright statements. I have a neighbor serving in the Marines in Iraq, and I share the anxiety his family feels about his safety. Our young men and women are too valuable to be chewed up in this botched-up and unnecessary war. Please, let's bring them home soon and not add to their number.

Marilyn Moors
Friendsville

To the Editor:

I read the letter to the editor from Jeffery Conner (1 Jan. 2007) concerning Mike Dreisbach of the Savage River Lodge and his relatives Walter Dreisbach, Hagerstown, and Brian Dreisbach, Williamsport.

The Dreisbachs have real chutzpah, don't they. They have their own private state-owned 193-acre hunting grounds surrounded by prime state forest.

Mr. Conner is absolutely right in his comments, and I wish him good luck to have the area in question put back in the hunting land for all citizens to use.

Ralph Schmidt

To the Editor:

Thankfully, the Democrats are back in power in the national offices; unfortunately, they are not in our local offices, and we are still waiting to see how our local leaders propose to make a difference for the many underemployed in this community. One of the real issues in this community is underemployment or unemployment compared to the ridiculous housing costs. Unfortunately, it appears there will not be any significant changes in the "system" around here. Maybe, in four years, the Democrats will take office in this county and real changes can occur.

Sincerely,
Alice Landon

To the Editor:

In my opinion, every citizen who can possibly do so should attend the Public Service Commission meeting being held next Monday, Jan. 22, at Garrett College.

Whether anyone realizes it or not, the last act of one of the greatest financial betrayals in Maryland's history will be played out while we watch.

This part involves letting us speak out on the method that will be used to sacrifice us financially to the monster known as electrical deregulation.

We might even get lucky and get to see a few of the folks who voted in 1999 to take a system that had worked pretty well for 70 years and throw it out the window for this abomination!

Now their new trick is a proposal to start taking our money almost two years before the rate caps come off legally. That tells me that someone's afraid that our first deregulated bill would cause most of us to either keel over or start putting on the war paint!

The sad part of all of this is that we will all end up with tremendous financial burdens far into the future unless our state representatives take real steps to do what several other states have done: put controls back on electricity and stop these phony plans to deceive their citizens.

Come and watch this show next Monday, folks! After all it's your money they're taking!

To the Editor:

Having known John Bambacus since undergrad days at Frostburg 40 years ago, it is no surprise he minimized his personal Vietnam experience (letter, Jan. 11), which includes a purple heart. John's opposition to escalating the war is justified by his experience in civil war, and well clarified by his subsequent education and experience.

A primary reason the Iraq war goes on and on and on is huge majorities of Democratic and Republican business and community leaders have no blood stake there. With some obvious exceptions (Democratic Senator Jim Webb, for example) the children of the minor professional classes are more concerned about the speed of their blackberries than the speed of a sniper's bullet snapping past their ear.

Bush claims escalation insures no American blood is/was shed in vain. This is evidence of mental [illegible] is the "sunk money [illegible]y" written on sand in blood. Competent folks don't throw good money after bad, and competent leaders don't waste the living in vain attempts to validate the dead.

"Winning" in Iraq is a Manichean concept, not a military mission. Without a closely defined mission America bleeds at unsustainable rates for nothing. That is why it matters today more than ever how we got there on day one. A reckoning must lie ahead.

It is no secret how this phase of the debacle in Iraq ends. U.S. troops pull out of hot spots, north to Kurdistan, south to Shia regions or Kuwait. In the Sunni Arc Saudi Arabia, Syria and Iran back strongmen. A dominant strong man arises from the rubble. Another photograph is taken showing this generation's Rumsfeld shaking the strongman's hand. One imagines ironic background music, maybe Stephen Stills's "Change Partners."

Instead of to Vietnam, the Army sent me to the Office of Military Leadership at USMA, West Point. The lesson was clear: "Vietnam is a civil war," and the question was how to get out. Nixon and his scumballs blew it then, killing 20,000+ Americans after the end was obvious and military morale tanked. Today Bush is similarly situated in the pull of the whirlpool just above history's drain. Yet Americans fiddle while the Bush League connives to save a president regardless of costs in blood, cash, and credibility.

Why not write a letter to your senators and your congressman today? Let's get this over with now.

Sincerely,
W.L. Welch

casses, and feathers.

"The potential danger of bird viruses to citizens is too great," Moyer said. "We have tried every humane tactic suggested by the Department of Natural Resources, but nothing is working."

The town officials have tried lasers and fireworks-like explosions, but the birds generally just move to another location in the town to avoid the noise or light beams. Moyer said the DNR suspects the reason for the influx of the birds has to do with one of their predators.

"We initially thought the birds were here for warmth, and that may still be part of the reason, but the DNR has informed us that there has been a significant increase in the great horned owl population, and those owls are natural predators of the crow," Moyer said.

Apparently the crows that roost in the dark woods at night are far more vulnerable to being attacked by the great horned owls. There are certain crows that are "look-outs" for the others, Moyer said, but these birds can't detect the owls in the dark as well as they can in the light. So the crows gather where there is light, partly for warmth, but more to be protected from the owls.

Moyer said the town officials have been reluctant to resort to killing the birds, but see no recourse as the numbers continue to climb.

"They are a federally protected animal, so we have obtained a special permit to have a shoot — under very controlled circumstances," Moyer said. "Only police-approved people will be allowed to take part in the shoot, and it will be announced to the public. Certain streets in the town will be closed off, and it will happen within a specific time frame."

The details of the event are being worked out, Moyer said, with discussions now focused on how to clean up the carcasses after the shoot, among other things. He said he is now in the process of talking with a DNR officer of the Hagerstown regional office.

"We want to have a DNR police official here for the shoot, to observe and advise us as it takes place," Moyer said.

The date and time of the shoot will be released to the public as it nears, Moyer said.

"We don't want people thinking we're not trying to address this issue. We have been trying to take care of it for a long time, and this is the next logical step, even though we regret having to kill some of the birds," Moyer said.

ering were the new speaker of the House of Representatives, Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., who grew up in Baltimore's Little Italy, and the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Howard Dean.

Upon taking the oath of office, O'Malley ceased being mayor of Baltimore, an office he held for seven years. He was automatically succeeded by the City Council president Sheila Dixon, who becomes the city's first female mayor.

Touching on broad themes of economy, education, health care, transportation, environment, and port security, O'Malley spoke of progress and unity, and highlighted his "One Maryland" theme.

"We have the possibility of rolling up our sleeves to find ways to expand the affordability of healthcare coverage for our people," he said. "Working parents shouldn't have to go begging in a tin cup should their children fall gravely ill."

His speech was not intended to provide details. That will come later this week, when he presents his first budget to the General Assembly, and later this month, when he delivers the State of the State Address.

While the general feeling throughout the day's events was one of excitement, the extensive list of initiatives O'Malley referred to in his speech is met with some caution by those who are wondering how to foot the bill.

"I'm a strong supporter of Governor O'Malley," said comptroller-elect Peter Franchot, who will take his office next week. "But, everybody knows the legislature and the governor – and all the other elected officials know – that we have to put our fiscal house in order before we fund those big programs."

Senate Minority Leader David R. Brinkley, R-Frederick, said he was optimistic about working with the new Democratic governor, but expressed concern about the "very lofty" programs and ideals.

"Everything costs a lot of money," he said. "While the state has plenty of cash [illegible]e don't know w[illegible]g term holds by the time all these things get thrown into it. We are not going to be in favor of tax increases. We don't believe that you tax the state into prosperity."

Brinkley also noted that O'Malley's executive power as mayor of Baltimore was different in Annapolis, where "the legislature can be very powerful and exert an awful lot of control."

Still, Senate President Thomas V. "Mike" Miller, Jr., D-Calvert and Prince George's, voiced his hope for change after four years of "a divided leadership."

"With change comes optimism," he said, "and there's a general feeling that general confrontations – as contrasted to cooperation and compromise – are behind us."

THE Garden Patch

by Master Gardener Suzanne Carol

NOW IS THE TIME TO PLAN YOUR SPRING GARDEN

The New Year is here and with it come the long-awaited seed catalogs! It's time to get out your pencil and graph paper and design your spring garden.

The secret to any garden is the quality of the soil. It's not too late to get your soil tested. A soil test is used as a guide to establish a satisfactory fertility level. The standard test measures soil acidity (pH), and available phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium and zinc. These test results help determine fertilizer and lime or sulfur requirements. The ideal range for the soil's pH is 6.2 to 6.8. If your soil falls out of this range you may need to add lime or sulfur depending on the pH value. If the pH is too low, then your soil is too acidic and you should either add calcitic or dolomitic limestone. If the pH is too high, your soil is too alkaline and you need to add sulfur or aluminum sulfate. Fertilizer will take care of low phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium and zinc. Check the label on the fertilizer bag for quantities (i.e., a 100-lb. bag of 20-10-5 contains 20 lbs. of nitrogen, 10 lbs. of phosphorus and 5 lbs. of potassium). Your Extension agent or garden center salesperson can answer any questions you may have.

Call or stop by your Extension Office and staff will provide you with a soil testing kit free of charge (you will have to pay return postage). The kits contain instructions on where to obtain the soil and what to do with it for the best results. Although I would recommend soil testing be done in the fall so that if any amendments are needed they can be put in over the winter, it can be done at any time of the year. Just be consistent and do it at the same time each year.

When you are designing your garden you should be aware of the light conditions throughout the day. Some plants such as hydrangeas, azaleas, and hostas have a very hard time with the hot afternoon sun but do fine in the morning sunlight. Be sure to plan for shady and semi-shady areas. Many plants and shrubs thrive in the shade and truly enhance the beauty of your garden. Some flowering plants would include impatiens, columbine, spiderwort, and torenia. Remember, not everything in the garden needs to bloom. You can do some amazing things with non-flowering plants such as hostas, coleus, trillium, ferns, shrubs, vines and ground covers. Many non-flowering plants have interestingly shaped and colored or variegated leaves. These types of plants can bring beauty and depth to shady areas. An interior designer would say they can make it "pop." The shady area of your garden also provides the opportunity to get really creative with benches, fountains, statues, etc.

Whether you are putting in seeds or plants, check the expected height and light requirements. Another thing you want to check is the pH requirement. Most ornamental plants require slightly to strongly acidic soil. (Remember, if the soil is too alkaline you can add sulfur or aluminum sulfate to increase the acidity.) Soil that is too acidic or too alkaline for a particular plant will prevent it from thriving and reaching its full potential.

January is a good time for selecting and planting bare root ornamental and fruit trees. One of my favorites for winter beauty is the Paperbark Maple. It has a flaky orange-brown bark that is very appealing to the eye. Place a tree wrap around your new tree for the first two to three years to prevent splitting and peeling bark. This is called sunscald and is caused by fluctuating winter temperatures or intense winter sunlight – familiar weather conditions in this area. Put the wrap around the tree from November to April and remove it in the spring and summer so no "critters" can get under it and feed on the bark.

If you plan to do any raised bed gardening this can be a good time to build or refurbish those beds. We get a lot of relatively warm days in this area. This means no bugs, no humidity and it is chilly enough to stay comfortable while you're working – take advantage! You can also do some pruning as the weather permits. Prune deciduous trees and shrubs including fruiting trees and plants. Do not prune your roses until early spring.

Now you should be pretty well armed and ready to design your garden. Check out garden books and magazines for ideas. The Internet has volumes of information on plants and gardening. Join your local garden club and exchange ideas.

This is also a good time to care for your houseplants, too. Clean the foliage and repot as necessary. Inspect them carefully for "critters" such as aphids, spider mites and white flies and spray them with the appropriate insect killer.

One last reminder: Don't forget why you took up gardening in the first place. Above all else, enjoy yourself and have fun.

GEAR UP II Program To Focus On Math

The Maryland State Department of Education is partnering with the Maryland Higher Education Commission for the Maryland GEAR UP II: Focus on Mathematics program.

GEAR UP II (Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs) is being provided through a six-year, $10 million U.S. Department of Education grant. This funding comes out of a $300 million national program offering services to low-income, at-risk students in preparation for success in postsecondary education.

This program is designed to increase achievement in mathematics by addressing the needs of students, parents or guardians, and teachers who teach in high-poverty, low-performing schools. Maryland is one of five states focusing solely on mathematics for the second phase of the GEAR UP grant.

The three federal goals of this program include increasing student achievement in mathematics, increasing the rate of high school graduation and participation in postsecondary education, and increasing student and parent knowledge of postsecondary options and preparation.

Northern Garrett and Southern Garrett middle schools are two of 11 schools in the participating six school districts involved in this program during the 2006-2007 school year. Currently, there are 2,470 students participating in the program, which is designed to follow each student from 8th grade until graduation in 2011.

NRP Charge Man With Failure To Report Deer Kill

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) charged a Kitzmiller man with exceeding the daily bag limit of antlered deer and two counts of failure to report deer kill on Friday, Jan. 5, at 9 p.m., according to an NRP spokesperson.

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force called NRP for assistance after locating deer parts while executing a search and seizure warrant at the Main Street residence of Jerry Lee Michaels, 35.

The head and hide of a 10-point buck was located in a freezer along with a large quantity of deer antlers. Michaels allegedly killed the 10-point buck and a doe, and checked the deer in on a female friend's hunting license. NRP seized as evidence a 10- and 4-point buck. Michaels is scheduled for a March 29 trial in Garrett County District Court.

Woman Arrested For DUI After Traffic Stop

The Oakland Police arrested and charged Sandra Dee Boggs, 45, with allegedly driving while under the influence of alcohol (DUI), DUI per se, and driving while impaired after a traffic stop on Route 219 near Mt. Nebo Road Wednesday at 11:40 p.m., according to a police report.

A motorist called the Oakland Police after observing the vehicle traveling on the wrong side of the roadway. Boggs was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center and later released. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted at the scene of the arrest.

Swanton Man Arrested After Traffic Stop

A Swanton man was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia after a traffic stop Sunday at approximately 2:10 a.m., according to the Oakland Police.

The police observed a vehicle traveling at a high rate of speed on High Street in Oakland and stopped the car on Oakland Drive.

As an officer approached the vehicle, he detected an odor of marijuana. Andrew Prins, 20, the driver, gave the officer permission to search the vehicle, and the officers found and seized an unspecified amount of marijuana and paraphernalia. Prins was arrested and taken to the detention center for a bond hearing.

Abandoned Car Leads To DUI, DWI Arrest

A Grantsville man was arrested by the Oakland Police after he returned to his disabled vehicle and admitted to driving while under the influence of alcohol (DUI) Friday at 2:45 a.m., according to a police report.

The police found a broken down, abandoned vehicle on Route 39 near the Lighthouse, partially blocking the roadway. The police arranged for the vehicle to be towed and remained with the car until the tow truck arrived.

As the vehicle was about to be hauled away, the driver, David Allan Diehl, 46, returned and admitted to drinking and driving.

Diehl was arrested for DUI, driving while impaired by alcohol, and failure to place an adequate warning device for a disabled vehicle and then taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

with a bid of $929,680. The payment will cover the firm's architectural and engineering services, inspections, reimbursement expenses, and public meeting attendance. The project will be funded in part with a $518,000 state grant, which requires a local match, according to county officials.

Formal contract terms and conditions were being formalized as of Jan. 1, according to Mullich. The detention center will be located at the current site of the county roads department along Rt. 219 in Oakland. Prior to construction of the new facility, the roads department will relocate to the proposed Public Works Complex near Mtn. Lake Park.

Public Works Complex

General Services began determining the requirements for its maintenance segment of the Public Works Complex.

Public Utilities staff also began looking at their requirements for office space, warehouse, maintenance, and storage at the site, and the roads department is preparing documents for the design/construction of its new building.

Community Action also reviewed the final drawings for its proposed transit service facility at the complex.

Construction of pad sites and associated infrastructure at the complex is in winter shutdown, but is expected to resume when weather permits.

Airport Expansion

Phase II of the Garrett County Airport runway expansion project is also in winter shutdown. The last day of work was Nov. 17, Mullich said.

The plans and specifications for the new airport T-hangars were reviewed by the fire marshal in November, and his comments were received in December.

The Airport Advisory Committee met last Thursday to discuss the hangars and to begin the bidding process for the structures, which will be partially funded by a Maryland Aviation Administration grant, Mullich noted.

Landfill

Landfill personnel visited a recycling center in December similar in size to the one proposed for Garrett County.

Improvements are being made to some refuse collection sites. Attendant buildings are being constructed, and water and sewer requirements are being reviewed.

January is Thyroid Awareness Month. The thyroid gland in your neck produces thyroid hormone that controls virtually every cell, tissue, and organ in the body. If your thyroid gland isn't working properly, neither will you. Thyroid disorders are more common among women and tend to run in families. A TSH blood test is the most effective check for a thyroid condition. See a doctor if you think you may be at risk.

MARY ANN WEEKS

Mary Ann Weeks, 75, Mtn. Lake Park, passed away Wednesday, Jan. 17, 2007, at her residence.

Born Nov. 8, 1931, in Gettysburg, Pa., she was a daughter of John Merle Cook and Mary Rohrbaugh. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Graham Weeks Jr.

Surviving are her daughter, Sharon L. Payton, Martinsburg, W.Va.; two sons, Merle Montgomery Weeks, Mtn. Lake Park, and Michael Eugene Weeks of Richmond, Va.; a grandson; and half sister, Constance Cook McCleaf, Littlestown, Pa.

Mary Ann graduated from Hagerstown Medical Secretarial School, worked at Martinsburg's Veterans Hospital, and met Graham while he was receiving care and rehabilitation for polio, which he contracted while in the Navy. As a medical secretary, she was trained in all forms of nursing care, including: medicine administration, venapuncture, lab work and X-ray technologies. She and Graham fell in love, were married, and soon after his rehabilitation moved to Oakland. She partnered with Graham to transform the Pick Wick Inn on Alder Street in Oakland into Garrett County's second nursing care facility.

Mary Ann, Graham, and their oldest son, Michael, lived at the nursing home for a couple years before they moved to Mtn. Lake Park.

She also worked for a while at Garrett Memorial Hospital. After giving birth to their second child, Sharon, she became a homemaker, assisting Graham as needed over the years while raising their three children. Years later, they merged with Graham's mother, Bessie F. Cuppett, to create Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home. Graham's brother, Robert Weeks, joined even later forming Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home Inc.

Mary Ann was member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. At her request, a small service for the immediate family was conducted at Memorial Gardens Chapel, with Rev. Chip Lee officiating. Burdock-Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, is in charge of arrangements.

The family has requested that monetary expressions of sympathy or life memorials be directed to St. Matthew's Episcopal Church and Garrett County Hospice.

The family wishes to express their gratitude to all friends who meant so much to their mom, and those who were supportive, loving and caring throughout the past sixteen months. Also, they want to thank the special care givers who helped them with their mother's transition "home". These care givers consisted of Hospice staff and volunteers, Tender Loving Care staff, Mary Babb Randolph (W.Va.) Cancer Center staff, and Garrett Memorial Hospital staff. A special thanks to Rev. Chip Lee for his spiritual guidance and loving care provided through in-home ministry.

Message from the President's Desk — Garrett College

A TEST OF RESOLUTION

January is the month of resolutions. In the short time I've been at Garrett College I have seen much evidence that we are trying to provide for the educational needs of the county; our faculty and staff work hard to provide the best information possible to students and their families; we try to look at the best possible options for people working to gain an education; and we work to accommodate the needs and interests of as many people as possible. Yet, we do tend to consistently overlook one constituency: home schoolers.

My resolution is to be more "user friendly," really, more available, to those being home schooled. The public school system has a great many responsibilities and is not always in a position to provide for the needs of home schoolers. Much of the feedback and information available to students in the public schools, such as class standing and national and state-wide comparisons, is not as readily available to those being home schooled. Feedback regarding progress and readiness for college work is more available in larger-group settings where many students are able to compare work. The information provided by these indicators is valuable in determining how ready a student is for college work.

In an effort to make good on the resolution of being more available to home-schooled students, the college invites home schoolers who see themselves as high school juniors or seniors to come to the college and take the college-level placement indicators. We have set aside time on Friday, Feb. 9, and Friday, Feb. 23, at 9 a.m. for home-schooled students who desire to take these placement indicators. Please call Connie Meyers of the Garrett College Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044 for more information.

What do we hope to accomplish by this resolution? First, we believe that it is important for those not a part of the formal public school system to see where they are. Those who see themselves as juniors can get a much better idea of where they are in terms of being prepared for college. Knowing where you are can lead to much better planning for that final year of high school studies. For those who see themselves as seniors this is the time to see where you are in terms of college readiness. There may be some time to remedy any deficiencies before the fall.

The placement indicator at Garrett College is the same placement instrument that many other colleges and universities use to place first-year students. Results from this test can be applicable to any number of colleges, as well as be a valuable guide as to what to concentrate on for the remainder of this year. For those studying next year at the high school level, the results can provide guidance as to what to concentrate on in the future.

Second, it is our purpose to serve the educational needs of the county, and that means everyone in the county. Following through on this resolution is one way to serve more county students.

In addition to providing the test, we hope to contact more home schoolers regarding financial aid possibilities and opportunities both for Garrett College and for other institutions. The college hosts multiple financial aid workshops during the spring, and we want to notify as many home schoolers as possible so that they, too, may be as well prepared for the difficult financial aid process as their counterparts in more traditional settings. There will be a College Goal workshop held at the college on Thursday, Feb. 1, from 6 to 8 p.m. in Room 207. Those interested will also have the opportunity to fill out the infamous FAFSA form in the college computer lab with assistance from college financial aid staff. A special Commissioners' Scholarship Program financial workshop is currently planned for Tuesday, March 13, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the college as well.

For those students in the public school system, we encourage you to take these indicators as well. This opportunity has always been available to you, and we hope you will continue to utilize this opportunity. You could place into a college-level course while still in high school and get a jump on college work.

Come in, and see what the indicators say; it really isn't that bad. You can make your resolution after seeing where you are. We've made our resolution; now put us to the test.

Garrett College To Offer International Movie Nights Series This Semester

The World View International Club of Garrett College will host another International Movie Nights series this semester, beginning Thursday, Feb. 15. The Movie Nights series will be offered as a class through Continuing Education of Garrett College, and will be held in the college's auditorium.

The series will begin with the film Tsotsi, a 2005 Academy Award winning drama from South Africa that traces six days in the lonely, violent life of Tsotsi (meaning "thug"), a ruthless, young gang leader. The movie will be introduced by South African student Unathi Mahlati.

The second movie, Marsal, from Croatia, will be shown on Thursday, Feb. 22. Marsal is a comedy about an Adriatic Island off the Croatian coast, and the islanders who receive reports of strange phenomena that frighten the local population and keep people asking: Is Josip Broz Tito alive or is he a ghost living on the island, and are his ideas still impacting the lives of people in Croatia? Hrvoje Muhek from Croatia will introduce this movie.

The Rocket, a Canadian film, will be shown Thursday, March 1. The movie is based on a true story about a boy named Maurice who has a passion for hockey, and sees the sport as his way to follow his dreams. Canadian student Kevin Brunet will introduce the film.

The fourth, and last movie, from Bosnia and Herzegovina will be shown on Thursday, March 8.

Grbavica or Esma's Secret (English title) is a movie about postwar life in Sarajevo. The movie illustrates the suffering of a Bosnian Muslim woman who becomes pregnant after being raped by a Serb soldier. Zumra Balihodzic, a student from Bosnia and Herzegovina, will introduce the movie.

The class will offer people an opportunity to get to know some of Garrett's international students, and to understand their background and culture.

The International Movie Nights series is a non-credit class, and the price of movies is included in the class fee. There is no charge for Garrett College students. The cost of the class will be $15 for Garrett County residents, $16 for non-county residents, and $17 for out-of-state residents. Maryland seniors will be charged $5.

URBAN COWBOY: THE MUSICAL will be presented at the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre at Frostburg State University in three performances, Friday, Jan. 26, and Saturday, Jan. 27, with the shows scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday and 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturday. Presented as part of the Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series and sponsored by Best Western — The Braddock, Urban Cowboy: the Musical is based on the 1980 hit movie starring John Travolta and Debra Winger. "Written by the original author and screenwriter, Aaron Latham, the show tells the story of Bud, a new breed of cowboy who's turning heads and looking for love in the biggest honky-tonk in the world," a spokesperson said. "His whirlwind romance and marriage to Sissy are played out against a gritty landscape of oilfields, trailer parks, and a sawdust-covered dance floor where nights come alive with brawls, babes, and a foot-stomping band." The score features a wide range of country-western hits, including songs from the original film such as "Lookin' for Love In All the Wrong Places," "Could I Have This Dance?" and "The Devil Went Down to Georgia." Modern songs by contemporary artists such as Clint Black, Toby Keith, and Brooks and Dunn, as well as original compositions, complete the musical line-up. Urban Cowboy: The Musical is produced by Windwood Productions. To purchase tickets or obtain more information, persons may call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

Youth Art Show Being Presented By Civic Club

A youth art exhibit sponsored by the GFWC (General Federation of Women's Clubs) Civic Club of Oakland is currently on display at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council, located along Alder Street in Oakland. The exhibit features the creative works of Garrett County public school students attending grades 6 through 12.

Coordinated by Helen Earles and Dorothy Cathell, the Youth Art Exhibit is presented as an annual project of the Civic Club to recognize the accomplishments of talented young artists in the community, according to Steve Schlosnagle, executive director of the arts council. First, second, and third place ribbons with cash awards and honorable mention certificates in three classes of exhibit competition are being awarded.

The Garrett County Arts Council will host an informal public reception in honor of participating student artists and prize winners at the Gallery on Saturday, Jan. 27, from 1 to 3 p.m. The reception is open to the public.

The works of prize recipients will represent Garrett County at a special art competition sponsored by the western district conference of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs in LaVale on Feb. 24. Prize winners at the district level will then advance to state competition at the annual convention of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs at the BWI Marriott Hotel near Baltimore on April 28.

THE AWAKENING SHEPHERD
by Glen Curtis Dunham

Thursday you will die

They assume these chilling words
These casually spoken words of terror
Are merely words about the alfalfa
I drop into their hayrack
They know the voice, my voice
All their lives that voice meant food
And water and safety and hoof care
So they never learned the words

I am the god of their world
Some of them I pulled from the womb
I gave a roof, clean straw, and heat
Penicillin and oats to their mothers
I removed testicles and tails
I built the fences, boundaries that protect
And I brought the dog to chase coyotes away

Yesterday I called the kill guy
Thursday is good we agreed
As their god I felt obliged to tell them
Humbled, awed, apologetic for my power
But they just buried their noses
In happy alfalfa oblivion

Later, at my supper of gyro
Made from fine herbs and their uncles
Snug in shepherd's cabin despite wailing duststorm
I wonder if my God has spoken in the wind
If I hear his voice with no understanding
If I foolishly indulge in pleasures
And what are his plans
On Thursday
For me

Adventures in Darkness
by Tom Sullivan
c. 2007, Nelson Books, $24.95, 240 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

As you get older and the days begin to move at the speed of light, it's natural to long for the endless days of your summertime childhood.

Remember lying on the ground watching ants? Making forts and pretending you were a spy? Remember rainy afternoons spent playing Monopoly or Mystery Date on the porch with your cousin or best friend?

Now imagine not being able to see the ants or the fort or the game. Imagine, in fact, not being able to see anything at all. In the new book Adventures in Darkness, author Tom Sullivan remembers with fondness the summer of his 11th year.

When Tom Sullivan was born prematurely in 1947, he was given a high amount of oxygen which saved his life but destroyed his sight. Despite doctors' recommendations, Sullivan's parents – his mother Marie; and his father Tom, a boisterous, bar-owning Boston Irishman with a love for alcohol, gambling, and baseball – kept their son at home until Tommy was old enough for kindergarten.

At age 5, his parents enrolled him at the Perkins School for the Blind and while Sullivan says he knows now that his Perkins "experience" wasn't so bad, he longed to know the world beyond the fence around the school's compound. After several incidences of mischief – including a Tom-Sawyer-like boat trip into the Boston Harbor – Sullivan was expelled from Perkins.

It was the start of a magical, normal summer.

Sullivan says that the first thing his father did, much to Marie Sullivan's chagrin, was to take young Tommy to see the Red Sox on opening day. While Sullivan sometimes admits that he feared his Da, he knew that his father understood the need for a childhood filled with friends, adventure, and all the things that sighted children enjoyed.

Over the summer of his 11th year, Tommy Sullivan rode a horse and a bike, both for the first time. He found a best buddy who, 50 years later, is still his friend. Sullivan joined Little League and he learned to defend himself against bullies. He began to appreciate his sister, his mother, and his father who made all the adventures possible. And during this time, Tom Sullivan's parents learned that their sightless son could see a bright future.

Do you long for a time a time when TV programs were black-and-white and skies seemed bluer? Then you'll want to read this book. Adventures in Darkness is part sweetly-told memoir and part love story for a father who desperately wanted to give his son a normal life during a time when institutionalization was generally recommended for children with handicaps. Although author Tom Sullivan's digressions might befuddle you now and then, his child-like boyhood awe and affection for his Da makes for a gentle story that I think you'll enjoy.

If you always wished you could re-visit a more innocent time or if you're in the mood for a charming bit of nostalgia, pick up this book. Adventures in Darkness is a memoir you should definitely see yourself reading.

Judy Center Offers Financial Literacy Series

The second of three Money Smart Jump Start financial literacy series began Monday, Jan. 15, at the Overlook Judy Center, Oakland.

This series is sponsored through a "Strengthen Rural Families" grant received by Garrett County Community Action. It is the result of an initiative of the Rural Maryland Council, with funding from Annie E. Casey Foundation. The overall goal of the project is family economic success through asset development for families.

Each series consists of five, 2 1/2 hour workshops to help families develop financial skills and develop positive banking relationships. The workshops are based on the "Money Smart" curriculum designed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

For completion of the workshop series, eligible Judy Center families are awarded a $200 bonus that they use to open Individual Development Accounts (IDA). Families can continue to invest in the accounts, and Community Action will match every $2 for every $1, up to $2,000 per family.

Nine participants from seven families completed the first workshop series. Another workshop series is scheduled to begin in March.

"Families may still sign up for the current series and make up missed workshops in March," noted an angency spokesperson. "Judy Center's goal is to see families complete all five workshops and receive the $200 bonus. This would certainly give them a 'jump start' toward building assets and increasing their wealth."

In defeating Northern Virginia Community College and Montgomery Rockville last week, the Garrett College women's basketball team recorded its fourth and fifth straight wins since returning from the holiday break, and is now 11-2 overall and 7-1 in the Maryland JUCO conference.

The Lakers, playing without its dynamic duo Flodysha Peterson and Tegra Hillman, had four players score in double figures to defeat Northern Virginia Community College 65-43 Saturday afternoon.

Mindy Sharp scored 18 points, Brittney Jackson added 16, Shekeya Mervin had 11, and Chelsea Woolfolk pumped in 10 to help Garrett improve its record to 10-2.

Sharp, Mervin, and Shante Brickhouse grabbed nine rebounds apiece, and Yolanda Anthony dished out 12 assists and came up with four steals.

Northern Virginia was led by Sara Price, who hit six three-pointers, and scored a game-high 28 points. Garrett led at halftime 28-22.

In Monday's action, the Lakers celebrated the return of Peterson and Hillman by scoring a season-high 112 points to Montgomery Rockville's 48.

However, it was Mervin of Garrett who scored a team-high 25 points, while Peterson pumped in 20, blocked 11 6shots, dished out seven assists, and had five steals. Woolfolk, like Peterson, put up impressive numbers, scoring 24 points and grabbing 11 rebounds, and Sharp followed with 16 points and nine rebounds. Brickhouse put up 12 points, and Hillman had six-points, nine assists, and five steals. Anthony contributed six points and nine assists.

S. Waters hit a game-high 27 points for Montgomery, including three three-pointers. Garrett led Montgomery Rockville 59-32 at the half, and outscored them 53-16 in the second half to close out the win.

Lakers Fall To Chesapeake In Final Seconds, Then Lose In OT To Trojans

The Garrett College men's basketball team suffered two recent defeats, losing by two points to Chesapeake on Friday and three points in overtime to Allegany College of Maryland on Wednesday night.

Two costly turnovers late in the fourth quarter allowed Chesapeake to overcome a six-point deficit and slip by Garrett College by a score of 74-72 in a Maryland JUCO men's basketball game Friday evening.

Garrett had a six-point lead going into the final 1:25 of the game, but watched it slip away as Chesapeake took advantage of two late turnovers to cut the lead and help tie the score at 72-72. With the score tied, Jimmy Mosser hit the front end of a one-and-one, and when he missed the second, the Skipjacks came up with the rebound, forcing Garrett to foul in order to stop the clock. Devon Heath then made one of his free throws to give Chesapeake a 74-72 lead with 3.7 seconds left. Garrett inbounded the ball, but a subsequent pass was batted out of bounds, and with four-tenths of a second to go, the Lakers were not able to get off a last second shot. Garrett dropped to 10-4 overall and 4-3 in the conference.

Jerome Jack scored a game-high 27 points for Garrett, hitting 12 field goals and going three-for-three from the line. Glen Izebiggie added nine, and Dale Taylor and Antonio Levere had eight apiece.

In Wednesday's action, Garrett was not able to stave off a late rally and fell to Allegany College of Maryland in overtime 73-72 in a key Region XX Division I Maryland JUCO conference matchup Wednesday night in Accident.

The Lakers blew an opportunity to win the game in regulation when Daniel Conway went to the foul line with 4.8 seconds left in the game to shoot for two. He hit one and missed one to tie the game at 61-61.

But Conway came back to hit two early buckets in overtime to give Garrett a 66-64 lead. The lead shifted back to Allegany when Marvin Bolden hit a three-pointer with three minutes remaining in the game. A foul shot by Harley Brooks and a lay-up by Bolden put the Trojans ahead 70-66 with 1:40 remaining.

Allegany missed an opportunity to increase its lead after a Bolden steal, but turned the ball over twice to Garrett. The Lakers used the turnovers to their advantage as Conway hit two foul shots and Antonio Levere made a lay-up to tie the score at 70 with 45 seconds left to play. Calvin Lee, who scored a game-high 29 points for Allégany, hit one foul shot with 30.9 seconds on the clock, and the Trojans came up with another big steal only to give the ball back to Garrett with 17.5 seconds left.

Conway missed a short driving lay-up and B.J. Williams hit two foul shots to give Allegany a 73-70 lead with 11 seconds on the clock. Garrett's Bruce Hall missed a three-pointer for the tie, and Williams grabbed the rebound to end the game.

The Lakers (10-5 overall, 4-4 in the conference) turned the ball over 22 times and shot poorly from the foul line, converting only 13 of 30.

In Monday's action, Southern held off a late surge to defeat Beall 39-36 in a WMIL game at home.

Shayna Sweitzer scored 17 points and Brittany Boyce put up 10 points and grabbed eight rebounds for the Rams, who took a 9-6 first-quarter lead, a 20-10 halftime lead, and a 30-16 lead going into the fourth quarter. However, Beall rallied, but fell short by three points at the end of the game.

Amanda Linn scored 13 points and Kierstin Steveson added eight for the Mountaineers, who fell to 7-6 overall and 4-2 in the WMIL.

Abby Wildesen scored nine points to lead the 8-0 Rams' junior varsity basketball team to a win over Bishop Walsh by a score of 27-20. Tristan Stevens scored seven points for Beall.

In Wednesday night's game, Sarah Stephens scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the Rams to a hard-fought 35-34 win over a scrappy Bishop Walsh team.

Kerry Conroy was second in scoring for the Rams with eight points. Chardae Harris led BW with 11 points; Tricia Geiger hit 10 points, and Kelly Smith hauled down a game-high 18 rebounds.

The game was a defensive battle from the beginning as both teams utilized fierce one-to-one defensive schemes. Southern took a 4-3 lead into the second quarter, and led at halftime 11-8.

The Rams scored 12 points in the third period, and led going into the fourth quarter 23-16. But Bishop Walsh went on an 18-12 fourth-quarter run, and almost overtook Southern in the final five seconds of the game, when Chardae Harris hit a three-pointer to make the score 35-34. However, the Rams held on and ran out the clock to seal the win.

Southern will play at Fort Hill this Monday at 7:30 p.m. and Northern this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Acne: OTC Drugs Often Effective

Acne is a common condition of the skin that is characterized by pimples and clogged pores. This condition can affect people at any age. Women may experience acne as a result of hormonal changes. When the hair follicles of the skin are blocked by oil and dead skin cells, acne may result. Sebaceous glands are connected to hair follicles and function to secrete an oily substance known as sebum. When the body produces an excessive amount of sebum along with dead skin cells, the hair follicle may become clogged, resulting in a whitehead or a blackhead. An increase in sebum production may be due to hormones, bacteria, or genetics.

Acne may be treated by using over-the-counter (OTC) products or prescription drugs. Typically, OTCs contain benzoyl peroxide, salicylic acid, or resorcinol. If over-the-counter products do not sufficiently clear up acne, prescription medications may be used. Topical treatments available by prescription include adalapene (Differin) and tretinoin (Retin-A). Oral antibiotics may be prescribed for moderate to severe acne to help reduce bacteria and inflammation. Isotretinoin (Accutame) may be necessary in case of deep cystic acne that does not resolve with other treatments. Accutane should not be taken by women who are pregnant or may become pregnant during treatment.

Husky Grapplers Go To 8-0 With Easy Win Over Raiders

The wrestling team of Northern High School upped its perfect regular-season match record to 8-0 with a 69-12 thrashing of visiting Meyersdale Tuesday evening, setting the stage for a major county clash Monday evening at the Cove when the Huskies will host county rival and also undefeated Southern.

The Huskies also competed last night against both Keyser and Preston in Kingwood, but no results of that tri-match were received by presstime today.

In Tuesday's win over Meyersdale, the Huskies recorded eight individual victories via pins. They were gained by Josh Duckworth in the 112-pound division, Jason Warnick at 119 pounds, Travis Glover at 130, Adam Moranduzzo at 135, Kory Kamp at 140, Dustin Stough in the 145-pound bout, Andrew Ganoe at 152 pounds, and Jason Doerr at 189 pounds.

Winning on points was Northern's Brandon Opel in the 171-pound class, while forfeits were awarded to Andrew Reynolds (103), Randy Wilhelm (125), and Brock Glotfelty (215).

Meyersdale had but two victors, Kyle Merkle (160) and Jeremy Fadley (285), both via pinfalls.

Monday's big match with Southern will get under way at 6 p.m. It will be a tri-match, with the Huskies also hosting Westmar.

The Southern Rams will be on the mats of the Beall Mountaineers this evening in Frostburg, and will host Westmar next Thursday evening.

Southern Eighth Graders Win Season Openers

The Southern Rams eighth grade boys' basketball team won its first two games of the season by defeating the Westmar Wildcats last week on the road and Braddock in Oakland on Sunday.

In the first game, the Southern Rams shut down Westmar's offense after falling behind in the first quarter, and outscored the Wildcats in the second, third, and fourth quarters 30-8 to win their opening game of the season by a score of 37-19.

The Rams trailed 9-7 at the end of the first quarter, and then went on a 12-2 tear to take a 19-11 halftime lead. In the second half, the Rams' defense allowed Westmar to score only eight points, while Southern's offense put up 18.

Joey Kisselovich led the Rams with 13 points, and Bryon Knox added eight.

In Sunday's action, the Rams avenged last year's 64-19 loss to Braddock by defeating them 54-31 in Oakland for their second win of the year.

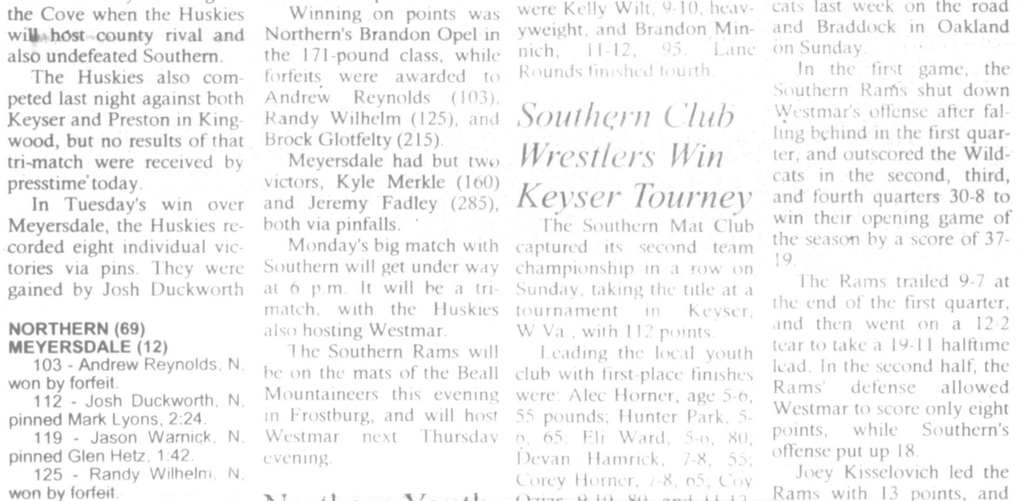
"We didn't know what to expect after last year's Braddock team came in and blew us out 64-19," said Southern coach James Burns. "We knew it would not be the same kids ... we knew they would be ready to play because they are well coached."

The Rams jumped to an early 9-7 first-quarter lead, and made a 7-2 second quarter run to go up 16-9 at halftime. "We told our kids to keep pounding the boards because they couldn't stop our inside game," coach Burns said.

The team members must have listened because they did just that in the second half, outscoring Braddock 27-18 to seal the win.

For the Rams, Calvin Hilliard and Kisselovich scored 16 points apiece, and Zack Knotts and Sean Rollman each scored eight points.

The Rams will host Bishop Walsh on Saturday at Southern High School at 2 p.m. The seventh grade boys and eighth grade girls will play afterwards.



SMC WRESTLERS WIN AGAIN — The Southern Mat Club opened its season recently and has captured two consecutive first-place team trophies in a pair of multi-team tournaments. The youngsters have also been bringing home numerous individual trophies for either winning or finishing among the top in their respective age and weight divisions. Pictured from left above, kneeling, are: Jimmy Schwab, Zachary Beckman, Eli Ward, and Jeremy Ashby. In the next row are: Alec Horn, Hunter Park, Erik Fike, Devon Jobe, Brandon Lucas, Josh King, Devan Hamrick, Jacob Sweitzer, Zachary Burgess, and Nathan Sweitzer. In the next row are: Colton Peck, Gunner Ward, Nicholas Beckman, Robbie Browning, Cory Horner, Garrett Beachy, Austin Sines, Coy Ozias, Gavin Murphy, Tanner Massey, Bradley Clary, Devon Tracey, Brandon Uphold, and Dalton Cooper. 2004 when the first annexation resolution was adopted, and even though the court of appeals ruled against the town, the property owners to this day are still being billed in-town rates.

Haynes confirmed that the rates for the property owners will now revert to out-of-town levels, which are considerably higher than the in-town rates. He added that the town is also considering whether to make the bills retroactive for part or all of the period since they were changed to in-town rates in 2004.

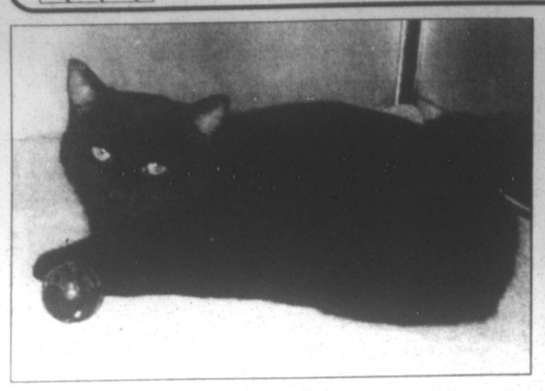
The primary reason cited as to why persons voted against the annexation was the fact that the owners would then have to pay town taxes, which they allege would exceed the difference that they will have to pay for out-of-town sewer rates.

According to Haynes, when the town recently performed a detailed accounting in conjunction with issuing property tax refunds to property owners as a result of the first annexation being held void, they found that, as a whole, the tax rebates which the property owners received were "dwarfed" by the out-of-town sewer rates for which they would have been responsible during this period. Haynes added that the mayor and council fully believe that annexation of this area is good for both the town and the property owners, and that the benefits will only increase over time.

Opponents of the annexation have suggested that if either pro-annexation residents or the town begin a new annexation attempt, they will file an injunction. Haynes says that the town's attorney, William Rudd, has advised the mayor and town council that Maryland law provides for no waiting period for the introduction of a new annexation resolution after a prior attempt at annexation has failed, and that there is neither basis nor precedent for a Maryland court issuing such an injunction.

Haynes indicated that, in light of the fact that the first annexation resolution had passed by an overwhelming margin of 30 to 1; that the second resolution had failed by a tie, or by a single vote; and with many registered voters failing to vote, the mayor and town council believe that the Jan. 6 vote was by no means a clear mandate that the residents of the area have rejected annexation. He added that if the required number of voters were to file a new petition requesting annexation, the town would begin the process again.

Adorable Adoptables



AVAILABLE FOR ADOPTION this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter are a young female black cat that was brought in as a stray and male German shepherd mix that was picked up in Deer Park. The canine was not wearing a collar or tags and was reported to have been running loose on many occasions. The older beagle mentioned in last week's paper was reclaimed, a Humane Society spokesperson was happy to report. "Because of the heavy numbers of animals in the last few months, the shelter is in need of blankets and newspaper donations," said the spokesperson. "Additionally, there is still some hay available from the shelter for your outside pet houses. Please don't let your pets suffer in the cold weather. They may be animals, but they are living things and cold is cold." For more information, persons may call 301-334-3553.

Money Smart Jump Start Series Now Under Way

The second of three Money Smart Jump Start financial literacy series began on Jan. 15 at the Overlook Judy Center. The series is sponsored through a "Strengthen Rural Families" grant received by Garrett County Community Action, and is the result of an initiative of the Rural Maryland Council with funding from the Annie E. Casey Foundation.

The overall goal of the project is family economic success through asset development for families, a spokesperson said.

Each series consists of five two and one-half hour workshops to help families develop financial skills and develop positive banking relationships. The workshops are based on the "Money Smart" curriculum designed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

A financial incentive component insures the success of the project, the spokesperson said. For completion of the workshop series, eligible Judy Center families are awarded a $200 bonus that they use to open IDA accounts. Families can continue to invest in the accounts and Community Action will match $2 for every $1, up to $2,000 per family.

Seven families (nine participants) completed the first workshop series.

Another workshop series will begin in March.

"Families may still sign up for the current series and make up missed workshops in March," the spokesperson said.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-4211, ext. 111.

Booming Wine Industry Puts Maryland Grapes In The Pink

by Scott Shewfelt
Capital News Service

The Maryland wine industry is budding and Americans are decanting, sniffing, and sipping more wine than ever before, according to the Congressional Wine Caucus' first nationwide economic study of wine and grape products.

The study released Wednesday – "The Impact of Wine, Grapes and Grape Products on the American Economy 2007" – concluded that the American wine and grape industry contributes $162 billion and 1.1 million jobs to the economy.

Maryland wineries have followed the industry growth trend recently, including a 19 percent increase in sales in 2006, which the director of the Maryland Wineries Association said, is above the national average.

"We'll have 32 wineries by the end of this year," said Kevin Atticks, of the wineries association. "Four years ago there were only 12."

"It's exciting to see more vines growing," said Carol Wilson, past-president of the MWA and owner of Elk Run Vineyards in Mt. Airy.

U.S. wine consumption per capita ranks 38th in the world, but the United States is one of the few global wine markets with increasing demand.

There are now wineries in all 50 states, although California dominates the others with 90 percent of America's wine production.

Maryland's industry is growing, but neighboring Pennsylvania and Virginia, each have roughly four times as many wineries.

The MWA is doing its own economic study expected in May, but Atticks estimates the industry contributes $50 million annually to the Maryland economy.

The Wine Caucus study will be distributed Congress-wide so representatives can see the importance of immigration reforms, global climate issues and other issues potentially harmful to America's wine industry, said co-chairman and co-founder Rep. Mike Thompson, D-Calif.

Those national issues are important to the Maryland wine industry, but both Wilson and Anthony Aellen, winemaker and president of Linganore Winecellars in Mt. Airy said the state's success hinges on promotional and land issues.

"It's a different agriculture than what's around here," Aellen said.

Grape farming is a highly capital- and labor-intensive activity, and getting farmers to change from their traditional crops is difficult, often meaning a break from family tradition, said Aellen.

Vineyards are expensive, and it takes upwards of six years before a product is ready for market, but the returns per acre are impressive, said Aellen.

Promotion is an issue, said Wilson, because it and distribution are limited by state laws. Virginia and Pennsylvania both have more favorable laws for promotion and distribution.

Tourism could be the key to increasing the number of grape growers in the state, Wilson said. Wine tourism in Maryland is up at least 50 percent from 2005. The more wineries in an area, she said, the greater chance the area becomes a tourist destination.

In Frederick County, both the county and state have helped fund a wine trail, or tour of local wineries, which is being held up as a model for the rest of Maryland's counties.

The Congressional Wine Caucus is a bipartisan, bicameral coalition with 182 members, including Sen. Barbara Mikulski who did not return phone calls for comment.

MSP Superintendent Says Electronic Tickets Could Increase Officer Safety

by Sharahn D. Boykin
Capital News Service

Police officers around the state may soon be wired.

If legislation being proposed to the Maryland General Assembly is passed, the state trooper writing your next ticket may be armed with a laptop computer and portable printer. Information will be entered into a software program and a paper copy of the ticket – an e-citation, if you will – will be printed on the spot.

"The less time we spend on the side of the road on a traffic stop with the violator, the better off we are," Col. Thomas E. Hutchins, the superintendent of state police told a Senate committee last Thursday.

Currently 12 states use electronic citations, and 10 states have pilot programs, according to a report by the Office of Justice Programs and the Department of Transportation.

In Maryland, officers are required to write a citation for each violation, which takes from five to 10 minutes, according to a proposal submitted by Judge Ben C. Clyburn, chief judge of the Maryland District Court. E-ticketing would al-low officers to save time by including multiple violations on one citation.

Often, Clyburn said, half the time an officer spends issuing a ticket is used trying to get the motorist to sign the citation. This can then lead to a dangerous argument or confrontation.

The State Highway Administration has spent $500,000 on the project, and the District Court provided $75,000.

Current law requires motorists to acknowledge receipt of a citation with a signature. It is not clear yet whether motorists will be required to sign a paper ticket, provide an electronic signature, or not sign anything at all.

Between January 2005 and June 2006, 65 state troopers were injured on the side of the road, Hutchins told senate committee members. The cost of the injuries alone totaled $165,000, he said.

The system would also reduce the amount of paper and time spent processing citations, Clyburn said, adding that currently, 28 court employees manually process the 1.3 million citations each year.

In addition to officers being able to issue faster, more legible tickets, the system would allow information on traffic violators to be uploaded to the court traffic system and eventually give violators the option of paying traffic fines online. It would also establish a system to quickly notify officers that they no longer have to appear in court.

"We will no longer have the pony express," Clyburn told Senate committee members, in describing the significance of the technological advance.

Accident Teacher Listed In Who's Who Edition

Maxine Miller, a teacher at Accident Elementary School, has been nominated by a former student for inclusion in the 10th edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers®. Miller was nominated for her role in shaping and inspiring the student's current achieve-ments, a spokesperson said.

Students were asked to nominate the one teacher from their entire academic experience who made a difference in their lives by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject, and challenging them to strive for excellence.

All of the 114,000 teachers honored in Who's Who Among America's Teachers® were nominated by former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students®, Who's Who Among American High School Students — Sports Edition®, or The National Dean's List®.

"There is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication," said Parke H. Davis, chairman, National Aca-demic Affairs. "In this pub-lication, we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students."

Unattended Truck Slides On Ice And Hits Brick Wall

A tractor trailer truck lost traction on the ice-covered parking lot of Keysers Ridge Truck Stop, and slid into a brick wall Tuesday at 9:43 p.m., according to the Maryland State Police.

The operator of the truck, William M. Tootle, Logan, Ohio, had reportedly stopped at the gas pumps, set his brakes, and refueled his rig. As he was walking to the truck stop to pay for the gas, his unattended truck, carrying a load of roofing shingles, allegedly lost traction on the ice-covered pavement and slide into a wall, causing moderate damage. No injuries were reported.

The MSP were assisted at the scene by the Grantsville Fire Department and the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. The truck trailer did not require towing from the scene.

KNITTING AWAY AT THE LIBRARY – Girls in the Knitting Away group at the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library are shown happily working on scarves, with volunteer instructor Edna Forsyth, GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, providing expertise. The group has been meeting regularly at the library since August of last year, and occasionally the members make a foray to a local yarn shop. "This is an interesting group because it attracts youth from around the county," said Forsyth. Seated, left to right, are Kayla Bittinger, Emily O'Neill, Tonya Sanders, and Katelyn Petersheim. Standing are Forsyth and Rachel Reichard. The knitting group, which is open to ages 8 to 14, will resume meeting on Thursday, Feb. 8, from 4 until 5 p.m. at the Oakland library; thereafter, it will meet the first and third Thursday of each month. Interested persons may call the library at 301-334-3996, ext. 115, to register. For information about all programs at the Ruth Enlow Library, one can visit online at relib.net.

90TH BIRTHDAY

Roy Fint of Aurora will be honored by his family in celebration of his 90th birthday. They ask everyone to join them on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 28, from 1 until 3 p.m. for a light lunch at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

The family asks that there be no gifts, but cards will be received with appreciation. Those who cannot attend may address his cards to P.O. Box 8, Aurora, WV 26705.

SENIORS MEET

Twenty-nine senior citizens from Union District gathered on Jan. 11 for their regular covered dish luncheon at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Vice president Shirley Parsons conducted the meeting and also presented devotions using readings "Winter" and "The New Year is Here" from Ideals and Daily Guidepost. Both president Janice Tackett and devotional leader Delores Stemple were unable to attend.

The Preston County senior nurse distributed "Five Wishes" and read them, and then presented materials on food and fitness and explained the differences in flu or cold symptoms.

Gary Wotring made it known that he is available to take the seniors on one-day bus tours. This information will be discussed at another meeting.

The Feb. 8 meeting will be a celebration time for both Valentine's and Presidents' days, and it is suggested that one may use red attire and also bring a special dish appropriate to the season and holiday. Ressie Conrad will be responsible for devotions. The meeting closed with the mentioning of those who are ill.

EGLON 4-H

Vice president Caitlin Roth presided at the Jan. 8 meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club. Trevor Spaid led the devotions about working together, and Wesley Spaid led the pledges. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Trevor Spaid reported on the birthday celebration for Cortland Acre patients on Dec. 28. Attending were Danielle and Jonathan Blamble, Debbie Collins, Nathan Cussins, Cody Hardesty, Trevor and Wesley Spaid, Chad Vandevender, Sydney Vandevender, and adults Jackie Blamble, Sue Corbin, Elaine Roth, Marsha Hardesty, and Teresa Vandevender. They had also made small gifts for the patients.

Although Feb. 17 is "4-H Day at WVU" for both men's and women's teams, the tickets are all sold and no one from the club will be attending. Health officer Caitlin Roth distributed a toothbrush to each member along with a WVU 4-H Club Health Planner to keep account of his/her dental health during the year. Each member must complete this record for the club's report.

All entries for either the poster or photo competition are to be given to leader Linda Lewis by Jan. 25. The name, age, address, birthday, club, and county are to be written on back of each exhibit.

February is the last month that members may add or drop a project. Those who have questions about projects may ask Linda Lewis or Elaine Roth for help. The club needs all projects to be completed to get credit at 100% completion.

Members are reminded to be sure to see what is required and that they will be able to take on that experience.

Caitlin Roth plans to attend Teen Leader Weekend at Jackson's Mill. Dance Camp is also at Jackson's Mill on March 9-11.

Wesley Spaid gave a talk, "A Guide to Raising Pigs," and a demonstration, "Parts of a Pig." A talk by Cody Hardesty was "Ten Tips on Hunter Safety." Trevor Spaid told of "The History of the Hampshire Pig," and demonstrated "How to Properly Clean a Gun." "West Virginia Forests" was the subject of a talk by Nathan Cussins.

The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 12. Remember, no school, no meeting.

Those attending the January meeting were Nathan Cussins, Cody Hardesty, Caitlin Roth, Jesse and Kaitlyn Schalker, and Trevor and Wesley Spaid, and the report has been prepared by Nathan Cussins in his position as club reporter.

AFTER-PROM

Parents are needed to direct this year's after-prom activity. The first meeting will occur on Thursday, Feb. 1, at 7 p.m. in Room 1171. Mrs. Lisa Bender, who has directed this event for the past 15 years, will no longer be organizing this activity, and she encourages interested parents to begin meeting to plan this important drug and alcohol free party. Parent attendance at these meetings would help to ensure that this tradition continues. The 16th annual after-prom party will be held the last weekend in April. All parents are encouraged to volunteer to make this event a success.

Is the American dream of homeownership becoming just a fairy tale for our kids? 77% of Marylanders fear that their children will never be able to afford to buy a home near them. Nearly 70% worry about keeping their homes in the face of higher interest rates and the explosive increase in home energy and maintenance costs. And 84% believe that rising costs are putting homeownership out of their reach. The Maryland Association of REALTORS® believes that anyone who wants to own a home should be able to buy one. That's why we're launching the League of Maryland Homeowners, a new initiative connecting our members, home buyers, public officials and others in a campaign to keep the dream of homeownership a legacy we can pass on to future generations.

Take action at leagueofmarylandhomeowners.org.

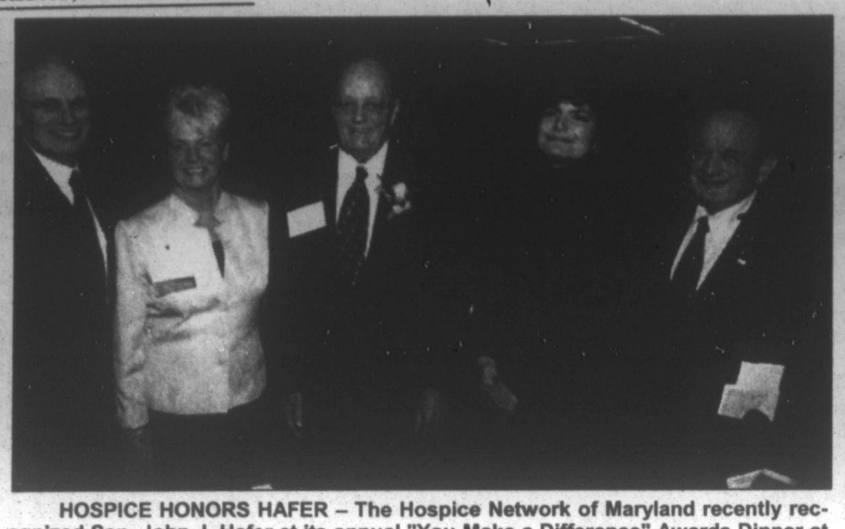
HOSPICE RECOGNIZES TEAGARDEN – The Hospice Network of Maryland recently presented Elizabeth "Sue" Teagarden with the "You Make a Difference" award during the organization's annual dinner in Baltimore. The award is given to individuals for their "extraordinary" commitment to Hospice patients. Teagarden is a registered nurse and joined the Hospice of Garrett County team in 1995. See story for details.



HOSPICE HONORS HAFER – The Hospice Network of Maryland recently recognized Sen. John J. Hafer at its annual "You Make a Difference" Awards Dinner at the BWI Airport Marriott in Baltimore. Hafer and Sen. Leonard Teitelbaum, who are both retired, were presented with the 2006 Hospice Champions award. Hafer retired at the end of this term after representing District 1 (Allegany, Garrett, and part of Washington counties) for 16 years. "Senator Hafer has a proven record of leadership and experience that has served the people of western Maryland and the state of Maryland," said Brenda Butscher, Hospice of Garrett County executive director. "He maintained an open-door policy in his district office, as well as in Annapolis. He always strived to limit the role of government in people's lives and to reduce regulations." Hafer served on many committees over the years, but his primary assignment for 16 years was the Finance Committee, she noted. "The full 16 years he supported Hospice," Butscher said. "Locally, he supported Hospice with memorials, donations, and fundraising events. In Annapolis, where every vote counts, his vote was always with Hospice. The Hospice Network of Maryland could count on him. He kept us informed on many issues. He knew one thing for sure, if a Senate bill had Hospice on it, we would be paying him a visit and many telephone calls. Pictured, left to right, are Teitelbaum, Butscher, Hafer, Mrs. Teitelbaum, and Erwin Abrams, president of Hospice Network of Maryland and CEO of Hospice of the Chesapeake.

Oakland Nurse Recognized By Hospice Network

Registered nurse Elizabeth "Sue" Teagarden recently received the "You Make a Difference" award during the Hospice Network of Maryland's annual awards dinner at the BWI Airport Marriot in Baltimore. This award is given to individuals by their local Hospice groups for their "extraordinary" commitment to patients throughout the year.

Teagarden, a resident of Oakland, joined the Hospice of Garrett County team in 1995.

"I had known Sue and her good reputation as a nurse," said Brenda Butscher, Hospice executive director. "She had retired, and I happened to see her one day while grocery shopping. I asked her if she would like to work part time for Hospice. She thought a while and said, 'I think I would like that.'"

Butscher said Teagarden is available to her patients 24 hours a day, seven days a week for whatever her patient needs.

"Sue is compassionate, caring, and a highly skilled professional," she added. "Her inner strength, commitment, and faith enable her to help her patients and their families through the most difficult time of their lives. She truly makes a difference in the lives of those who have been touched by her gentle hands.

Cheryl Scheffel, clinical services director for Hospice, has know Teagarden for six years and worked with her as a registered nurse in the field for four years and as her supervisor for two years.

"She is organized, efficient, and extremely competent," Scheffel said of Teagarden. Her skills are excellent. She has an excellent rapport with her colleagues, but most important is her devotion to Hospice and all that it entails. Nothing is more important to Sue than her clients and their families, and this is reflected in her compassionate care for them. It has been my privilege to work with Sue over the past six years, and I look forward to many more."

Amy Welch, office manager for Hospice, also praised Teagarden.

"When I think of Sue Teagarden one word comes to mind and that is extraordinary," Welch said. "She always goes beyond the call of duty. I have worked with Sue for 10 years, and she has always been pleasant to be around. She loves each one of her patients as if [he or she] were her own family. She is always available to them 24 hours a day, seven days a week, even if she is not on call. She travels through blizzards to get to her patients.

"Sue has given so much to this community," Welch said. "She is willing to help out anyone who needs her. She always has kind and caring words to say. I think that Sue is the best person to receive this award."

Jane Sealing, director of bereavement services, said this about Teagarden: "When Sue came to work for Hospice, she at once smiled and said, 'I am here to help the Hospice families.' She has been with us 11 years, and her quiet manner, her compassion, and care for her patients are always there. She is dedicated to her families, always ready to make the journey to their homes. Day, night, holidays, or in all kinds of Garrett County weather, Sue goes with a smile. I am honored to work beside her and call her friend."

Hospice of Garrett County serves patients and their families facing a life- limiting illness. For more information about the Hospice concept or its available services, persons may call 301-334-5151.

Daffodil Days Under Way In Garrett County

Spring is coming early to Garrett County this year through the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days program. This long-standing fundraising campaign celebrates the society's mission to eliminate cancer as a life-threatening disease by offering daffodils to donors in appreciation of their contributions.

"For a donation of $10, local residents will receive a bouquet of fresh-cut daffodils to support the fight against cancer and share hope for a future without this disease," explained Tenna Taylor, ACS Cumberland office.

The society recently appointed Sue Evans as chairperson of Garrett County's 2007 Daffodil Days campaign. She intends to exceed the $5,400 raised in Garrett County last year to help defeat cancer.

"I encourage everyone to help paint our community yellow with daffodils this spring to show our support of the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days and to help prevent cancer, save lives and diminish suffering from the disease," Evans said. "Everyone from school children to corporate CEOs has the power to make a difference for cancer patients and their families. By giving daffodils, we also have the power to give hope."

As the first flower of spring, the daffodil is the American Cancer Society's symbol of hope for a world where cancer is no longer a life-threatening disease. Evans will coordinate all activities regarding the ordering and delivery of daffodils in Garrett County. In addition to daffodil bouquets, potted mini daffodils are also available.

This year also marks the addition of Hugh R. Hope, a special Boyds™ Bear designed exclusively for the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days Bear and a Bunch™ that can be ordered for a donation of $25.

The last day to place an advanced order is Thursday, Feb. 22. Daffodils and Bear and a Bunch products will be delivered the week of March 12-18.

Dollars raised through the Daffodil Days campaign will help the American Cancer Society fund cancer research, provide up-to-date cancer information, and education, advocate for public health policies that benefit the community, and provide services that improve the quality of life for patients and their families.

American Cancer Society service programs available in Garrett County include Look Good Feel Better, Reach to Recovery, I Can Cope, and Road to Recovery. Also available are wigs, turbans, prevention and detection programs, community education, leadership council, and patient navigation.

For further information on services, persons may call Taylor at 301-722-2145.

For more information about Daffodil Days, to place an order, or to get involved with the program, individuals may also call the American Cancer Society at 301-722-2145 or tennat@cancer.org.

"As the first month of spring, March is also National Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month. Colorectal cancer can often be prevented through screening," Taylor said. "If you are 50 or older, get tested, and stop colon cancer before it starts."

For further information, persons may call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 anytime, day or night, or visit online at cancer.org.

Sheriff's Office Releases Data On 2006 Year

Garrett County Sheriff's Office handled a total of 19,967 calls for service during 2006 representing an approximate 7.5% increase over the 18,569 calls handled in 2005.

Statistics released this week by the sheriff's office showed that, during the same time, deputies served 3,330 civil papers, an increase of 14% over the last year. Deputies responded to 108 cases of domestic violence, only one more than in 2005; consistent with the national trend, domestic assaults declined by 16, from 49 to 33.

According to statistics, in 2006, deputies made 166 driving-while-intoxicated arrests, 40 more than last year. Uniformed deputies also handled 138 complaints involving controlled dangerous substances (CDS), a 14% increase over the 118 CDS cases in 2005. Personnel initiated these cases in addition to the 274 CDS cases handled by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

The sheriff's office also remained active and committed to drug resistance education in Garrett County schools through the Winners program in partnership with the Garrett County Board of Education.

Members of the sheriff's office assisted other agencies, including Oakland City Police and the Maryland State Police, on 372 occasions this year. Noted Sheriff Gary Berkebile, "All these numbers reflect the dedicated, cooperative work of the sheriff's office personnel. These deputies are a group of professionals who are committed to keeping Garrett County safe."

Hall, Griffin Asked To Lead Planning, Natural Resources

Governor-elect Martin O'Malley announced this week the nominations of Richard E. Hall as secretary for the Maryland Department of Planning, and John R. Griffin as secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

"Richard Hall and John Griffin are both experts in their fields, and they will be outstanding leaders of these mission critical agencies," said O'Malley. "As Maryland confronts the challenges of Smart Growth, military base realignment, preserving our open space, and improving the health of the Chesapeake Bay, Richard and John will be instrumental in helping our administration develop solutions and achieve measurable results."

A professional planner for 20 years, Hall is a 15-year veteran of the Maryland Department of Planning, serving currently as director of land use planning and analysis. As leader of the department's largest division of planners, Hall has experience in all facets of Smart Growth development, according to the governor's office.

Previously, Hall worked in the Harford County Department of Planning and Zoning, and as a planner in a number of towns in North Carolina.

A Maryland native from Salisbury, Hall resides in Baltimore City with his wife and children. He holds a B.S. degree in planning from East Carolina University and an M.R.P in planning from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is the president of the Maryland Chapter of the American Planning Association and is an affiliate faculty member at the University of Maryland's National Center for Smart Growth Research and Education. He is also a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners (AICP).

"I am grateful to Governor-elect O'Malley for the opportunity to serve the great state of Maryland and to work with the many stakeholders to move Smart Growth forward to enhance our communities and to protect our rural resources," said Hall.

John Griffin is currently an associate vice president for the Maryland/Virginia region at Buchart Horn Inc., a private engineering, architectural, and planning firm that provides consulting services. Griffin was general manager of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission for five years, and has 16 years of experience in the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, including five years as secretary and 11 years as deputy secretary. He is also co-chair of the O'Malley-Brown Transition Workgroup, focusing on the Maryland Department of the Environment and the Department of Natural Resources.

Griffin received a B.A. degree from Niagara University and an M.A. from Catholic University in Washington, D.C. He currently serves his community as vice president for the Harry R. Hughes Center for Agro-Ecology, as chair of Scenic Maryland, and as a board member of the Annapolis Community Foundation. He resides in Annapolis with his wife and five children.

"I am honored to have been asked by Governor-elect O'Malley to return to public service and to again lead an agency rich in tradition which touches the lives of our working families and helps preserve our quality of life," Griffin said.

In his capacity as DNR secretary, he will be responsible for overseeing 450,000 acres of public lands, 17,000 miles of waterways, and all of Maryland's forests, fisheries, wildlife, and natural heritage assets. The DNR has an operating budget of $359.3 million, and over 1,700 employees.

MSDE Says Survey Finds Many Youths Making Unsafe Choices

Maryland young people, much like their counterparts from across the nation, are involved in a significant amount of risky behavior, according to the Maryland State Department of Education.

The new student activity data is included in the 2005 Maryland Youth Risk Behavior Survey, part of the national Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS), published biannually by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The Maryland data, released by MSDE this week, finds that for the most part, the choices made by Maryland students do not differ significantly from high school students in the rest of the nation.

For example, 73 percent of Maryland students in grades 9-12 have tried alcohol at least once, compared to 74.3 percent nationally. In some cases, Maryland data is somewhat better than the rest of the nation. More than 16 percent of Maryland students said that they had smoked a cigarette in the past 30 days, a rate below the 23 percent national figure.

"Maryland has been documenting youth behavior for several years, through our own Maryland Adolescent Survey, and our data shows that we are making progress in steering students toward good decision making," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "This report confirms our belief that we still have a long way to go."

The Maryland General Assembly in 2004 required that MSDE conduct the YRBS for the first time. The survey was conducted in the spring of 2005 and covered traffic safety; personal safety; tobacco use; alcohol and other drug use; suicide; diet, nutrition, and physical activity; and protective factors.

Thirty schools were randomly selected to take part in the survey, drawn from the state's 24 systems. The General Assembly required the signature of a parent or guardian specifically authorizing the student's participation before he or she could be given a survey to complete, a process known as "active consent."

A total of 1,414 usable surveys were obtained for the sample size, about 65 percent of the enrollment in the sampled classes.

Among the results of the survey:

•Nearly three in 10 Maryland students report feeling sad or hopeless for two weeks in a row or more (29.7 percent), a figure on par with the national statistic (28.5 percent).

•Nineteen percent of high school students in Maryland report carrying a weapon in the past 30 days, a figure close to the national average (18.5 percent).

•More than one-quarter of Maryland students (27.4 percent) consider themselves slightly or over overweight, slightly better than the national average (31.5 percent).

Nearly nine of 10 Maryland high school students (89.5 percent) report they have been taught about HIV infection in school, compared to 87.9 percent nationally.

The survey results are available on the MSDE web site, Student Surveys.

In Loving Memory

I Miss My Faithy Kay

No word I write can ever say,
How much I miss my Faithy Kay.
As days go by I think of her,
And wonder why she had to go.
I think of her in silence,
And often say her name.

All I have left of her
Are my memories and a photo in a frame.
No one sees my tears,
Or the way I feel inside.
But the love I have for her
Will never go away.

My feelings are so deeply and very hard to say,
But I think it's time for you to know,
Just what I have to say.
There is a place in my heart for my Faithy Kay.
It will be there until I meet her
On that path that leads the way.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Why was the January full moon so bright and high in the sky for only one night, when other full moons are visible for several nights in a row?

One thing that happens in winter is that the amount of water in the atmosphere is often lower than at other times of the year. That's called "low humidity." It causes a considerable difference in how well you can see objects in the sky. The notion of a "crystal clear night" is a wintertime phenomenon, and refers to the exceptional clarity with which the moon and stars can be seen.

With less water in the atmosphere, there is less scattering of light, so more incoming light reaches your eye. Furthermore, with low scattering, the background will appear even blacker. On the other hand, when the atmospheric water is greater, even though there is not yet a cloud cover, the stars are fainter and harder to see. The moon sends us so much light that it's visible even with a thin wispy cloud cover. But when that "crystal clear night" comes along, the moon appears particularly bright against a very black background sky.

In the case of the January 2007 full moon, the atmospheric conditions were really great one night, but not so great on adjacent nights.

Incidentally, the moon in winter is never high in the sky. The tilt of the earth's axis ensures that in winter, the moon stays at a low angle of elevation in the sky. At our latitude, the full moon near the winter solstice doesn't quite reach 1/3 of the way above the horizon (30°). In summer the moon is very high in the sky (75°, not quite completely overhead at 90°). The lower angle in wintertime also means that you're looking through more atmosphere, so whether it's humid or not will make a greater difference in the apparent brightness of the moon.

Q. Why is snow white, but the lake blue?

Water is basically colorless, as you can see by looking at a glass of water from your faucet. So whatever color a body of water appears to be must come from some other cause. The liquid lake merely reflects light from the sky. If the sky is bright blue, the lake will look blue; if the sky is cloudy and gray, the lake will look gray. Nothing very profound there.

Snow, on the other hand, is a collection of delicate little ice crystals that interact with light in a special way. Some light goes right through the crystal structure of each snowflake, but other light is reflected back from each snowflake. It doesn't matter what the wavelength of that light is – all the colors of the spectrum (blue, green, ... red) all bounce around in the same way. Put enough snowflakes behind one another and you'll see the cumulative effect of all those reflections. When all colors of the spectrum reflect about the same amount, what the eye sees is called "white."

When there are air molecules around (as is certainly the case in the open spaces of a snowflake), the "whiteness" of the reflection is enhanced. You can see this in ice cubes, which upon freezing trap some air bubbles. Also, when filling a glass from the faucet, at first the water appears somewhat white because of the air bubbles in it. As soon as the air bubbles go away, the water becomes colorless.

GARRETT HOOFPRINTS
by Christine Welch

The December meeting of the Garrett Hoofprints was combined with our Christmas party and was held at Cari Zbel's house.

We elected new officers for 2007, who are Lara Schad, president; Cari Zbel, vice president; Anna Tressler, secretary; Kelsey VanSickle, treasurer; and Christine Welch, reporter.

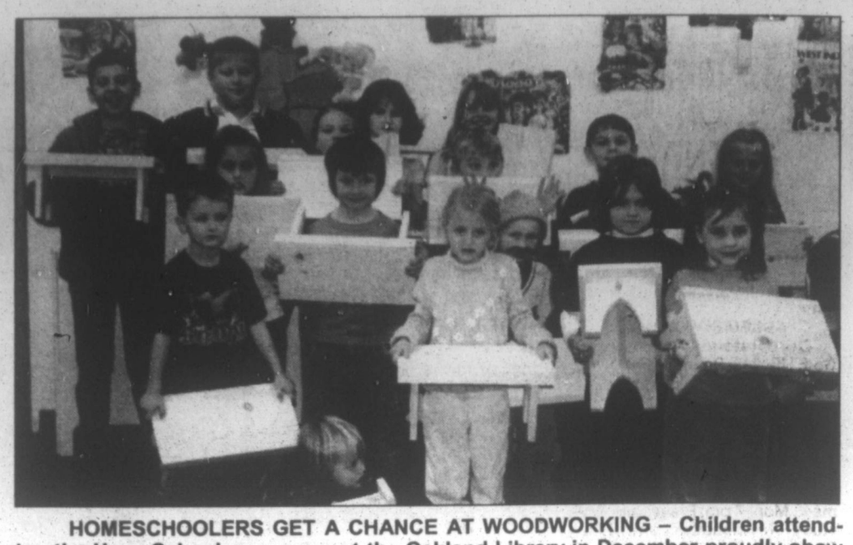
We voted to host three horse shows and discussed the classes to be held. Programs and activities for the year were planned. Members decided to attend the Horse Expo in Timonium in January.

The club has a junior, an intermediate, and a senior team that will compete at the Horse Bowl in March. Each team will practice weekly.

Re-enrollment forms were collected, and members were reminded that Record Books are due before the end of January.

4-H Fun Day at the Wisp is Friday, Jan. 26.

After the meeting we ate, then exchanged gifts. Jesse Simson, 2006 president, presented gifts from the club to the leaders, Brenda Wotring and Nancy Zbel.



HOMESCHOOLERS GET A CHANCE AT WOODWORKING – Children attending the HomeSchooler program at the Oakland Library in December proudly show wooden stools that they assembled under the tutelage of woodworker Jim Joslin of Accident. "He has long enjoyed woodworking as a hobby and was happy to share his knowledge and skills with the children," said a library spokesperson. Joslin brought samples of various kinds of wood for the children to examine. "The room was full of hammering noises and children having fun," said Dorene Rogers, Oakland children's librarian. The next HomeSchooler program at the Oakland Library will be held tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 19, at 1 p.m. and will feature "Making Your Family Stories" with professional storyteller Gail Herman.

Edward Jones Ranks Highest in Investor Satisfaction by J.D. Power and Associates

The financial-services firm Edward Jones ranks highest in full-service investor satisfaction for the second consecutive year, according to the J.D. Power and Associates 2006 Full Service Investor Satisfaction Study (SM), John Rose, investment representative in Oakland, announced today.

The J.D. Power and Associates study found that strong customer service representative performance, convenience, account set-up/offerings, account statements and product and service offerings combined with competitive investment performance drive Edward Jones's first-place finish. Edward Jones' first place finish. Edward Jones does particularly well serving its more affluent clients, the survey found.

"As a firm, all of us are committed to providing outstanding client service," said Rose. "Our clients are the true judges of our service, and these surveys show that our clients think highly of the firm and their relationships with their local investment representatives and branch office administrators. Their satisfaction is reflected by the fact that they would recommend Edward Jones to their friends, as reported in the study results."

According to the study, satisfaction translates into advocacy, and Edward Jones's clients recommend their investment representative more often than other firms, according to the survey.

Meeting face to face with one's investment professional is the best way to increase satisfaction, the survey found.

"We believe that individual investors prefer to conduct business face to face in offices that are conveniently located," Rose said."

Edward Jones ranked highest by J.D. Power and Associates in 2005, and highest in 2002, when the study began. Recently, Edward Jones in Canada announced the firm's highest ranking in J.D. Power and Associates', Canadian Study about Edward Jones.

Edward Jones provides financial services for individual investors in the United States and, through its affiliates, in Canada and the United Kingdom. Every aspect of the firm's business, from the types of investment options offered to the location of branch offices, is designed to cater to individual investors in the communities in which they live and work. The firm's 10,000-plus investment representatives work directly with more than 7 million clients to understand their personal goals – from college savings to retirement – and create long-term strategies for their investments that emphasize a well-balanced portfolio and a buy-and hold strategy. Edward Jones embraces the importance of building long-term, face to face relationships with clients, helping then to understand and make sense of the investment options available today.

Edward Jones is headquartered in St. Louis. The Edward Jones interactive Web site is located at www.edwardjones.com and its recruiting Web site is www.edwardjonesopportunity.com

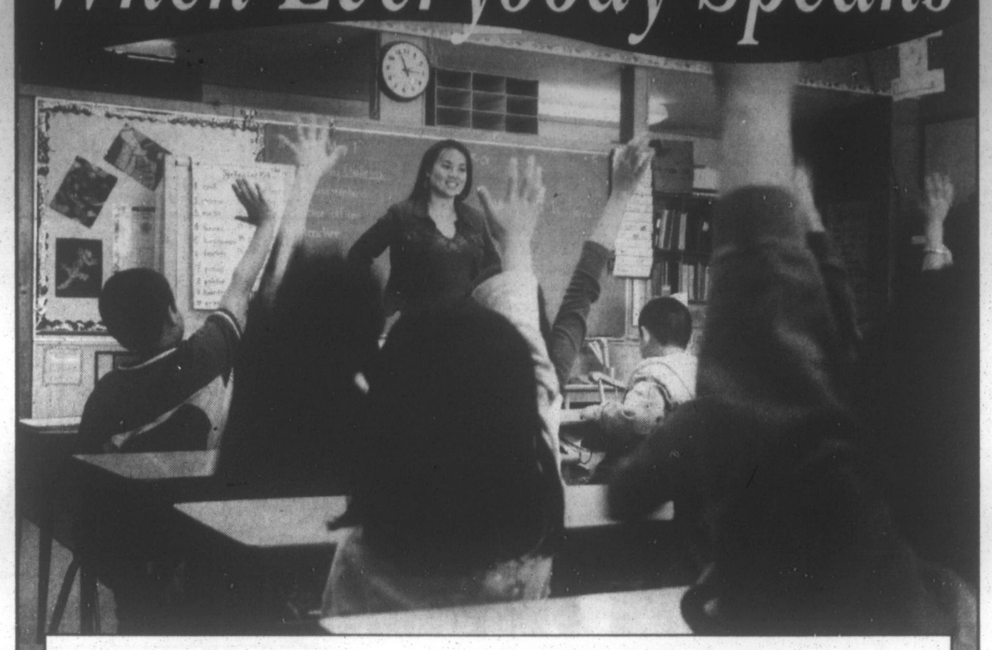
When Everybody Speaks



"I can't hear you!!! Don't everybody speak at once…one request at a time please. I'm only human!"

Some days everybody wants your help "now". His project is most important. She made her request first. On and on it goes. Who could possibly handle such an impossible situation?

God can. He can hear all of us all of the time. When we think of this from a human perspective it is just too incredible to fathom. Yet when we believe it from the point of view of faith, this concept of God's omnipresence is totally acceptable. We can communicate with our Heavenly Father anytime we choose…we don't even have to wait our turn.

We read in 1 John 5:14 "…if we ask anything according to His will, He hears us." God knows our fundamental needs. Worship this week and discover how prayer and faith in Him can give you peace that is uninterrupted by the world.

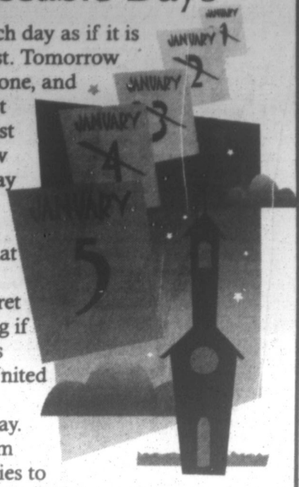
Irreplaceable Days



We should live each day as if it is going to be our last. Tomorrow is promised to no one, and so we really do not know when our last day might be. How would we live today differently if we knew it was going to be our last? What are we putting off that we would regret not saying or doing if we were to die this very day? In the United States, over 7000 people die every day. How many of them missed opportunities to live and love each day fully? Each and every day is special and irreplaceable, and comes with unique opportunities. All of the major religions of the world counsel us to contemplate our deaths, and this isn't because there is a universal tendency toward morbidity, but rather because it is only against the backdrop of our mortality that the true value and meaning of our lives become apparent. None of us will live forever, but those of us who recognize the brevity of life will savor its joys and even its sorrows more than those who do not.

So teach us to number our days that we may get a heart of wisdom.

Echinacea Evaluated for URIs

Echinacea is a plant native to the United States and Southern Canada. Echinacea purpurea is the most potent and commonly used form of the plant, although other forms have also been studied. Products from this plant have been used historically to treat infections, insect bites, and allergies.

Studies evaluating the effectiveness of Echinacea for upper respiratory infections have been inconclusive. However, the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine is currently support-ing a research trial evaluating the effectiveness of Echinacea in the treatment of upper respiratory infections (URIs). The dose of Echinacea tablets is 2 tablets (containing 6.78 mg crude herb) three times daily for the duration of symptoms. Side effects from Echinacea are uncommon; however, upset stomach and nausea have been reported. Allergic reactions to Echinacea are rare, but have been reported. People who are allergic to ragweed, chrysanthemums, marigolds, and daisies should not take Echinacea due to a high risk of allergy.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• If you're like the average American eating an average meal, that bite on your fork traveled between 1,500 and 2,500 miles before getting to your dinner plate.

• Some people claim to be able to spot when someone is lying by how much they blink. What does it tell you, then, that women blink nearly twice as much as men do?

• In 2004, Al Eaton, a Canadian farmer, grew a pumpkin that weighed 1,446 pounds.

• It was noted humorist Bill Vaughan who made the following sage observation: "Economists report that a college education adds many thousands of dollars to a man's lifetime income — which he then spends sending his son to college."

• The real name of John le Carre, the famed author of suspense novels, is David Cornwell. When he was a young man, he worked as a spy for the British secret service. He didn't really like his job, though — he said that life as a spy was "spectacularly undramatic" — so he started writing novels in his spare time. Since he was still working for the secret service, he had to keep his name a secret, which is why he had to choose a pen name. Finally, in 1963, his novel "The Spy Who Came in From the Cold" was successful enough that he could quit the unsatisfying day job that had, nonetheless, provided fodder for his writing.

• The plant that produces marijuana is useful for many things, including making rope and paper goods. In fact, a single acre of hemp can produce as much paper as four acres of trees.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 24, 1907, Florida engineer Glenn Curtiss sets an unofficial land-speed record on a self-built V-8 motorcycle: 136.29 mph. In 1911, Curtiss built and demonstrated the world's first seaplane for the U.S. Navy.

• On Jan. 28, 1917, American forces are recalled from Mexico after nearly 11 months of fruitless searching for Mexican revolutionary Pancho Villa, who was accused of killing 17 Americans. In 1920, the Mexican government pardoned Villa.

• On Jan. 23, 1922, at Toronto General Hospital, 14-year-old Canadian Leonard Thompson improves dramatically after becoming the first person to receive an insulin injection as treatment for diabetes.

• On Jan. 26, 1934, producer Samuel Goldwyn buys the film rights to "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz" by L. Frank Baum. The film was released in 1939.

• On Jan. 22, 1950, Tucker auto builder Preston Tucker is cleared of all 31 counts of fraud that had been brought against him. But it was too little, too late — the Tucker automobile was history. Many believe that the legal actions against Tucker were sponsored by the Big Three U.S. automakers, who feared his competition.

• On Jan. 25, 1960, the National Association of Broadcasters proposes that disc jockeys accepting payment from record labels for broadcasting particular songs (a practice known as "payola") be charged a $500 fine and spend a year in prison. The end result was approval of an amendment to the Communications Act of 1934 outlawing pay-for-play.

Giveaway Pets

Q. Far too often, I scan through my local newspaper or online classifieds only to see ad after ad offering free puppies, kittens, birds ... you name it. Last week someone was trying to give away an entire chicken coop! I think that these ads are inappropriate, and that people should take care of their pets and not give them away. What action can I take to stop the newspaper and online sites from permitting these ads? — Sandra G., via e-mail

A. While I applaud your concern for pets that are being given up by their owners, I don't agree that such ads are inappropriate. The owners are making a genuine effort to place their pets in a good home. We don't know what the circumstances of these owners are. In the case of the chicken coop, perhaps the owner got sick or can no longer afford to keep them. Or maybe the city changed its regulations on the types of animals that can be kept in one's backyard.

I would much rather see an ad placed, offering to give a pet to a good home, than to see that pet abandoned and wandering — or worse.

For people considering adopting a "giveaway pet," be sure to meet the owner and the pet before agreeing to anything. A trip to the veterinarian for a full checkup should be done either during the meeting phase or as soon as you decide to adopt the pet. Ask the former owner about any behavior and health issues, special diet considerations, current medications, and the pet's favorite toys and activities. These steps will help make the transition from one home to another as smooth as possible.

Q. I have a Wilcox and Gibbs treadle sewing machine in a nice cabinet and with original instruction book and attachments. Where can I sell it? — Jim, Chillicothe, Ohio

A. According to Antique American Sewing Machines by James W. Slaten, most Willcox and Gibbs treadle machines manufactured after 1880 are worth between $400 and $500, depending on condition. I recommend you contact antique shops in your area to see if there is any interest. Sewing machines are plentiful and not in great demand with collectors.

Q. I have a collection of piano music books that originally belonged to my mother. They are Modern Music and Musicians published by the Universal Society in 1918. Where can I market them? — Rosemary, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. Most old piano music is extremely difficult to sell. There are always exceptions. Wayland Bunnell is the owner of Clean Sheets, a mail-order business that specializes in older sheet music. He might be able to help you. His address is 199 Tarrytown Road, Manchester, NH 03103. A second source is Beverly A. Hamer, P.O. Box 75, East Derry, NH 03041.

When contacting experts and collectors mentioned in this column, it's always a good idea to enclosed a self-addressed, stamped envelope and be patient for an answer.

Q. I have a first edition of Frank Yerbe's novel "Bride of Liberty." I have been offered $50 for it. — Bill, Akron, Ohio

A. Take it. According to several used-book dealers I consulted, a first edition of the novel you mentioned generally sells in the $15-$25 range. It was published by Doubleday in 1954.

NBC's 'Heroes' likely to muscle onto DVD

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Will I be able to get the first season of "Heroes" on DVD? –Eddie Pizzo, Houston

A: Undoubtedly. The NBC series has been such a hit for the network, a second season is a foregone conclusion. As is traditional with the DVD releases of many shows, the past season is likely to hit rental and sales shelves just before the next one starts airing, so you can expect to see the roots of Hayden Panettiere's cheerleader character and the others packaged up in August or September.

Q: I would like to know who played Maude's daughter on the series "Maude." –Robert Wills, Daytona Beach, Fla.

A: Adrienne Barbeau's television and film career was launched when she played Maude's offspring, Carol, on the often-controversial 1970s "All in the Family" spinoff. Since then, her credits have mixed small-screen and big-screen work, with "Escape From New York," "Swamp Thing," "Creepshow" and "Back to School" among her theatrical films.

Q: Can you tell me if the sitcom "One Day at a Time," starring Bonnie Franklin, will ever be released on DVD? –Kathie Giorgio, Waukesha, Wis.

A: CBS' 2005 reunion special – which brought Franklin back together with her television "daughters," Mackenzie Phillips and Valerie Bertinelli, as well as Pat Harrington Jr., who played ever-intrusive handyman Schneider – is available on disc. It contains numerous clips from episodes of the show, but the full series itself is unavailable at this time.

Q: Recently, I read that Stuart Margolin – who played Rockford's pal on "The Rockford Files" – has passed away. The write-up indicated that Janet Margolin was his sister; however, her life events didn't seem to match his. Were they really related? –Ann Nash, Richardson, Texas

A: They were siblings, but Stuart was still living as of this writing. Janet, arguably best-known for the movies "David and Lisa" and "Annie Hall," died in 1993. Another sibling also is in show business: Arnold Margolin, who has produced such television series as "Love, American Style" and "Growing Pains."

Q: Will "What I Like About You" have any new episodes on The CW? –Raphael Gonzalez, Denver

A: No, but there's still some good news for fans of the Amanda Bynes-Jennie Garth sitcom. Warner Home Video is planning to release the complete first season of the show on DVD on April 3.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

After the rainy weather we had a day of sparkling snow. I told my brother Barry that we got some snow, and he is eager to put his cross country skis on, but I warned him we will probably get rain this weekend.

About one hundred fans of my nephews' band White Noise got a taste of city life when the band performed in a showcase at a premium live club in Baltimore. Besides the good number of their Garrett County's fans, some adult friends of the Glotfelty and Bass families also attended from that area. White Noise returned from the road Saturday and performed at Youth for Christ music show at Garrett College.

The youth of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish met at the educational building on Sunday evening. Cindy prepared a spaghetti dinner for the group, followed by the making of some crafts. They will probably be on sale at future events.

My mother, Ruth DiPaolo, returned home from Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Monday following a week's stay and is recuperating from double pneumonia.

A Maryland Terrapin fan, Blakely Glotfelty, visited her cousins Claire and Caitlin Sussman at West Virginia University over the Martin Luther King holiday. The Maryland students will be returning to College Park this weekend for the new semester. Tonight the Terps are playing a Virginia basketball team. Hopefully we will record another win.

Although I enjoy the mild winter weather that we have been having, I still can't wait for spring. It is almost unbelievable that my youngest daughter Meredith will turn 16 on January 19. But every mother knows the feeling of only yesterday their big kids were tiny babies. Meredith has her driver's learning permit now and so far has done a good job on our drives. She coped well on a rainy, dark evening on Garrett County highways. It will be too soon that she will be away at college. My daughters are the only thing that keeps me going, which is a dangerous thing because they will keep growing up and going away. I guess that is the way it is supposed to be. Motherhood, like the Peace Corps, is the hardest job you love. My Caitlin expresses her desire to join the Peace Corps. Although I would be very proud of her, it scares me, especially after my little brother Scott died in Africa while serving in the Peace Corps.

When you see the weather in the Midwest with freezing rain, power outages, etc., it makes me happy that we have drab, dreary, muddy weather. One thing great about it is that there is no hassle with snow removal from my lane. For most of my life it has been a major issue at our house. When I was small and Dad had a herd of milking cows, it seemed as if every day he had to clean the lane for the milk trucks. After that I became one expert drift buster. I don't miss driving in snow every day. Even a little snow on the road terrifies me. I developed a system that works for me to drive in snow – slow enough that I can stop with just a light kiss of my brakes.

Today is Martin Luther King's birthday. No citizen made more of a mark in our society. His leadership enabled transition to a society in which his race shot out of the American Dream, and he preached non-violence. I can't think of another big revolution without violence in the world. All Americans should celebrate his life. One year when I was teaching Introduction to Literature at Garrett College we were doing a segment about Black literature. One poem we studied was "What happens when a dream is differed? Will it dry up like a raisin in the sun/or it explodes?" The situation of peace relationship was distorted; and I told my class I believe it would explode soon. That was right before the Martin Luther King assassination and urbans exploded in violence. My students couldn't believe I could predict that. "Blessed are the peace makers as they will see God." Where are John, Bobby and Martin? I think they are sitting beside God. I am grateful to King, who has given a chance for some wonderful African American young men I taught and who can now claim the American Dream.

Ruth DiPaolo's little dog "Pippy" was pretty depressed when she was in the hospital. He spent the time at the Glotfeltys, but while she was in the hospital he perked up when she talked to him on the phone. According to the Glotfelty son who delivered "Pip" to his mommy, he was so excited and joyful that he just ran around and jumped into her arms. She does love that little dog.

Less than two weeks until the first sign of spring – Goundhog Day. I guess the worst it can be would be six weeks of winter if the groundhog sees his shadow. Even if real winter reappears, that will not be too long to stand, I guess. Eight weeks until the spring equinox, which is the first official day of spring. But in Bittinger and Garrett County, we do not get real spring weather until a little later. We will probably get early crocus blooming since the dandelions already bloomed, as seen in a recent picture in The Republican. I am looking forward to seeing if the cactus plant that was planted by Sally Schwing in my flower bed survived the winter.

It seems here that global warming is real, but if you ask people in the Pacific northwest they would probably have a different opinion. The California fruit growers are in the midst of a deep freeze, and Texas has four inches of thick ice on their power lines, leaving many without power.

Today is Tuesday, and my stress level is at the fullest. It is the day I must get my column to someone who can put it on the computer and e-mail it to The Republican. Most of the time that is Ruth DiPaolo, who can type so fast and well. I used to be a fair typist, but now am pretty slow. I don't know how I do this column with only one usable hand. I am glad my mother got home, not just for the column's sake, but mainly because she was able to beat a bad case of pneumonia. I think she has had it for months. She felt the care was excellent at Garrett Memorial and thinks that Dr. Goralski is the best. He has brought her through some pretty serious illnesses. If you must be hospitalized, she highly recommends Garrett Memorial.

BACK TO THE NEST?

Are you among the college graduates who have moved back home this year? Don't sweat it, because you're not alone. About 48% of the class of 2006 is estimated to have returned home, and with good reasons.

It's safe, it's secure, and it's convenient, especially when there are car payments and job searching to worry about. Quite frankly, all those years living in a dorm room may not have prepared you for the big step of setting up house on your own.

Fortunately, many parents are embracing their "boomerang" children, so graduates can work and save money toward a down payment on a home. If you are among these parents or graduates, you'll find it useful to establish ground rules while working toward the goal of home ownership.

First, set a deadline for moving out, and work hard toward achieving it. It may mean taking a "survival job" until the career of your dreams comes along. Strongly consider developing good payment habits by paying rent to your parents. Parents, if you're not comfortable keeping your kid's cash, put it away for them to use for a down payment later.

Rents around the country are rising, and moving home can provide an opportunity to save money and work toward the American Dream of home ownership. Now more than ever, it's becoming an accepted right of passage.

Amateur Radio Group Meets, Plans Activities

The Garrett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES) met Monday night at the Oakland Red Cross building to discuss plans for the coming year.

Pam Viner (N3HFC) presented a computer mailing list she has prepared of all the radio operators in Garrett and surrounding counties. The group's first mailing will be a questionnaire to determine the radio communications and emergency response capabilities of all local hams.

Non-licensed persons who are interested in getting an amateur license and participating in emergency communications activities are invited to contact Bill Shomo (KB3FMJ) at 301-334-2907 (bshomo@ice-web.com).

In mid February, ARES hams will operate from Southern Middle School during the National Amateur Radio School Club Roundup. Teachers and students across the country and in Canada will be talking with each other via amateur short-wave radio. Licensed hams who wish to join this activity may contact Shomo.

The next ARES meeting will be an "on-the-air" meeting of the ARES Network on 146.805 mHz this Sunday, Jan. 21, at 8 p.m.

HART Continues Effort To Rescue Homeless Pets From County Shelter

by Lisa Baker,
GC Humane Society president

While it was still dark outside and many residents were still sound asleep on Saturday morning, Jan. 6, HART (Homeless Animal Rescue and Transport) of Garrett County Inc. volunteers were busy at the Garrett County Animal Shelter loading up crates with canines to be taken to various rescues downstate.

Several dogs and several litters of puppies, totaling 18, were loaded up into a rented cargo van for a transport to Howard County.

Some of the dogs, like Cody, a 6-month-old spaniel/hound mix, had already been at the shelter several weeks waiting to be adopted, along with three litters of puppies.

Also included in this transport was a young Great Dane with a deformed leg, who had been dropped off at the shelter after hours, and an Australian shepherd mix, who had been tossed out of a truck on Rt. 219 just days before.

All of them were at risk of being "put to sleep" if they had remained in the shelter, as the dog kennels were full to capacity. Of the few dogs who didn't "go out," two were reclaimed by their owner, who had been hospitalized.

Over the last four years, HART's Candy Virts and Caroline Robison, and other local volunteers have saved more than 2,000 animals from being euthanized by finding no-kill rescues and shelters to take the huge overflow of adoptable dogs coming into the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Because there are only 12 dog kennels at the local shelter, many canines would be put down simply because there is not enough room to keep them for extended periods of time.

For example, records show that an average of 8 to 10 dogs are brought into the shelter per week, and even last month, five dogs were brought in on one day! This is one of the main reasons local animal groups and animal friends are strongly requesting that the Garrett County government build a new adoption center.

Like many of the animals listed above, nice, adoptable pets end up at the shelter because of unfortunate events in the lives of their owners, such as death, divorce, illness, or relocation.

Other pets are dropped off simply because they are not wanted anymore by their owners, or the owners are tired of having to take care of the pets.

This winter, the shelter received many unwanted or accidental litters of puppies, which shows the need for owners to spay and neuter their pets. Though several puppies were adopted, almost 15 remained. Many were large breed mixes that are not currently "in demand" because a lot of people come in looking for small breed dogs.

Without the hard work and dedication of rescue volunteers, hundreds more animals would be put down each year, which would calculate to an 82 percent euthanasia rate. This would be a terrible statistic for most people to swallow, especially pet lovers and visitors to Garrett County.

It was particularly crucial that animals be taken out of the shelter on Jan. 6, as the county maintenance department was scheduled to do many needed repairs at the facility. Where were all those pets going to go while the work was being done? There is not a separate kennel area at the shelter where the dogs could have been housed to keep them out of the way, yet all the pets were adoptable.

So, who would say, "Go ahead and euthanize 48 animals because we have to do repairs?" All of them were once someone's pet.

The repairs took place last week and were scheduled to be completed this week. It is going to be much safer and healthier for the animals residing at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. The cracks in the floors (which held standing water) were filled; the cement block walls (which were porous) were sealed; the ventilation fans were repaired; and lighting was added, which will be much nicer for cleaning and for visitors to view the available dogs.

The cat rooms at the shelter were also scheduled for repairs. But because there is also not a separate cat area to move the cats into, the felines were also taken out.

Early Sunday morning, Jan. 7, a Chevy Tahoe owned by the Ken and Judy Carbone was loaded up with 22 crates of cats. They were then transported to Frederick, where two other volunteers loaded them up into their cars and drove them to Last Chance Animal Rescue in Waldorf.

This organization handles cat rescue and adoption via PetSmart and PetCo stores in the Washington, D.C., and southern Maryland area.

No government funds were used for the van rental, gas, or drivers for the canine and feline transports. Each week in Garrett County, someone volunteers his or her time and vehicle to transport various animals to Hagerstown or Frederick, where a rescue (which is no-kill) then keeps them until the pets are adopted.

The Jan. 6 canine transport went all the way to Columbia and was met by several different rescues to pick up a particular dog or litter of puppies. The rescues include A Forever Home Rescue Foundation, Chantilly, Va.; Purrs N Pups Rescue Team, Riverdale, N.J.; and Howard County Animal Control, Columbia.

RESCUE DAY AT THE ANIMAL SHELTER – HART (Homeless Animal Rescue Transport) of Garrett County and other volunteers recently transported numerous homeless pets from the county animal shelter. Pictured are just some of the 40 crates of cats and dogs ready for their journey downstate to meet rescue groups. Over the last four years, HART has saved more than 2,000 animals from euthanization. See story for details. Photos by Linda Griffith and Lisa Baker.

HART, the Human Society, and other volunteers are very happy the work at the shelter has been done. But more improvements are needed. Those include more kennels, an additional room to keep puppies separated from adult dogs, a quarantine area, and the construction of a separate adoption center.

The center would enable adoptable dogs at the shelter to be separated from those being held for owner reclaim, aggressive behavior, or other reasons. It could also be open to the public on Saturdays for persons who can't make it to the shelter during the week.

We also have many community oriented programs in mind for the new center.

But we need public and county government support to make the adoption center possible. These are Garrett County dogs that belong to Garrett County residents. It would be nice to have an adoption center where animals could be held longer to have a better chance of being adopted, and to also have volunteer programs and various classes offered to Garrett County residents.

For more information about volunteering at the shelter or a rescue, persons may call 301-334-4425.

HOUSE GUTTED BY FIRE — Two occupants of this house located along Oak Hall Drive in Oak Park (Mtn. Lake Park) barely escaped the one-story wood-frame structure after they were awakened Tuesday morning by a fire that had started in the living room. Shelley Taylor and Chad Cerrito both had to exit the house through a window, and sustained laceration injuries in the process. The fire was caused by combustible materials that were located too close to an electric heater. It was the third structure fire in the past week in Garrett County, as a mobile trailer home near Friendsville and a two-story house near Finzel were also destroyed on Saturday. O'Malley Includes $23.3M For Local Projects In Budget

Gov. Martin O'Malley released the FY 2008 budget for Maryland last Thursday, with a total budget increase of 2.5% over last year's budget and a lower rate of growth than 9 out of the last 10 budgets, according to the governor's office. The budget also includes more than $23 million for projects in Garrett County.

"Maryland's budget is one of the clearest reflections of our values as a state," said O'Malley. "With annual deficits of $1 billion for the foreseeable future, the FY 2008 budget constrains spending of limited tax dollars, but makes critical investments in the priorities we share as a state to make Maryland stronger – investments in education, public health, open space and our environment, transportation, public safety, and economic development."

More than $23.3 million in his budget has been ear marked for initiatives in Garrett County. They are the Garrett college Athletic and Community Recreation Center, $12.451 million; the proposed county detention center, $4.8 million; Northern Middle School renovations, $4 million; Grantsville Elementary School improvements, $800,000; and Program Open Space grants, $519,772.

Also included is funding for local parks and recreational areas: Friendsville Community Park, $216,000; Kendall Trail improvements, $50,000; Herrington Manor State Park, Herring-ton Creek Dam repair, $200,000; Deep Creek State Park bath house, $114,000; Savage River Reservoir, new Dry run boat ramp, $99,000; and Broadford Lake Park, $30,000.

The governor's FY 2008 budget includes $400 million dollars for school construction, the Thornton Education Plan, Program Open Space, more than a billion dollars for highway and transit projects, and increased funding for stem

Dr. Teets Notes Procedure For Friday School

A noon dismissal of Garrett County schools is scheduled for this Friday, January 26. However, according to Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, if because of weather conditions schools have a delayed opening that day, the early dismissal will be cancelled.

If schools are either closed or have a delayed opening this Friday, the noon dismissal will occur next Monday, Jan. 29, or on the next day that schools open at the regular time.

Man Handed Jail Time For Theft Of Trout

Mark A. Logsdon, 18, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to a theft charge, and was sentenced to a 30-day jail term, all of which was suspended except for 10 days, in a Garrett County District Court hearing on Wednesday.

In addition, the defendant was ordered to undergo one year of probation upon his release, to make restitution in the amount of $344.50 to the Division of Natural Resources (DNR), and was forbidden to enter upon the Bear Creek Trout Rearing Station, Accident.

Logsdon and Gory J. McKenzie, 19, Grantsville, were arrested and charged by Natural Resources Police last July for trespassing and theft of 14 trout (valued at

Susan Crawford Appointed To Oversee Military Commissions

In order to implement the Military Commissions Act, which authorizes trials of the unlawful enemy combatants currently held at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, the U.S. Secretary of Defense Dr. Robert M. Gates has appointed the Honorable Susan J. Crawford, a part-time resident of Garrett County, as convening authority for military commissions. According to Pentagon officials, Crawford will oversee the new military commissions and "will have the authority to select judges for the commissions, send charges to trial, and act on commission findings and verdicts."

Crawford recently completed a 15-year term as a judge on the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces, including five years as chief judge. Prior to that she served as the general counsel for the Department of the Army in the administration of President Ronald Reagan, and as inspector general of the Department of Defense in the administration of President George H.W. Bush.

In making the announcement, Defense Department spokesman Dan Dell' Orto said, "Judge Crawford has a distinguished record of legal, managerial, and judicial service, and the department is thrilled that she has agreed again to serve the public in another critical role."

Detailed rules for military trials of terrorism suspects have recently been published in a defense department manual that prescribes how military commissions will try some of the nearly 400 detainees at Guantanamo Bay. Officials predict that 60 to 80 of these will face commissions. According to Dell 'Orto, the new manual enforces a presumption of innocence, includes a requirement that defendants be allowed to see all the evidence used against them, safeguards defendants against self-incrimination, and prohibits evidence obtained by torture.

Concerning the decision to become involved with the military commission trials of the Guantanamo Bay detainees, Crawford stated, "I believe it is critically important for our country that the military commissions run properly – that the process upholds the core principles upon which our nation's laws depend, including integrity, fairness to all sides, and respect for due process. It is for this reason that I was persuaded to accept the appointment of convening authority under the Military Commissions

Planning Dept. Gives Update Report; Comprehensive Plan Meetings Slated

Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development staff members presented an update report for the county commissioners on Tuesday. A number of issues were discussed, including the county's 2008 Comprehensive Development Plan, zoning, building permits, and transient vacation rental unit licenses.

Two back-to-back meetings will be held next month on the comprehensive plan, Director John Nelson reported. The first is being billed as a "visioning meeting" and is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 26, at 7 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium.

"We would like to have public input as to how they (the public) see Garrett County to be 25 years from now, and the types of guidelines for managing growth that should be implemented under this current planning effort," Nelson said about the meeting. "So, that will be pretty much a wide-open meeting for soliciting ideas and comments regarding growth and development throughout the county through the year 2030."

The director said a group attending a recent Planning Commission meeting advocated for the forum to provide a "visioning opportunity" for the public.

The second meeting on the comprehensive plan will be held Tuesday, Feb. 27, at 7 p.m. in the Continuing Education building at Garrett College. A presentation will be given on Deep Creek Lake water quality issues and data that was collected

Fires Cause $266,000 Estimated Losses To Trailer, Two Houses

Several local fire departments have been kept busy this week, as three structures in three different areas of the county were destroyed or heavily damaged by fire.

The first occurred early Saturday near Friendsville when an unoccupied mobile house trailer was destroyed. The second blaze, which occurred at about 3 p.m. Saturday, resulted in a loss of an estimated $125,000 to a house and contents near Finzel. The third alarm, which was reported Tuesday morning, gutted a one-story wood-frame house in Oak Park, with the loss there also calculated to be $125,000.

About two dozen volunteer firefighters from Friendsville, Accident, and Deep Creek Lake were called to 11 Bear Creek Court, Friendsville, when a neighbor reported fire in the 14'x60' mobile home early Saturday.

The cause of the fire, reported at 1:15 a.m., remains under investigation by Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office personnel; however, the report filed by Deputy Fire Marshal Ryan Chapman indicates that the area of origin was underneath the trailer.

Firefighters brought the fire under control in about 15 minutes. Damage to the unoccupied trailer, owned by Rick Hartman, was estimated to be $10,000, and another $6,000 loss to contents.

An adjacent house sustained some minor heat damage. There were no injuries reported.

The fire that was reported later that same day in the Finzel area was in a two-story wood-frame house owned by now-retired Senator John Hafer and located at 3797 Pine Run Road.

Responding to the 3:02 alarm were units and personnel from the Eastern Garrett, Shaft, Frostburg, Midland, and Salisbury, Pa., fire departments, along with Frostburg Ambulance after a passerby reported the fire.

Two firefighters were injured, both as a result of falling on ice. A Frostburg volunteer sustained a broken wrist, and a Shaft firefighter sustained a head injury. Both were transported to the hospital for treatment.

It took about 50 firefighters about 45 minutes to get the fire under control, although units remained on the scene for about four hours. Loss to the house was estimated to be $100,000, and loss to contents was set at $25,000.

WINS NATIONAL TITLE – For the third time in his young wrestling career, Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel of Oakland is once again a national champion, having won the Division IV, 105-pound title Saturday at the 52nd annual Tulsa Nationals in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Not only did he win the title, but he also did not allow a single point to be scored against him in the entire competition. A son of George and Anita Scheffel, he went into the tournament as the nation's third-seeded wrestler in his division. In the championship bout he dominated his New Jersey opponent, who was the nation's fourth-seeded wrestler, by the lopsided score of 15-0. There were 29 grapplers in his division, and over 2,000 in the entire competition, representing 45 states and four different countries. Jakob is an eighth-grade student at Southern Middle School. With him in the photo are Dalton (left) and Scott Cooper, also of Garrett County. Scott also competed in the tournament.

Lipscomb Named As Chief Financial Officer At GCMH

Tracy Lipscomb, CPA, has been promoted to chief financial officer at Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH), according to a recent hospital news release.

The president and CEO of GCMH, Don Battista, said the hospital had performed a competitive applicant search and considered many extremely qualified local, regional, and national candidates. "Ms. Lipscomb was selected from among a very distinguished group," he said.

A native of Garrett County, Lipscomb graduated from Southern High School before receiving her accounting degree from Frostburg State University. Since that time she has gained more than 20 years of progressive professional experience in a variety of finance and accounting specialty areas.

Locally, Lipscomb rose through the ranks in the finance department of Bausch & Lomb, and later worked with the international client firms of Financial Computer Support Inc. as finance director. Lipscomb has been employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for over seven years, and has been instrumental in making enhancements to the hospital's Medicare cost reporting systems and a variety of other regulatory reporting requirements.

As chief financial officer at the hospital, Lipscomb will plan, organize, and direct the financial and business activities of the hospital; manage the hospital's financial resources; and provide guidance for operational decision-making.

"Having gained the opportunity for a promotion to the position of chief financial officer of GCMH is truly an honor," Lipscomb said. "I am looking forward to working with the caring people of GCMH in this new capacity to provide quality, cost-effective healthcare to the local and surrounding communities."

Lipscomb is an active member of the Healthcare Financial Management Association and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants. She is also an active member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and in her free time enjoys camping and sports-related activities with her family.

Lipscomb, her husband John, and two daughters, Emily and Lindsay, reside in Swanton.

ACS Asking Residents To "Send Smiles By The Bunch" During Daffodil Days

The American Cancer Society's annual Daffodil Days campaign is scheduled for March 12-16. Orders for the springtime flowers are being taken now.

"Send smiles by the bunch to everyone you know and help us 'paint the town yellow,'" said an ACS spokesperson.

For a minimum donation of $10, one will receive a bunch of 10 fresh-cut blooms or a pot of mini bulbs.

The ACS is also offering a collector Boyd's Bear created especially for Daffodil Days. Its name is Hugh R. Hope, and it comes with a bunch of 10 fresh-cult blooms for a donation of $25. The supply of bears is limited, however, so persons are advised to place their orders quickly.

One may also give the "gift of hope" by ordering blooms for cancer patients.

"[The] daffodils will be delivered to area cancer patients to let them know people out there care about them and are wishing them the best," said the spokesperson.

Persons who would like to order daffodils or are willing to take orders as a coordinator for the ACS are asked to call 301-722-2145 or 1-888-227-9979 for more information. Persons may also fax an order to 301-724-6179.

Orders can be picked up at St. Peter's Catholic Church basement in Oakland on Tuesday, March 13, or Wednesday, March 14, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For delivery, an order must be for three or more items. Delivery will take place March 13-16.

Proceeds from Daffodil Days go toward patient services, prevention, detection, research, and advocacy activities to help cancer patients in Garrett County.

Educators, Legislators Seek Ways To Ease State's Teacher Shortage

by Taya Flores
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Facing a looming teacher shortage, state education officials said Tuesday that Maryland needs to pay higher salaries, offer tuition reimbursement, and reduce class sizes to recruit and retain teachers for public schools, especially for low-performing districts.

"Not only do we want to recruit outstanding teachers, we want to retain them," said Nancy Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "How can we get the best teachers to go to the schools that need help?"

The state will need about 8,000 new teachers next year. Maryland will lose 30 percent of new teachers within five years, Grasmick said.

Legislators suggested that a possible way to recruit students for teaching careers would be to offer scholarships to students who commit to teach in public schools for a certain amount of time.

While higher education institutions have the capacity to educate more teachers, the cost to offer scholarships may be high, Grasmick said.

She said the State Board of Education is researching ways to recruit and retain teachers by looking at other recruiting programs in states such as Florida, Indiana, Ohio, South Carolina, and Minnesota. But she said that the board needs to customize a plan for Maryland.

"I don't think lifting a plan from another state and implementing it here is the way to go," Grasmick said. "We need to explore it further."

The state is looking at Montgomery County's peer evaluation techniques and how the county invests in its teachers as leaders, and the state is also recruiting nationally and internationally, Grasmick said.

The key incentive discussed for recruiting and retaining teachers was compensation. One way would be to provide stipends for teachers who mentor or work long hours. Another way would increase the pay of teachers whose students have improved academically.

Teachers are going to other states or to professions with higher salaries, said Dale Templeton, the assistant executive director for the Maryland State Teachers Association.

This causes instability, said the superintendent of Queen Anne's County schools, Bernard J. Sadusky.

"It doesn't build stability in an education system when teachers leave to find higher paying jobs elsewhere," he said.

Also, many thousands of teachers are on the cusp of retiring, adding more urgency to the teacher shortage, Grasmick said

In Maryland, the average starting salary for teachers is $36,000, according to the State Board of Education.

Nationally, the average starting salary is $30,377, much lower than other professions that require four-year degrees, such as computer programming at $43,635, public accounting professionals at $44,668, and registered nurses at $45,570, according to a recent study by the National Association of Colleges and Employers.

Also, the average earnings of workers with four-year degrees are over 50 percent higher than the average earnings of a teacher, according to a recent teacher pay report from the National Education Association.

In order to retain teachers, Templeton, the teachers association official, said the state needs to reduce class sizes and teacher workloads.

Professional development was another suggestion to retain teachers. Templeton said that teachers need resources to address the needs of students and mentoring programs to help with class management and administrative paperwork.

Grasmick said that teachers need professional development to learn how to teach creatively in classrooms with disciplinary problems or low performance.

"I was in Baltimore the other day and I think I saw one of the best teachers. I observed her for two hours," she said about visiting West Baltimore Middle School when a teacher taught the African American curriculum.

The state superintendent said that administrative support is also key to retaining teachers. She said that the state needs to encourage principals to be leaders in their schools and encourage the teachers. She gave an example of how principal leadership works.

Grasmick visited a school in Baltimore County in a low-income area and sat with the staff for an hour. She said 15 teachers told her that they would never leave the school as long as the current principal was there because he allowed them to be creative, even under the national standards.

Another suggestion was to increase the preparatory and planning time for teachers.

West Virginia Woman Arrested

Garrett County sheriff's deputies stopped Tamara Maze Craven, 44, of Terra Alta, W.Va., after she failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection of Gorman Rd. and Paul St. on Thursday, Jan. 18. Upon investigation, it was discovered that Craven's license was suspended, and a search of her purse revealed a bag of marijuana.

She was placed under arrest and taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await an appearance with a District Court commissioner.

SMS Evacuates For Bomb Threat; Student Arrested

Officers from the Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Garrett Bureau of Investigation, and the Oakland City Police responded to the Southern Middle School for a bomb threat last Thursday afternoon.

School administration evacuated the students to a safe location at the Broad Ford Elementary School.

An MSP K9 bomb unit was dispatched from the MSP barrack in Cumberland, and officers secured the scene until his arrival. GBI investigators conducted an investigation and subsequently arrested a 12-year-old Southern Middle School student.

The MSP K9 unit scanned the school for explosive devices, and none were located. The school was deemed safe, and school administrators allowed the students to return to the premises.

Prescription Drugs May Improve Overactive Bladder

Overactive bladder is characterized by an uncomfortable and sudden urge to urinate. This occurs when a muscle of the bladder contracts more often than normal. Typically, the detrusor muscle remains at rest while the bladder fills with urine. However, in an overactive bladder, that muscle contracts while the bladder fills. The cause of this condition is unknown; however neurological diseases, stroke, and medication side effects may be causes. Persons with depression, anxiety, and attention deficit disorder may be more likely to experience the symptoms of this condition. Keeping a urination diary is a very useful diagnostic tool to help doctors make a diagnosis.

Antimuscarinics are one class of medication used to treat overactive bladder. Drugs in this class include hyoscyamine, oxybutinh, and tolterodine. They work by relaxing the detrusor muscle to prevent the bladder from contracting. Persons using medications for overactive bladder may also modify their behavior and lifestyle to help control this condition. Pelvic muscle exercises are helpful to reduce urge incontinence. Also, dietary changes such as decreasing caffeine and alcohol intake may be beneficial in decreasing the symptoms of overactive bladder. Losing weight and quitting smoking may also help control symptoms.

Garrett Teams Achieve Highest Honors At Robotics Competition

In an impressive clean sweep, three FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) LEGO League (FLL) robotics teams of Garrett County middle school students earned the three highest honors at the Maryland State FLL Championship in Baltimore on Saturday. A total of 63 teams competed.

"This is a huge achievement for all the Garrett teams, and none of it would have been possible without the long-term support of the Board of Education, its teachers, and the community," said Phil Malone, coach of the first-place team and director of the recently formed GEARS (Garrett Engineering And Robotics Society) organization.

Garrett County was further recognized when local teacher Chuck Trautwein was presented with the FLL Mentor of the Year Award for the state of Maryland.

The team that earned the highest honor, known as the Champion's Award, was "NeXT GEN," composed of students from Southern Middle School. Members are Aaron Lantz, Emily Huxford, Elliot DiGioia, Sam Thomas, Levi Lantz, and Ben Rodeheaver. In addition to Malone, the coaches of this group are Arlene Lantz, a teacher at Swan Meadow School; her husband Willie Lantz; and Sandy Rodeheaver, library media resource teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education.

NeXT GEN will now represent Maryland in the FIRST LEGO League's World Festival in Atlanta in April. The award is given to the best team overall in all four judging categories.

The team name, Trautwein explained, stands for "next generation," and is also a play on the new LEGO robot controller, which is called LEGO Mindstorms NXT.

THE THREE HIGHEST HONORS at the Maryland State FIRST LEGO League Championship on Saturday in Baltimore went to Garrett County teams, and teacher Chuck Trautwein was honored with the FLL Mentor of the Year Award for the state of Maryland. Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, attended the event, and said the accomplishment is an outstanding reflection of the entire school system and community. Pictured above are members of the "Radioactive Tater Tots" team and their coaches from Bloomington School. From left are Steven Holtschneider, Jordan Bosley, Logan Bever, Zachary Virts, Bill Ack, Hunter Metcalfe, Brandon Tichnell, Brian Wildman, Christin Feaster, and Kelsey Bosley. Not pictured is member Jacob Taylor. Below are members and coaches of the Southern Middle School eighth grade team, the "Four Stooges." In the front, from left, are students Aryne Riley, Ian Jobe, Jacob Bramande, and Jarad Arnold. In the back are coaches Jason Jobe and Chuck Trautwein. See story.

The two remaining teams captured the second place spot for the Champion's Award and the first place award for Robot Performance.

All three teams made it to the "final four" in the Robot Performance portion of the event, and brought home trophies for their achievements.

The team representing Maryland in Atlanta will have its FLL World Festival registration fees provided by the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC), which hosted the event in Baltimore last weekend.

It was during the awards ceremony when Trautwein received the FLL Mentor of the Year Award.

"Chuck has been our own 'champion,' leading the way in these competitions," said Malone. "He received the award for his passion, dedication, and commitment to the FIRST vision. Chuck received a standing ovation at the award presentation. He deserved it."

NeXT GEN also received the second place trophy for its research presentation.

The team that received second place for the Champion's Award, the "Radioactive Tater Tots," is made up of students from the Bloomington School. Members are Steven Holtschneider, Jordan Bosley, Logan Bever, Zachary Virts, Hunter Metcalfe, Brandon Tichnell, Brian Wildman, Christin Feaster, Jacob Taylor, and Kelsey Bosley. The coaches are Sandy Rodeheaver and Bloomington teachers Bill Ack and Jennifer Vitez. The team is sponsored by Phenix Technologies Inc.

First place in the Robot Performance category was captured by another group of students from Southern Middle School, the "Four Stooges." Members are Aryne Riley, Ian Jobe, Jacob Bramande, and Jarad Arnold. This team's coaches are Trautwein and parent Jason Jobe.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, and Connie Uphold, Bloomington School principal, all attended the championship event on Saturday.

"This is an outstanding tribute to our students at Southern Middle and Bloomington, and to our teaching staff and the mentors who work with them," said Dr. Teets. "Think of it — out of 63 teams, and Garrett County takes the top three places! And this was Bloomington's first year.

"This accomplishment is a reflection of our entire school system, and our supportive business community as well," the superintendent said. "And the parents of these students are tremendous. The feeling we all had at the awards ceremony was very similar to that feeling of winning a state championship in athletics. I like to call robotics 'athletics of the mind.'"

Teets said the youngsters must enter a room by themselves, with no coaches, and defend their projects to the assembly of judges. Then they are given a teamwork task. He said it is a rigorous process, and that the students have to be alert, ready, and well-informed.

"I just couldn't be prouder of our kids, parents, coaches, and entire county," he said.

FIRST was founded in 1989 by inventor Dean Kamen to inspire young people's interest and participation in science and technology. This is the eighth year that FIRST has held this multinational competition for middle school students, and this was the fourth year for the state championship event in Maryland.

Overall this year, according to Kamen, there were more than 9,000 FLL teams involving at least 60,000 middle school students nationwide. More information about FIRST can be found at www.usfirst.org.

Not Enough Adjectives...

With the 2007 Maryland General Assembly now in session, there are a number of pieces of proposed legislation upon which one can editorialize. However, looking at some of the news in this week's paper about the stellar achievements of Garrett County's young people, we would feel remiss if we did not make mention of them in this column today.

How about our LEGO robotics teams!? While we do not yet know all the details about how this particular competition works, the simple fact of the matter is that, of 63 such teams in the Maryland state championships, it was a clean sweep by our Garrett County kids – first, second, and third places. Amazing!

Meanwhile, we have other young people such as Jakob Scheffel and Jerry (J.D.) Welch, who have won national honors, with Jakob winning the national championship in his weight/age class in wrestling, and J.D. finishing ninth in the country in four-wheeler racing. Outstanding!

We received an e-mail just this morning stating that Southern High student Joanna Guy has been selected from over 1,000 entrants as one of just 23 national finalists in a storytelling competition. Fantastic!

Oh, and let us not forget our young sport aerobic athletes coached by Brenda Brosnihan, who for several years now have won not only national, but even world honors. Remarkable!

Meanwhile, as reported once again within the past few months, the test scores of Garrett County students continue to be among the best in the state. Excellent! (We are about to run out of appropriate adjectives.)

It is likely that there are still others whom we are forgetting, and we note that it is not just this week that we have the pleasure of reporting such great news about our young people; it happens rather frequently.

We extend one big congratulations to all of these outstanding young people for their incredible level of achievement, both physical and intellectual. And the same congrats go to the various coaches, teachers, advisors, and parents, without whom none of this would have been achieved. All of you make us exceedingly proud!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Isn't it ironic, how the tables have turned? We have yet another case where the shoe is on the other foot, and some people do not like it.

For many years humanity has been dumping its crap on the other life forms on the earth. And now, some of those life forms (the crows) are dumping on us. What a riot.

Some people seem threatened by this and are fearful of it. And yet, this is nothing compared to the waste, garbage, toxic chemicals, and poisons we have dumped and continue to dump on all of the life on this planet.

It seems to me that the crows are not the ones posing the threat here. The situation is simply showing us a reflection of what we are doing to ourselves and nature. We would do well to take a lesson from this and change our attitude toward the others with which we share this planet.

Thank you, crows.

To the Editor:

Now that the Taylor family has publicized the wonderful donation from Ann Throp Taylor to the Humane Society, we wish to publicly thank them. (We have done so quietly.) We are very grateful.

I only knew Ann from the Green Acres business. Talking to her, it was obvious she was a lovely, loving, caring, and gracious lady.

Plans are being made to use the donation wisely – a way Ann would approve; something bearing her name.

Since she was especially fond of cats, it would be nice to have an Ann Taylor Cat Room in our new (hopefully) animal shelter.

While caring for my 21 cats and others needing care, I know Ann is up in heaven applauding.

To the Editor:

I need some clarification on a matter you raised in your January 18 editorial.

You mention that over 90% of Wal-Mart employees are already covered by health insurance. Does that mean 90% already have insurance through their spouse, Medicare, or another provider? The numbers I have seen show that less than 50% of full-time employees actually have health insurance through Wal-Mart and the rest are either covered elsewhere, through their spouse, have no coverage at all or choose not to pay the percentage of the premium required in order to be covered by Wal-Mart.

It would be very interesting to know the facts. Thank you.

Helga Williamson
Oakland

Dear Ms. Williamson:

The information in your letter is accurate. It is true that 90% of Wal-Mart employees have health insurance; however, only about 48% of them are actually covered by Wal-Mart, with the rest being covered in the various other ways you mention.

In last week's editorial I gave a Wal-Mart spokesperson the benefit of the doubt when he said that 90% were covered. His statement was true, but obviously a bit misleading. Your letter caused me to dig a bit deeper to find "the rest of the story," and I appreciate it.

To the Editor:

I am writing to publicly thank the members of the Friendsville and Accident volunteer fire departments who responded to the trailer fire on Bear Creek Road late Friday night. They somehow managed to prevent the fire from destroying the downwind adjacent trailer (in which I live). I don't know how they were able to do it, but I am very, very grateful.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

What happed to the town we used to live in?

Saturday I got so frustrated, I could have just screamed. People today have completely forgotten about courtesy, compassion, being neighborly, or just doing something because it is the right thing to do.

I stood on the edge of the street Saturday morning and counted as 35 cars passed and, given the low temperatures and the wind chill, not a one of them gave any thought to slowing down and letting a pedestrian cross the street.

Later in the day, as I approached the door to a downtown shop with my arms full, I stood in utter amazement as a man allowed the door to slam shut behind him, never giving the loaded-down person in front of him a thought. And why is it that only the elderly can shovel their steps and sidewalks?

I know that there are some exceptions to this, but let's just stop for a second and look at what we have become; self-centered, desire-motivated individuals.

I've heard that years ago a Frenchman once visited the United States and while gazing on the Statute of Liberty, made the following statement, "America is great because America is good. if America ever ceases to be good, she will cease to be great." What an amazing statement!

Now, let's examine ourselves and compare ourselves to that American of yesteryear. Oh, we have made some great progress, but at what cost? All throughout history, a few people have brought about a great change.

Garrett County and the surrounding mountaintop do not have to be just like the rest of the world; we still have control over our own actions. Together, let's make this mountaintop more like the great place to live that it used to be and a little less like the big cities.

Editor note: The writer of the following letter requested that it be published here.

Dear Ms. Christine McBee,

I have been a teacher's assistant at Southern Middle School for 28 years. The past two years at Southern Middle have been unique for me because I have a nephew named Alex Mellinger attending our school. I have raised Alex for the past several years.

Alex is a unique child who deals with the effects of mild autism. He works hard at fitting in with his classmates and has made great strides in life. He is currently an honor student in higher level classes. He is also a first-class rank Boy Scout and a truly wonderful young man. Because Alex thinks and behaves somewhat differently, he sometimes receives unwanted comments and heckling from his peers.

I want to commend and personally thank you and your family for the fine young man that you have raised, Wyatt McBee. Wyatt has always gone out of his way to be kind to Alex. I have had teachers tell me that Wyatt sits next to Alex in some classes and helps him when he needs extra directions or does not fully understand something. Wyatt protects Alex from his classmates by quietly answering his questions. He always speaks to Alex in the cafeteria and hallways. That may not seem like much, but to Alex and me, it means everything! I am really impressed by the fact that Wyatt has not been influenced by a couple of "bad apples" who think it is appropriate to make themselves look "cool" by making others feel lower than dirt.

An overwhelming majority of the students at Southern Middle are very nice. But for a select few, I would like their parents to be able to see how some of their kids treat others who are not exactly the same as they. I am quite sure they would be shocked at the cruelty! Maybe these children do not understand what a lasting effect these behaviors can have on another child.

I just felt that Wyatt needed to be commended for his mature, respectful actions. There are many wonderful students who have helped Alex feel like he matters.

Ms. McBee, thank you for raising your son to be respectful to others. Alex and I will be forever grateful to Wyatt for his kindness. With a helpful hand from respectful young students like Wyatt, Alex will make it.

Respectfully,
Connie Carpenter

To the Editor:

It is that time of year again – tax time! The local AARP – Tax Aide Program volunteers have just completed two weeks of training and now have seven IRS-certified tax preparation counselors and four client facilitators ready to serve the tri-state area. All returns prepared will be e-filed free for clients of this program, and refunds usually can be expected to arrive within a few days with direct-deposit into a checking or savings account.

This year the program's main office will be located in the former Rose Terrace facilities on the second floor of the Community Action building on Center Street in Oakland. Clients may enter from the large parking lot side of the building and use either the stairs or an elevator to reach the area. Signs will be posted directing taxpayers to the tax center. Outreach services will be available in senior centers in Grantsville and Friendsville, with scheduling being done through the local Area Agency on Aging (301-334-9431, ext. 139) and at the Community Services building at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for GCMH employees only, with dates and times provided through the assistance of the Human ...rces Department.

...st year, with just seven full-time volunteers, this program served almost 600 clients. Nationwide 2 million taxpayers were assisted by just 18,000 volunteers.

More volunteers will be needed for next year if this program is to continue to grow and be a vital part of this community. I hope there are more individuals who will be willing to step forward, learn more about this program this year, and take the training to become certified tax preparers for the 2007 season. Any organization which would like to have one of our volunteers come to a meeting to speak about this program is asked to call me at 301-387-4241.

The schedule for the Oakland Tax Center beginning on Jan. 30 is as follows: Tuesdays and Thursdays, noon to 4 p.m.; Wednesdays, 4 to 7 p.m.; and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

While this program is sponsored by AARP and housed at the Community Action Center, not only senior citizens and/or low-income families are eligible to be served. Citizens of all ages and income levels may qualify for services. For more information call 301-334-2953.

The volunteers participating in this program thank the folks at Community Action for the great cooperation and assistance which they have provided throughout the many years this program has operated in their building.

Gives Update

by the Garrett County Health Department and other sources.

"Certainly there will be another opportunity for public input and comment, but [it] will be more of a presentation," Nelson said about the second meeting.

The director also reported that Thousand Acres Development Inc. (TAD) filed a notice for appeal with the Maryland Court of Special Appeals regarding a recent Garrett County Circuit Court ruling. In December, Judge Jim Sherbin reversed the decision of the local zoning appeals board to grant TAD a special exception application to build a golf course clubhouse in the Thousand Acres area of Deep Creek Lake. Nine property owners whose land is located near the proposed clubhouse had asked the Circuit Court to reverse the board's decision.

Nelson said the county attorney, who represented the zoning appeals board in Circuit Court, has also filed a notice of appeal with the Maryland Court of Special Appeals regarding the case.

Nelson reported on another zoning case that was heard last Thursday in Circuit Court – Mayor and Town Council of Oakland vs Laurance B. Wolfe.

Following this civil trial, Judge Fred Thayer ordered that Wolfe cease and desist renting any rooms and apartments on his High Street property within 45 days. Wolfe is also prohibited from operating any apartments without a special exception as provided by the town, operating any commercial business not permitted by the town's zoning ordinance, and operating a rooming house.

Nelson said the case had been ongoing for five years.

Chief Jim Torrington, Permits and Inspections Division, presented the county commissioners with an end-of-year summary of building permits.

Last year, he said, a total of 683 building permits were issued, with a builder declared value of $122.4 million. Of those permits, 254 were for single family homes (stick built or modular) and 47 were for double-wide and singlewide mobile homes.

Permits were down 4.48 percent last year, compared to 2005, when 715 permits were issued. Builder declared value, however, increased by 12.79 percent and square footage increased by 9.83 percent, compared to 2005. Torrington noted, however, that the increases were partly because of ClosetMaid, a 154,000 square-foot project costing approximately $9 million.

The chief added that about 35 permits have been issued so far this year.

Supervisor Pat Kelly, licensing and enforcement, reported to the commissioners on licensing activity for transient vacation rental units (TVRU) at Deep Creek Lake. There are about 800 units within the lake watershed. Inspections are conducted before licenses are issued.

Since inspections began in April 2006, 410 TVRUs have been inspected so far. Of those, 336 have actually received licenses, Kelly said.

"We project having all of the initial inspections done by about the beginning of July," he said.

Mark Weber, licensing and enforcement officer, showed the commissioners a map of the lake that indicated areas where TVRUs have been inspected.

Kelly also reported on the junkyard ordinance. There are eight registered junkyards in the county, which are inspected annually prior to license renewal.

Additionally, his office received 14 complaints about junkyard violations last year. Of those, seven are still being investigated, Kelly said. He and Weber indicated that violators are given specific instructions on what improvements are needed, how long they have to fix the problems, and what the penalties are for not doing so.

Kelly also reported on livability rental code violations. "Most complaints in 2006 came from residents who live within incorporated towns," he said. In this case, the municipal codes officer handles the complaints. Kelly said the county did investigate three complaints from residents who did not live in towns.

The supervisor also reported on the mobile home park tax and presented the commissioners with revenue figures. There are 13 mobile home parks and four privately owned camp grounds in the county, all of which were inspected last year, he said. He added that a "couple" of violations were found.

Kelly also reported that his office worked with the county's tax office to determine what businesses are behind on paying their accommodations tax.

"I've been given four of those," he said about the delinquent cases. "Some of those are more than a year behind on payments." He added that he has contacted those business owners, and some have paid their overdue taxes.

The supervisor also reported that he has been working on the county's proposed blighted property ordinance. He is researching other counties in Maryland, as well as jurisdictions outside the state, to see what regulations other areas have in their already established ordinances.

In doing a probable cause search of the vehicle, officers found and seized an unspecified amount of marijuana, a smoking pipe, and other paraphernalia, according to the police.

Kingwood residents Ryan Christopher Stratton, 18, the driver, and passengers Michael Wade Lowdermilk, 18, and the female juvenile were charged with possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, and underage drinking. In addition, Lowdermilk was charged with violation of an out-of-state protective order.

Motor Vehicle Accidents Caused By Snowy Roads

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the intersection of Gorman Road and Gorman Street Friday morning for a motor vehicle collision involving a tractor trailer.

Bertha Mae Hale-Cooper was traveling in a 1994 Chevy four-door sedan when the vehicle slid on the snow-covered roadway into the intersection. Gregory Allen Sisler was traveling on Gorman Road in a 2001 Peter Built tractor trailer hauling logs.

Hale-Cooper slid into the path of the tractor trailer, causing the tractor to impact the driver's side door of the Sedan.

Southern Garrett Rescue transported Hale-Cooper to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Gorman Fire Department and the State Highway Administration also assisted at the scene.

In an unrelated incident, deputies responded to the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort that same evening for a motor vehicle accident involving one vehicle. The accident occurred on Youghiogheny Blvd., just past Deer Run Road.

Upon arrival, a 2003 Jeep Grand Cherokee, operated by Gary Joseph Seddon, 54, of Deale, was located over an embankment.

Seddon lost control on the icy roadway, causing him to enter a ditch off the northbound lane. He was able to exit the ditch, which caused him to cross the roadway and travel over an embankment off the southbound lane.

The driver and passenger were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of their injuries.

Also assisting at the scene was Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Tractor Trailer Switching Lanes Causes Accident

The driver of a 1994 Kenworth tractor trailer traveling westbound on I-68 west switched lanes and struck a 2002 PT Cruiser, causing it spin out of control and strike the center median guardrail Thursday, according to the Maryland State Police.

John Nolan, 49, Frostburg, switched lanes just inside the Garrett County line when he noticed the lane he was driving in was coming to an end. However, he failed to spot the vehicle that was traveling next to him as he pulled into the left lane. The impact caused Loretta Humbertson, 38, Lost City, W.Va., to lose control of her vehicle, and the subsequent crash injured her 16-year-old passenger.

The Frostburg Rescue Squad transported the victims to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. No charges have yet been filed.

Local Woman Crashes Vehicle Into Utility Pole

Rescue units arrived at the scene of the accident and found Pritts trapped in her vehicle. She was extricated from the wreck, and then flown to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Maryland State Police Trooper 5 helicopter. There were no passengers, and the condition of Pritts is unknown. No charges have yet been filed.

To the Editor:

The Town of Mountain Lake Park has twice gone on record against the Oakland bypass. First about safety concerns, and second after learning that the so-called bypass would funnel over 100 large trucks a day through our town. The second time we officially notified the State Highway Administration that we were withdrawing all support for the project. Copies of both of these communications were sent to our locally elected leaders. As of this date we haven't received one response from a locally elected official.

The bypass is currently a $42,000,000, two-mile project. Local official wisdom is that if we cancel the project we will lose the money. A local politico said it would make us "look bad downstate." Keep in mind this is all taxpayers' money—yours and mine. If the money could be spent more wisely in another part of the state, so be it.

Want an independent opinion? In Roads to Ruin, a publication of Taxpayers for Common Sense, the Oakland bypass is listed as one of the 50 most wasteful road projects in the United States.

If you live in Mountain Lake Park, your life is about to get more exciting. You may be someone who tries to enter Route 135 from one of our town streets. It's bad enough now, but consider the additional truck traffic coming soon. If you drive to Oakland on Oakland Drive your life is about to change. This street will dead end when the bypass is constructed.

If you have children in Southern High, Dennett Road Elementary, Southern Middle, or Broad Ford Elementary, you should be alarmed. Check out the design. A roundabout on Dennett Road, a suicide four-way stop on Memorial Drive, and a bubble bridge on High Street. Some of you are probably old enough to remember open classrooms. When Garrett County started constructing them, the state was putting up walls in schools downstate. When SHA wises up, the taxpayers will be making major investments in reconstructing the bypass. It seems that there is no limit to our capacity to fund idiotic projects.

If you live at Deep Creek Lake, you should be aghast. Again, this project encourages more and more traffic to come through an already congested area. If this project is built it could be the ------ that kills the goose that laid the golden egg (Deep Creek Lake development).

If you own a business in downtown Oakland, you should be alarmed. The bypass is a "stated" limited access highway. So is Route 219 through Deep Creek Lake. The limits must be very liberal. If the bypass is built, most Oakland businesses will be forced to move to this new commercial corridor or die.

So, what's the answer?

Oakland's traffic problems can be drastically reduced by a state project called Streetscape. This methodology has been used all over the State of Maryland to relieve traffic problems in small towns. This should have been the first step in curing traffic problems, not the last (as it is now).

Second, there is a much simpler and less costly alternative to a bypass: Route 495. With a few minor fixes, this route could help alleviate the problems in Oakland and not harm surrounding areas.

What can you do?

Call or write you local representatives (Oakland Mayor & Town Council, Garrett County Commissioners, Senator Edwards, and Delegate Beitzel). Call or write Governor O'Malley. Tell him you have a good idea for saving $42,000,000 (he has a huge problem). Call or write Senator Mikulski, Senator Cardin, and Representative Bartlett (they also have budget problems).

Last, and probably the best, attend the meetings of Garrett Countains for Smart Growth. The next meeting is at 7 p.m. this evening, January 25, at the Garrett Memorial Hospital Community Building, and the meeting after that will be held at the same place and time on Wednesday, February 7.

Local Personal Care Program Aids Elderly, Disabled, Chronically Ill

by Leigh Clements

Are you or your loved one in need of some extra help doing your personal care? If so, one of the long-standing health care programs the Garrett County Health Department provides for elderly, chronically ill, or disabled persons who qualify is the state-funded Medical Assistance Personal Care Services Program (PCP).

"The PCP was started in the 1980s through the efforts of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) with the goal of helping qualified persons remain in their homes by giving them help with daily activities such as feeding, dressing, bathing, toileting, and mobility," said a county health care spokesperson.

The program is set up to train selected people to become personal care providers who can go into the home of PCP clients and help them with simple daily activities as well as household services directly related to medical needs. The PCP will pay for a personal care provider and a registered nurse case monitor for those qualified.

"The registered nurse case monitor makes home visits every 60 to 120 days to ensure quality services are provided to meet the client's needs," the PCP spokesperson said.

The case monitor also meets with the personal care aide and the qualified client to explain the plan of care, and to demonstrate special techniques needed to care for the medical assistance recipient, according to a Kim Powell, the registered nurse care monitor for Garrett County. "The plan of care will be reviewed and approved by the client's doctor," Powell said.

As of this January, there are 13 PCP clients who receive assistance and 19 more qualified people waiting for assistance. "Right now we need help," said Powell. "We need more personal care providers."

A personal care provider must be someone who is at least 18 years of age, enrolled in the PCP, dedicated to helping others, responsible and reliable, able to read, write and follow directions in English, certified by a physician as capable of performing the needed tasks, not a member of the client's immediate family, and willing to undergo a criminal background test, according to PCP guidelines.

This means that no spouse, child, parent, sibling, in-law, or step-status person is eligible to become a personal care provider. However, grandchildren, nieces, nephews, cousins, boyfriends, or girlfriends do qualify, according to Powell.

If qualified, personal care providers receive $11, $22, $30, or $50 per day, depending on what services the recipient needs. "Payment comes from the state, but providers are not state employees and are not eligible for state benefits.

To qualify as a recipient for the PCP services a person must be eligible for medical assistance, elderly, chronically ill or disabled, under a doctor's care, a Garrett County resident, and in need of help with daily activities such as feeding, grooming, bathing, toileting, meal preparation, changing linens, personal laundry assistance, and limited shopping.

According to Powell, the registered nurse case monitor not only assesses the need for personal care but also works with the recipient to develop a plan of care, assists in locating a personal care provider, and monitors the care provided to the program participants.

As a special service, Garrett County Health Department offers a free adult evaluation and review assessment to any adult living in Garrett County. "The Adult Evaluation and Review Services assess a person's medical and social service needs by doing a basic routine check-up, reviewing existing medications, and determining the need for assistance," said Powell.

The evaluation team consists of a registered nurse and a licensed social worker. "As part of the evaluation service, one of the team members will talk to the client and the clients family about the services that are available to help the person remain in the home," said Powell. "The team will also determine if the person is eligible for the PCP."

"Right now we have openings for 19 personal care providers," Powell said. "We need seven in Oakland, one in Crellin, three in Mtn. Lake Park, three in Friendsville, two in Accident, two in Grantsville, and one in Kitzmiller."

According to Powell, many of the clients who currently receive personal care would not be able to stay in their homes without the extra help the provider gives.

For more information regarding the PCP, persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department's Maryland Medical Assistance Program on Tuesday or Wednesday 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 301-334-7740 or 301-895-3113.

4-H Club News

RED HOUSE
by Annie Graham, reporter

The January Red House 4-H Club meeting was held Wednesday, Jan. 3, at 7 p.m.

The meeting was called to order by Jordan Skipper, president, and Randy Cussins led the pledges. Sara Brenneman, secretary, reported on the minutes from the December meeting, old business, and new business. Cassie Cussins then gave the treasury report.

Items discussed on the agenda included the following: an upcoming meeting for the new 2007 officers; the Miller family will coordinate all the fund-raisers for the new year; the Skipper family will coordinate the 2007 4-H fair booth; and the Graham and Friend families will oversee the plans for the December Christmas dinner.

The club decided to hold the following events in the new year: bowling, a visit to the Fright Farm, a corn roast/family picnic, an ice-cream social, and the annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner.

Justin Fitzwater then completed his demonstration, and Ryan Fitzwater adjourned the meeting.

MEADOW MOUNTAIN
by Cara Bauermaster, reporter

Meadow Mtn. 4-H Club met at Diane Merrill's home on Jan. 8.

The meeting was called to order by Zach Merrill. Kurtis Broadwater and Tyler Sweeney led the pledges. Kelsey Smith had roll call and read the minutes.

A correction was noted that the club can only sell one quilt at the fair at a time.

Old business that was discussed included plans to continue working on the quilt and to continue working on books, which must be turned in to Marcy or Diane this month.

New business included Marcy Smith's plans to do a lamb project with the supplies available from the extension office for the next meeting. Projects for next month were assigned to Tyler Sweeney and Kurtis Broadwater.

Members had some difficulty threading the needle for quilting, but assistance was available.

Wanda Broadwater noted that at the next meeting, the group will play Poleko and work on the quilt.

The meeting was adjourned by Kurtis and Derek Broadwater.

Backbone Mtn. Review Writers To Give Reading

Western Maryland authors with work published in the 2007 edition of Backbone Mountain Review will share an evening of poetry and creative writing at a public reading, to be held at Main Street Books in Frostburg on Feb. 1, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The event is being hosted by the Garrett County Arts Council in collaboration with the Allegany Arts Council.

Backbone Mountain Review is a new bi-county literary journal showcasing the works of western Maryland creative writers. The 2007 edition features the writings of 26 authors complemented by black-and-white images by Garrett County photographer Guy Hinebaugh.

Copies of the journal are currently available at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council in Oakland, at local branches of the Ruth Enlow Library, and at the Saville Gallery in Cumberland. Free copies will also be available at Main Street Books in Frostburg on the evening of Feb. 1 for those attending the reading.

Backbone Mountain Review was initiated in the spring of 2006 as a collaborative project between the Garrett County Arts Council and the Allegany Arts Council with support from the Creative Writing Center at Frostburg State University. Two hundred manuscripts were submitted and reviewed by a six-person editorial board with three editors participating from each of the two counties.

Funding for the project was provided by a National Endowment for the Arts/ Challenge America grant from the Maryland State Arts Council and by a financial contribution from New Page Corporation, with additional funding from the Garrett County and Allegany arts councils.

Additional information about the review or the reading in Frostburg is available by contacting the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or the Allegany Arts Council at 301-777-2787.

FSU PHOTO CONTEST UNDER WAY – The Environmental Planning and Land Management Institute at Frostburg State University invites amateur photographers to submit photographs to its fourth annual Environmental Photography Contest. The competition is open to any amateur photographer over 11 years old who lives, works, or attends school in either Allegany or Garrett County. Images should depict environmental or natural habitat scenes of Allegany or Garrett County that reflect the natural environment that defines western Maryland. Each photograph should be 8 by 10 inches and matted. Entry forms may be obtained from the FSU Department of Geography/Bureau of Mines Lab or from the institute's web site at Frostburg.Edu/Dept/Geog/Einstitute. Participants may submit no more than three photographs. The deadline for submitting entries is April 6. Contest winners were awarded more than $1,200 in cash, prizes, and awards last year. Pictured is last year's first-place winner, Matthew Goldman, left, with Sen. George Edwards. For additional information, persons may call 301-687-4369 or 301-687-4721 or visit the institute's web site.

Local Storyteller To Compete In National Contest

Oakland area resident Joanna Guy has been chosen as a finalist in a national storytelling event. She will travel to Pigeon Forge, Tenn., next week to tell her tale at the National Youth Storytelling Showcase (NYSS). Guy is a student at Southern High School.

The competition, in partnership with the National Storytelling Network, is part of Pigeon Forge's 16th annual Smoky Mountains Storytelling Festival, slated Feb. 1-3.

Joanna's original story, "Hyperbole," was selected from nearly 1,000 entries nationwide. Twenty-three finalists will travel to Pigeon Forge where they will compete in three age categories. The winner of each category will earn the title Storytelling Torchbearer, and one overall winner will be named Grand Torchbearer.

The NYSS promotes and encourages the art and science of storytelling among pre-adult communicators. Contest entrants must be 17 years of age and younger.

For more information about Smoky Mountains Storytelling Festival, and the National Youth Storytelling Showcase, persons may call the Pigeon Forge Office of Special Events at 865-429-7350.

Everyone is asked to bring his or her own sheet music, headshot, and resumé.

Anyone wishing to audition is asked to telephone WVPT's office at 304-291-4117 to make an appointment.

More Info On Photo Contest Is Released

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has recently announced a new photography contest which has resulted in a number of calls requesting more information. Although open for submissions as of Jan. 15, the "12/15 of Garrett County" photo contest will begin in March to give photographers the opportunity to make plans.

"I am pleased by the interest that has been shown so far by our amateur photographers," said Charlie Ross, president and CEO of the Chamber. "As we like to say, Garrett County has 'mountains of possibilities.'"

The chamber challenges residents and visitors to take photos of a favorite location on or around the 15th of each month. Photos submitted and approved will be posted on the Chamber web site. At the end of the year a $1,000 award will be given for the "best year" of photos.

The photos can be scenic shots, of towns, buildings, people in a certain location, etc. They should be creative, but consistently in a certain location at a similar time each month.

This contest is open only to amateur photographers, not those who make a living in photography. Photos by professional photographers may also be posted upon request. Those interested may enter as many shots as desired.

Photos submitted may be used by the Chamber of Commerce in its publications, with credit given to the photographer.

Persons interested in viewing sample shots may visit www.visitdeepcreek.com/contest.

Photos should be sent to Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 12/15s contest, 15 Visitors Center Way, McHenry, MD 21541, or, preferably, e-mailed to contest@garrettchamber.com. Those entering the contest are asked to designate the name of the contest, his/her name, address, phone number, and e-mail address.

Persons interested in more information may contact Jo Donaldson at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 301-387-4386, ext. 11, or e-mail jod@garrettchamber.com.

Anette SanJulian Awarded Child Care Credential

Anette SanJulian of the Garrett County Community Action Committee has been awarded a child development associate (CDA) credential in recognition of outstanding work with young children. The credential was awarded by the Council for Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C., which represents the early childhood profession.

SanJulian is an assistant teacher with the GCCAC Early Head Start Program in Oakland. Early Head Start is a child and family development program serving children 6 weeks to 36 months of age and pregnant women.

CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluation and recognize the skills of individuals providing care. The first credential was awarded 25 years ago, and now 46 states plus the District of Columbia include CDA in their child care licensing regulations.

A part of the CDA assessment process is that every candidate for the CDA credential is observed working with young children or families by an early childhood professional. In addition, the candidate must demonstrate the ability to work with families to develop children's physical and intellectual capabilities in a safe and healthy learning environment.

Child care staff and parents wanting information on CDA should write to the Council for Professional Recognition at 2460 16th Street, Washington, DC 20009-3575, or call 202-265-9090 or 1-800-424-4310.

For more information about the GCCAC Early Head Start Program persons may contact the office at 301-533-0270 or 301-334-4211, or call the Garrett County Community Action Head Start office for information at 301-334-9431 ext. 126 or 1-888-877-8403.

Jeff Stem and Jordan Pacella scored 10 apiece for the Rams.

"They were the best team that we've seen all year," said Paul Pacella Southern's coach. "They were very athletic and quick, and were better than the teams we played in the Snowball Christmas Classic, and we get some pretty good teams."

Bowling Brook put up 19 points in the first quarter, and held Southern to three. Bowling led at halftime 25-7 and went into the fourth quarter ahead 39-18.

Dante Lacey and Carl Walker led Bowling Brook with 16 points apiece.

Sammy Brackett led Westmar in scoring with 11 points.

However, when the Huskies failed to make a go-ahead basket, they were forced to foul, and Tyler Wharton took over, hitting 5 of 6 shots from the line in the remaining time to help Allegany clinch a 56-49 victory in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League game Tuesday night. Above left, Garrett Gulledge (#32) tries to avoid a charging penalty as he attempts to toss in two of his game-high 13 points. Teammate Roland Fisher (#44) moves in from the backcourt for a potential follow-up. HUSKIES UNSEAT RAMS – Every local wrestling fan knew that the first match between the Southern Rams and Northern Huskies, both undefeated, was going to be the proverbial barn-burner. The Rams were a slight favorite going into the match, as they were ranked the top public high school team in the state of Maryland. But the Huskies pulled off the upset with a one-point victory, 28-27. Battling each other in the photo directly above are Northern's Dustin Stough and Southern's Jonathan Feaster, with Stough emerging with a 4-3 decision win. Starting with the center column of photos, and moving from top to bottom: Travis Glover (N) controls Nicholas Brant, and ultimately wins on points in overtime; David Stewart (S) earns a decision over Andrew Reynolds; Jason Warnick (N) records one of the few pins in the match over Josh Arnold; Nick Farmer (S) nearly pins Jason Doerr, and ends up with a one-point decision; and Andy Ganoe (N) pins Kody Lewis. Beginning at the top of the second column of photos and moving from top to bottom: George Scheffel (S) (top) gains a decision over Josh Duckworth; Brock Glotfelty (N), normally a 215-pound wrestler, moves up to the heavyweight division and decisions Sean Sisler; Andrew Pritts (S) entangles Mike Resh en route to a decision win; Adam Mor-anduzzo (N) ties up Lee Custer and goes on to gain a decision; and Cory Reckart (S) bear hugs Kory Kamp and ultimately wins on points. The two teams will face each other again one week from today on the Rams' mats. Photos by John McEwen.

Husky Grapplers Nip Rams In Battle Of The Unbeatens

The Garrett County battle of the unbeatens in high school wrestling, held Monday between host Northern and visiting Southern, lived up to the expectation that the outcome would likely be close, as the Huskies pulled off a mild upset in recording a 28-27 decision over the Rams.

Southern came into the match as the top-ranked team in Maryland – not just for 1A and 2A schools, but among all public high school teams in the state. But the 8-0 Rams and their coach, Dave Taylor, knew that it would be their biggest regular-season challenge to date, as the Huskies and Coach Scott Stough were also unbeaten and sporting a 10-0 mark.

A different takedown here or just one extra escape there could have resulted in a Southern victory, as each and every individual match had the potential for a lead-altering effect on the team scores.

A problem going in for the Rams was the unavailability of 135-pound senior and reigning state runner-up Daniel Carr, who was dressed for the match, but could not compete because of a shoulder injury he sustained last week.

"Obviously there were some huge individual victories for us in the match," said Coach Stough, who noted the overtime win by Travis Glover over Nicholas Brant in the 130-pound class, the 4-3 decision by Dustin Stough over Jonathan Feaster in the 145-pound bout, and Northern's Mike Resh being able to avoid being pinned by Southern's Andrew Pritts in the 160-pound division, as Pritts won 6-3.

"This was certainly one of our biggest team wins ever," Stough added.

The evenness in most of the divisions was evident by the fact that, of the 14 weight classes, there were only three victories by pinfalls, two by Northern and one by Southern.

Northern's pins were recorded by Jason Warnick in the 119 pound bout and Andrew Ganoe in the 152-pound clash, while Southern's lone pin was gained by defending state champion Justin Ratliff in the 189-pound division.

Huskies who won on points besides Glover and Stough were Adam Moranduzzo in the 135-pound division, Brandon Opel at 171 pounds, and Brock Glotfelty, who moved up from the 215-pound class to 285.

Rams who won on decisions besides Pritts were Dave Stewart at 103 pounds, George Scheffel at 112, Josh Armstrong at 125, Cory Reckart at 140, Andrew Pritts at 160, and Nick Farmer at 215.

Following the match with Southern, the Huskies competed against Westmar and won all but one match among 14, finishing with a lopsided 72-5 victory.

Getting pins for the Huskies were Andrew Reynolds at 103 pounds, Duckworth, Warnick, Glover, and Kamp, while Stough recorded a technical fall. Moranduzzo, Ganoe, and Opel all won via decisions.

Forfeits were awarded to Northern's Randy Wilhelm (125), Jason Doerr (189), Glotfelty, and Justin Carr (275).

The lone victory for the Wildcats was a decision win by Brandon Kyle in the 160-pound division.

The 12-0 Huskies will compete in the always challenging Bedford Tournament this Friday and Saturday, will host Fort Hill in a 7 p.m. match next Wednesday, and must then travel to Oakland next Thursday to meet the Southern Rams again in a 7:30 re-match.

Meanwhile, the Rams are slated to host Westmar this evening and then go on the road Friday to face both Harford Tech and Westminster before hosting the Huskies next Thursday.

Local Student Ninth In Nation In Grand National Cross Country Racing Series

Jerry ("J.D.") Welch, 12, Oakland, was among the racers recognized recently at the annual awards banquet for the GNCC (Grand National Cross Country) series, held at the Four Points Sheraton in Cranberry, Pa. Nationally, J.D. placed ninth in the nation of youth ages 11-15 riding on 90-CC 4-wheelers that are modified from their production set-ups.

Racing as part of the Polaris Team, J.D.'s production 4-wheeler is provided to him by Polaris.

The series includes 12 races held in various locations in Florida, Ohio, Missouri, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Indiana. Although the GNCC series does race locally, the course at the Wisp has not been suitable for youth 4-wheeler races in the past.

law Races held in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia. These races, hosted by Paul Koontz Racing, include youngsters from the local area, some of whom are the same racers that J.D. vies against in GNCC competition. At the Paul Koontz awards banquet this month, J.D. will recognized for placing first in his class.

At the GNCC banquet, J.D. noted his appreciation to those who contributed to his success this year. In addition to Polaris, the youth thanked Ronnie Wilson of Wilson Racing, Smithfield, Pa., for modifying the stock 4-wheeler for racing, and his grandparents, Mike and Judy Gainer and Denver and Lisa Welch, for taking care of the family's home and animals so his family can travel for the races.

J.D. is a 7th grade student at Southern Middle School and lives near Oakland with his parents, Jerry and Tracey Welch, and sister Mandy.

"J.D. is excited that he will have the opportunity to compete in front of local fans on the Wisp course, which is literally in his back yard, as it will be youth ready for the 2007 GNCC series," said his mother, Tracey.

Racing in 12 races, J.D. amassed 90 points in the rigorous competition that resulted in a mere five points separating the sixth through ninth places. While he was extremely pleased with his performance this year, J.D. said he would have placed higher if he hadn't experienced a run of bad luck, which included running out of fuel and being rear-ended by another 4-wheeler that caused significant damage and time loss.

In addition to traveling around the country for the GNCC series, J.D. also races in the District 5 Out-

YOUNG J.D. WELCH RACES TO SUCCESS — Jerry (J.D.) Welch, 12, was honored recently for achieving ninth place in the nation in his division of racers in the Grant National Cross Country racing series. Rams 8th Graders Defeat BW, 43-39, Improve To 3-0

The Southern Rams 8th grade boys' basketball team clipped a strong Bishop Walsh team 43-39 to remain undefeated in the Tri-County League.

Joey Kisselovich scored 17 points, and teammate Calvin Hilliard added 10.

"The game didn't start the way we wanted it too. We found ourselves down 9-0, and had to call a quick timeout," Southern coach James Burns said. Bishop Walsh utilized a 1-3-1 half court trap that shut down the Ram's offense, according to Burns. The Rams continued to struggle throughout the first quarter, falling behind 13-5.

"After the first period our boys settled down and started playing Rams basketball," Burns said. The Rams picked up the pace, as Kisselovich started to work his inside game, scoring nine of his 17 points in the first half to help the Rams take a 22-21 lead into the locker room.

It was a back-and-forth game in the second half. Bryson Knox and Sean Rollman kept the Rams in the game with their strong defensive play, Burns said. "The whole team did well, and didn't give up. It was a great win, and I believe we're going to have a great year," Burns added.

The Rams face a tough week, as their county rivals, the Northern Huskies, come to town. "They have a great point guard, who is the son of Garrett basketball coach Dennis Gibson. He gets a lot of gym time, and it shows," Burns said.

The Rams (3-0) will play Northern on Saturday at Southern Middle School at 2 p.m.

Northern Youth Wrestlers Vie In Hyndman Event

Every member of the Northern Youth Wrestling Team placed in the Hyndman Li'l Stingers Wrestling Tournament, held Saturday at Hyndman, Pa.

Individual first places were captured by the following NYWT members: Zachary Haer, age 9-10, 60 pounds; Justin Opel, 9-10, 65; Cody Osselburn, 9-10, 75; and Jason Opel, 13-15, 160.

Winning runner-up trophies were Logan Yommer, 7-8, 70, and Matt Thomas, 13-15, 112. Third places were earned by Saylor Wampler, 7-8, 75; Ryan Weimer, 7-8, 90; and James Donahue, 13-15, 80; while Ryan Miller, 9-10, 110, finished fourth.

The team will compete again this Saturday in the Southern Mat Club's tournament, to be held at Southern High School.
